JOSEPH COTTON IS DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Undersecretary Expires at Baltimore After Operations.

FRIEND OF HOOVER FOR MANY YEARS

Named to State Department in May, 1929; Gained Fame for Frankness.

Baltimore, Md., March 10 (A.P.).—Joseph Potter Cotton, who as Undersecretary of State for nearly two years gained a reputation for frank and direct diplomatic methods, died late today at Johns Hopkins Hospital, where he had undergone two major operations in the last six weeks.

Death came at 5:10 o'clock, after the administration of oxygen had failed to prolong his life. At his bedside were his wife and daughter, Isabel, and his New York law partner, George S. Franklin.

Earlier in the day Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, was called, and last night Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, informed that his colleague was dying, visited him. Mr. Cotton was 55 years old. He underwent an operation for spinal infection on January 21, and on February 16 his right eye was removed.

Acted for Stimson.

The Undersecretary bore the chief burden of the State Department's work during the absence of Secretary Stimson at the London Naval Conference, and his health failed last summer. In the fall he took two months' leave of absence and had his tonsils removed, but this failed to restore him, and he became a patient of Dr. Walter E. Dandy, the brain specialist, at Johns Hopkins, early this year.

Long a friend of President Hoover, Mr. Cotton was appointed in May, 1929. He was one of a group who worked with Mr. Hoover when the latter was food administrator during the World War and later Secretary of Commerce.

(Associated Press.)

Joseph Potter Cotton introduced into the State Department a method of diplomacy perhaps unique in international relations.

He met problems which arose during his tenure of office with an ease that astonished his colleagues.

The Undersecretary came to the department with 30 years of highly successful legal practice behind him, a background which played a large part in making his new job easier. Unlike many other Government officials, he always kept the door of his office open to all callers. His telephone rang incessantly as Government colleagues, New York financiers and even President Hoover sought his advice.

Worth Salary Many Times.

He was regarded as one of the keenest minds ever drafted into Government service. He came from a private law practice many times more lucrative than the $10,000 a year salary he received.

Astute diplomats in formal dress, hurrying clerks and newspaper men were received alike by the Undersecretary. His favorite working position was leaning back in a spring chair, his feet placed in the opened second drawer of his desk, with his papers and correspondence high on his lap. A corncob pipe, which he smoked in-

TAXI DRIVER KILLED, TRIO HURT BY CRASH

Passenger Tells Policeman Washington Man Fell Asleep at Wheel.

Simon P. Cornwell, 38, was fatally injured and Norman Pulliam, 18, received grave hurts yesterday when the taxicab, driven by Cornwell, in which they were riding, collided head-on with another machine on the Belair road, 1 mile north of Kingville, Md. Cornwell lived at 1337 C street northeast, Pulliam at 1919 Calvert street northwest.

The driver died at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, of a fractured skull and internal injuries.

With Cornwell dozing at the wheel, according to Pulliam, the cab, bound for Washington from Philadelphia, swerved into a car operated by W. H. Martin, of Springfield, Mo., but temporarily staying in Baltimore, who was taking Miss Fannie Dowling to Havre de Grace, where Miss Dowling is chief operator at the telephone exchange.

Martin's car veered from the road and against a tree while the taxicab was ditched.

After receiving first aid from Dr. Charles E. Benson, of Kingsville, the two seriously injured were taken to the hospital by the Cockeysville Volunteer Fire Department's ambulance. Miss Dowling and Martin were treated on the scene for cuts and bruises.

Pulliam, who also received a fractured skull and internal injuries, recovered sufficiently to tell State Policeman George Fauth, who investigated the mishap, that Cornwell fell asleep a few moments before the other car approached.

Martin was to be taken in custody pending action of the coroner.

Green Assails Veto Of Jobs Measure

Harrison Lays Hoover's Action to Democratic Origin of Bill.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was criticized yesterday by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and by Senator Harrison for his pocket-veto of the Wagner unemployment bill.

Mr. Green said in a statement the "reasons offered for the exercise of the presidential veto are unconvincing and unacceptable," and that "the working people of the United States are deeply disappointed."

Mr. Harrison, a Mississippi Democrat, charged the President with vetoing the measure because it was a Democratic proposal.

"Because of the deep interest which labor had in this measure," Green said, "the refusal of the President to approve it is regarded as a direct and severe blow to working people in the industrial sections of our country who are unemployed and are forced to seek work."

WATSON FIRES QUESTIONS AT PROGRESSIVES

Republican Senator Asks Convention to State Stand on Issues.

RECEIPT OF LETTER IS DENIED BY NORRIS.

Sarcastic Answers Hinted, if Noticed; Meetings Will Open This Morning.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate, last night challenged the 175 Progressives who are meeting here today to answer what amounts to a political catechism.

He asked them to make their position clear on fourteen questions, and though his language was smooth and saccharine, the Progressives no doubt will feel that the Indiana senator was engaged in a bit of long-range heckling.

For example, he asked them whether or not they favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment, a subject that is taboo at today's meeting. He asked them whether they favor recognition of Russia, a question that even Borah, of Idaho, the champion of recognition, wants to avoid at the conference. He asked them whether they favor the adoption of the dole system, and he asked as many other embarrassing questions as he could think of.

Wrote From New York.

Senator Watson, who, at various times has been sorely harassed by the Progressive senators who called today's conference, harassed them from New York.

He announced there that he had embodied his fourteen questions in a letter to Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, who will preside at the conference. The Nebraskan said last night, however, that he had not received the letter. Consequently, he would not comment.

Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, would only say that the Watson letter "speaks for itself."

The letter to Senator Norris, which Senator Watson made public, said:

"The entire country is interested in the meeting of those who are pleased to call themselves Progressives that will be held in Washington tomorrow, of which, according to the reports of the press, you are to be chairman, and for that reason I am addressing this communication to you.

Asks Unequivocal Answers.

"In order that your position may be clearly defined and that the people of the country may know to just what extent they will be able to coincide with your views, and believing that those assembled will be pleased to fearlessly state their position on all public questions, I am taking the liberty of addressing the following queries to you hoping that the honorable men assembled will see fit to give explicit and unequivocal answers to them in the interest of clarity:

"Should the eighteenth amendment be repealed? If not, then should the Federal Government take over the enforcement responsibility of the State?

"Should Russia be recognized? Should the Government undertake the ownership and operation of the railways? Should the Government take over and operate the electrical power business of the country? Should the Constitution be amended to give Congress power to override decisions of the Supreme Court? Should the Constitution be amended to deprive the President of his veto power?

"Should the tariff on farm products be reduced? Should the Farm Board be abolished? Should it cease its loans to farmers?

"Should the country adopt the dole system? Should we liberalize our

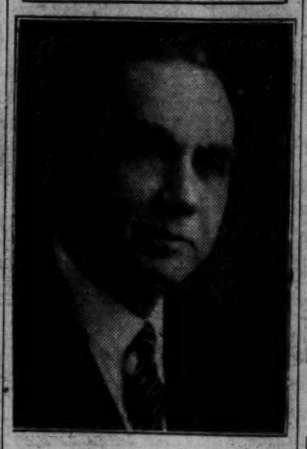
HEADS SCHOOLS



DANIEL C. ROPER.

ROPER IS APPOINTED TO EDUCATION BOARD

Former U. S. Official Will Fill Vacancy Caused by Death of Carusi.

Appointment of Daniel C. Roper, local attorney and former Commissioner of Internal Revenue, as a member of the District Board of Education to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Charles F. Carusi, former president of the board, who died early in February, was announced yesterday by the justices of the District Supreme Court, who made the selection.

The term to which Mr. Roper is appointed ends June 30, 1932. After that time he will be eligible for reappointment. Dr. H. Barrett Learned, vice president of the board, is now acting president. The board may call an election at its next meeting Wednesday, March 18, to elect a permanent president and vice president. Dr. Learned is understood to be favored for the place of president.

Mr. Roper is a member of the law firm of Roper, Hagerman, Hurrey & Dudley. He has six children, all of whom are in public schools here. He served as First Assistant Postmaster General from March, 1914, until August, 1916. He was vice president of the United States Tariff Commission from March 22 until September 25, 1917. He was then appointed Commissioner of Internal Revenue, serving until 1920.

From 1892 until 1894 Mr. Roper was a member of the South Carolina House of Representatives. He was clerk of the United States Senate committee on interstate commerce from 1894 to 1897. From 1900 until 1910 he served as expert special agent of the United States Census Bureau and clerk of the ways and means committee of the House from 1910 until 1913.

Mr. Roper was born in Marlboro County, S. C., April 1, 1867. He took the A. B. degree at Duke University, North Carolina, in 1888, LL. B. at National University in Washington in 1901 and LL. D. at Tusculum College in 1927. Mr. Roper is a Democrat. He is a member of the Chevy Chase Club, University Club and New York Club. His home is at 3001 Woodland drive northwest.

U. S. Not Contemplating Change in Soviet Policy

(Associated Press.)

The American Government is not contemplating any change of policy in its relationship with Russia.

The recent decision of Secretary Stimson to begin a study of the Russia situation, it was said at the White House yesterday, does not mean that President Hoover has any intention of adopting a new attitude toward the Soviet government.

National Committee Will Tell U. S. of Hoover's Achievements.

DEMOCRATS ASSAIL FARM PROPAGANDA

Republican Chairman Calls at White House to Choose Program.

(Associated Press.)

The machinery of the Republican national committee will be thrown into high gear in an effort to acquaint the country with the work of the Hoover administration.

Plans looking toward 1932 were outlined yesterday by Chairman Fess, after a call at the White House. He said, however, he would not go over the program with President Hoover until later.

A little later, James Francis Burke, general counsel of the committee, issued a statement saying it would not meet soon because the country "is suffering of an overdose of politics."

Meanwhile, Democrats and independent Republicans assailed the announcement Monday night by Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, that an advisory council for agriculture had been formed to tell the farmers what the administration had done for them.

Work Under Hoover.

Senator Fess said the committee's plan called for more intensive publicity, the organization of subcommittees, and the speeding up of State Republican organizations.

"We have been running along easily," he added, "but the time has come when we must let the country know about the quiet, steady, constructive work that has gone on here under President Hoover."

Burke said too much politics was one of the worst maladies that can afflict a nation, particularly when it is struggling to recover from economic disorder.

He added the national committee would not attempt to "usurp the functions of the national convention in shaping political policies" and praised President Hoover for his efforts to advance business recovery.

Declared "Too Amusing."

He made no direct reference to the recent meeting of the Democratic national committee at which Chairman Raskob proposed that it go on record later with recommendations to the national convention if that were deemed advisable.

Discussing the Republican council for agriculture, Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, said tersely: "It is too amusing to comment."

Senator Caraway, Arkansas Democrat, said, "Under the Hoover administration agriculture has almost perished."

"If any life is left in agriculture," he added, "it is going to need the most skillful propaganda ever put forward by the Republican party. I suggest an undertaker be placed on the committee so agriculture can at least have a decent burial."

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, predicted members of the council would be "hooted off the platform if they come out to my country."

Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, said: "A drive is to be made

Mother Lives 2 Hours After 140-Foot Jump

victim of a suicidal leap off the Million Dollar Bridge yesterday, shown with her two children, Lillian and Charles, on a recent jaunt through Rock Creek Park near the spot where she was fatally hurt.

Note Pinned to Clothing Describes Herself as "Too Much Worry."

Mrs. Clara P. Rice, 32, leaped 140 feet from the Million Dollar Bridge on Connecticut avenue and lived for nearly two hours. Before jumping, she pinned a farewell note on her clothes.

Some delay was met in the arrival of an ambulance from Emergency Hospital. Because of the badly mangled condition of the woman, the Rescue Squad, in obedience to regulations, did not move the body until the arrival of a doctor from the hospital more than 20 minutes later.

The call was received at the Fourteenth Precinct at 12:50 o'clock. Five minutes later the Rescue Squad arrived and gave first aid to the woman. An Emergency Hospital ambulance arrived at 1:18.

Her first attempt to jump was frustrated by William P. Felton, colored, of 765 Harvard street northwest.

HUFF DEATH INQUEST WILL BE HELD TODAY

Husband, Who Killed Man in Home, Refuses to Talk; Wife Takes Blame.

The domestic tragedy that took the life of William Huff, 25 years old, will be heard by a coroner's jury at 11:30 o'clock today in the District Morgue when Hurtha I. Dulaney is expected to relate the events that led to the fatal shooting of Huff when Dulaney surprised him in his home.

Those who are to testify at the inquest are Mrs. Mary Dulaney, 27 years old, the mother of four small children, who wishes to take the blame for the killing; Dulaney, Detective Sergt. Carlton Talley, who investigated the murder, and Patrolman Walter L. Dart, who arrested Dulaney.

"He should have shot me, not the man," Mrs. Dulaney told the detectives who questioned her at the House of Detention, where she is held for investigation. Her husband is held in the Ninth Precinct Station on a murder charge.

A police guard is maintained constantly over the prisoner.

Mrs. Dulaney, who witnessed the shooting of Huff when her husband broke into the room, says she "alone is to blame."

"I think what hurt my husband most was that he had always trusted me. He had known for some time that I had been seeing some one, but did not know his name. He was a good provider, and a better father could not be found anywhere.

"I did not realize what this would mean to my babies, but I do now. I know if he is cleared of this charge that he will continue to make a home for the children."

Mrs. Dulaney told the police that she had been meeting Huff two or three times a week since she first was introduced to him, two months ago. He came to see her when her husband was at work, in the evening.

Huff had been to see her two weeks ago, she said, when her husband returned and she let Huff leave through

KIRKLAND CONVICTED IN RUM PARTY DEATH

Jurymen Recommend Life Term for Slayer of Arlene Draves.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 10 (A.P.).—Virgil Kirkland was convicted of murder by a jury tonight in connection with the death of Arlene "Babe" Draves and a sentence of life imprisonment was recommended by the jurors.

The verdict was returned less than four hours after the jurors had retired to decide whether an attack by Kirkland upon the young high school graduate caused her death.

It was chosen from seven alternative decisions proferred by Judge Grant Crumpacker in his instructions and represented a compromise between the prosecutor's demnad for the death penalty and the defense's demand for acquittal.

The 20-year-old youth, former high school football star, had been accused of joining with four other youths, atill to come to trial, in forcing the girl to be intimate with him at a "flaming youth" drinking party in Gary, Ind., last fall.

The trial had taken sixteen days, engrossing the interest of northern Indiana and the Chicago area to the point where thousands clamored for admittance to the court room each day.

In closing arguments today the State had pleaded for "death to this fiend" while the defense had asked either a complete acquittal or death.

The court room was crowded when the jury returned its verdict at 8:40 p. m. The Draves family and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kirkland, step-father and mother of the accused youth, were present.

Antisaloon Body Has $485.

A cash balance on hand of $485 was reported yesterday by the Antisaloon League's 1930 campaign committee. In filing the report with the House clerk, Edward B. Dunford, treasurer, said receipts to date totaled $7,247 and expenditures $6,762.

CHICAGO FIRM GETS CONTROL OF GAS COMPANY

Corporation to Manage Three in Area Under Central System.

G. A. G. WORD SILENT ON ANNOUNCED DEAL

Central Public Service Is $400,000,000 Concern Formed in 1923.

A transaction described solely as a management acquisition of the Washington Gas Light Co., the Alexandria Gas Co. and the Washington Suburban Gas Co. by the Central Public Service Corporation, with headquarters in Chicago, was announced yesterday by the corporation.

An Associated Press dispatch from Chicago, in disclosing the deal, said that those companies and also the New York and Richmond Co., serving a portion of Greater New York, were involved and would be operated hereafter as integral parts of the Central's large system.

No explanation of the deal was forthcoming from either George A. G. Wood, president of the companies affected in the Washington area, or Wilton J. Lambert, attorney and member of the board of directors of the Washington Gas Light Co. Both declared last night they were ignorant of any pending negotiations.

Albert E. Pierce, president of the Central Public Service Corporation, was quoted by the Associated Press as emphasizing that the corporation in the transaction will not directly or indirectly acquire any stock in any of the companies named, but will only manage them, the ownership of the group in the Washington area to be vested in the Washington and suburban companies.

Simultaneously the Public Utilities Commission here yesterday instructed Corporation Counsel William W. Bride to investigate the announced change in the name of the Seaboard Investment Trust Co., owner of the Washington group, to the Washington & Suburban Co., and a $6,500,000 bond issue advertised in this city yesterday morning by the latter organization, which described itself as a Washington concern, formed as "a Massachusetts common law trust."

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, said that no formal announcement of the changes in the holding company had been received and that Mr. Bride merely had been told to "get the facts."

Appraised of the announced acquisition of the properties here by the Central Public Service Corporation, Gen. Patrick last night said that the deal was "interesting" and that in due time he would refer the matter to the corporation counsel for investigation.

The exact participation of the Central Public Service Corporation and the financial arrangements incident to the deal was not divulged, although the creation of the Washington & Suburban Companies indicated that a part or all of its advertised $6,500,000 bond issued had been subscribed by the Chicago concern.

Advertisements yesterday announcing the Washington & Suburban Companies immediately absorbed the attention of the Public Utilities Commission, pending a formal notification of the change in name.

The advertisement read, in part, as follows:

"Washington and Suburban Companies, a Massachusetts Common Law Trust, formed under a Declaartion of Trust, containing the usual provisions confining liability to the trust assets, owns approximately 84% of the common stock of Washington Gas Light Company and will own the entire capitalization of Alexandria Gas Company and Washington Suburban Gas Company, which operating companies comprise a compact group supplying gas, directly or through subsidiaries, to the entire District of Columbia and several adjacent communities in the adjoining States of Maryland and Virginia. The total population of the territory

Pantages Is Accused In 'Love Mart' Inquiry

Theater Man Is Charged With Four Others of Violating Law.

San Diego, Calif., March 10 (A.P.).—Complaints charging Alexander Pantages, vaudeville magnate, and four other persons with violation of the Juvenile Court act in connection with the Los Angeles "love market" investigation, were issued here late today by District Attorney Thomas A. Whelan.

Jesse H. Shreve, wealthy San Diego real estate man, surrendered voluntarily and furnished $25,000 bail on seven counts.

The others named in the complaints were John P. Mills, San Diego oil man; William Jobelmann, a publicity man and witness in Pantages' trial on a charge of assaulting Eunice Pringle, dancer, and Olive Clark Day, of Los Angeles.

Pantages, who was visiting at Agua Caliente, Mexico, denied the accusation in a telephone conversation and said he would be glad to return if he was wanted.

All charges are in connection with the operation of the "love market" which officials said had young girls on call for week-end parties.

Pantages was recently released from jail under $100,000 bonds pending decision on an appeal against conviction on charges of criminally assaulting Eunice Pringle, coed dancer, in his Los Angeles office in 1929. He was sentenced to a prison term of 1 to 50 years.

Whelan said Lydia Nitto, also known as Alice Blake, and another girl named Helen Livingston were making the complaints against Pantages and Shreve. Both girls were

36 Planes Escape Disaster In Mimic-War Maneuver

Two Squadrons, Carrying 72 Men, Miss Locating Carrier Upon Returning to Base; Fly Aimlessly Until Gasoline Is Exhausted Before Landing.

A near-catastrophe in naval aviation, in which 72 men in 36 planes forming two full squadrons barely escaped with their lives during the annual fleet maneuvers now drawing to a close in Panama waters, came to light here yesterday.

The disclosure was made officially by David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, who described how the two squadrons missed locating their airplane carrier upon returning from a long scouting mission over the open sea, and how they flew desperately with emptying gas tanks in a search before it was found.

"It was an escape by the narrowest of margins from what would have been a terrific blow to naval aviation," Secretary Ingalls said.

"As it is, even though the squadrons escaped without loss, it was such a terrible experience that the morale of the officers and men was shaken.

"Steps have been taken to prevent the possibility of such an occurrence every happening again. While the experience has been a shock, much good may come from the affair.

"If the conditions which caused this near-disaster had not been revealed it is quite likely that we might have lost an entire squadron or more at sea."

He explained that the two squadrons, returning at dusk from the long

Prisoners Also to Benefit From Half-Holiday Law

All Labor in District Penal Institutions Now Ceases at 1 o'Clock on Saturdays, While Welfare Department Observes Measure.

Federal and District employes are not the only persons who are benefiting from the Saturday half-holiday law. Some 2,200 inmates of the District's penal institutions will also quit work at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoons for a week-end holiday.

The prisoners, in fact, for the present will benefit from the law even more fully than their guards, who, because of the shortage of men, will not be able to take the full vacation time entitled to them by the new law.

George S. Wilson, superintendent of public welfare, yesterday conferred with the heads of the various institutions under his direction. While a working arrangement was agreed upon, it was found that it would be impossible to grant all employes the full half holiday every week.

All activities of the welfare department will cease, however, at 1 o'clock every Saturday afternoon, according to Mr. Wilson, and as many employes as possible will be released. Practically all per diem workers will thus be given the holiday, as all construction projects will be halted in accordance with the law.

At the Lorton penal institutions and at the District Jail all labor, save that of the guards, will stop at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and half of the force of guards will be permitted to take the time off. The

Calvin Coolidge Says:

It is always easy to become impatient with the prolonged debates of the Senate. The people tolerate talk, but they admire action. Nevertheless it would be dangerous for the Senate further to impair its character as a deliberate body. A good measure can stand discussion. A bad one ought to be delayed. To give a check upon the popular House of Representatives, the Constitution established the Senate to be more permanent, independent and conservative. The House was to protect the people against oppression. The Senate was to protect the people against disorder. While the nature of the Senate has been changed by the direct election of its members it has still remained a citadel of liberty because it has always contained a body of strong men who were able and willing to expose dangerous measures by adequate debate. Their arguments on the floor go the country through the press. If they have real substance the people respond. Of course, the power of debate can be abused. But it is safer to employ those who abuse power in debating than in voting. Open debate is the only shield against the irretrievable action of a rash majority.

served is estimated to be in excess of $30,000.

Washington and Suburban Companies will also own 99 per cent of the nonvoting participating preference stock and approximately 9 per cent of the common stock of New York and Richmond Gas Co., furnishing gas in the Borough of Richmond, Staten Island, a rapidly growing section of New York City.

These bonds will be direct obligations of Washington and Suburban Companies, and, in addition, will be secured by deposit with the trustee of approximately 84 per cent (109,196 shares) of the common stock of the Washington Gas Light Co., the entire capitalization of Alexandria Gas Co. and the entire capitalization of Washington Suburban Gas Co.

"Dividends have been paid on the common stock of Washington Gas Light Co. for more than 55 years. The cash dividends paid in each of the past five calendar years, and being currently paid, on the 109,196 shares of the stock to be pledged as collateral for these bonds was alone in excess of the annual interest requirements on this issue of bonds."

The issue of the Washington & Suburban Companies is of 5½ per cent collateral trust gold bonds. They were underwritten by Harris, Forbes & Co., H. M. Byllesby & Co., Chase Securities Corporation, Halsey, Stuart & Co., and the E. H. Rollins & Sons.

Members of the Public Utilities Commission last night pointed out that the president of the Central Public Service Corporation, Albert E. Peirce, came here from Chicago and attended hearings when the commission conducted an extensive probe to determine the ownership of the Washington Gas Light Co.

Asked by members of the commission to explain his interest in the proceedings, Mr. Peirce disclaimed any financial interest in the local company, describing himself as only a spectator to the proceedings.

The Washington Post on August 6, 1929, carried a front-page article which declared in part that "acquisition of the Washington Gas Light Co. and two unknown concerns by Central Public Service Corporation, with headquarters in Chicago, was believed imminent in financial circles yesterday following reports that there will be given to holders of Central States Public Service class A stock rights to subscribe to the first-named concern's stock in the ratio of one to four shares at $40 a share."

Pending acquisition by the Chicago firm of the local utility is forecast, according to The Post article of that date, by the fact that the bankers for Central Public Service Corporation, which are Harris, Forbes & Co., of New York, and H. M. Byllesby & Co., of Chicago, have been identified with the previous financing and were among those brought out by the recent investigation by W. W. Bride, corporation counsel, to ascertain the ownership of the Washington Gas Light Co.

There were denials by Mr. Peirce, Harris, Forbes & Co. and the H. M. Byllesby & Co. when control of Washington Gas Light Co., by Central Public Service Corporation was believed imminent in August, 1929. In April 1930, however, George Bowie Chipman, Washington broker, in a suit for $78,000 commission for inaugurating and aiding in the purchase, charged that the Washington Gas Light Co. was bought for Albert E. Peirce, of Chicago, or the Central Public Service Corporation, of Chicago, of which he is president, and that the Seaboard Investment Trust, the ostensible owner of the controlling interest in the local utility, merely in the capacity of a "straw man" in the matter.

In October, 1930, Justice Wendell P. Stafford in Circuit No. 1 dismissed the suit of Mr. Chipman. The defendants in the suit had claimed that when they learned that the La Follette antimerger act forbade the purchase of the stock by a foreign corporation they abandoned the proposition. Later the controlling interest was bought by the Seaboard Investment Trust, of Boston, but the defendants did not admit they were responsible for that proposition.

In sustaining the motion Justice Stafford declared he could not uphold the declaration because on its face it showed the plaintiff was asking to enforce a contract for commission for an act forbidden by the antimerger law.

Central Public Service Corporation is a $400,000,000 concern selling gas and electricity to 683 communities and connected with some street car systems and interurban railways. The corporation was formed November 1, 1923, as the Southern Gas & Power Corporation, which title was changed to the present one in March, 1927.

Raiders Hold Man On Gaming Charge

Detectives Find Race Slips and Charts Thrown Into Stove at Premises.

In a raid on an alleged gambling establishment on Wisconsin avenue near P street, Charles B. Krause, 34 years old, was arrested by members of the Vice Squad on a charge of permitting gaming.

Raiders broke through a heavily barred door on the third floor of the house, but all racing slips and charts had been thrown into a stove when they finally gained entrance.

Krause, who lives on N street near Thirty-second street northwest, was booked on a charge of permitting gaming. Three were held as United States witnesses. They are: Leonard F. Hill, 25 years old, of R street near Thirty-fourth street northwest; John J. Callahan, 25 years old, of Dent place near Thirty-fourth street northwest, and William H. Kerr, 33 years old, of Wisconsin avenue near O street northwest. The raiding party was made up of Detectives J. K. Baker, F. O. Brass, T. M. McVearry and C. D. Schamp.

Neither Time Nor Tide Of Worry to Diplomats

(Associated Press.)

When official etiquette is involved, diplomats can not be bothered with present-day ideas on speed.

On May 31, 1929, Noble Brandon Judah, United States Ambassador to Cuba, retired. The United States sent official notification to the Cuban government. Diplomatic procedure required acknowledgment.

It came today, nearly two years later in the form of an elaborately embossed letter, which was delivered formally to the State Department by Ambassador Ferraro, of Cuba.

No explanation was given at the State Department or at the embassy for the delay.

"Porque?" embassy officials were asked.

"Porque no?" was the response.

Meaning "Why?" and "Why not?"

CIVIL RIGHTS GIVEN TO 'SLAVE OF LOVE'

Governor of Wisconsin Restores Them After Hearing Strange Story.

Special to The Washington Post.

Madison, Wis., March 10.—John Beier, termed by his attorneys "the youthful slave of a feminine Svengali," who kept him locked in her bedroom closet five months and finally charmed him into slaying her husband, has been restored to full civil rights.

The emancipation was the first act of clemency of Gov. La Follette, who acted on revelations that caused Gov. Zimmerman to commute Beier's life sentence to fourteen years.

Beier was convicted of killing Nicholas Biesen, La Crosse farmer, but it was not until after he entered prison that the "stranger than fiction story," as Gov. Zimmerman called it, of his enslavement to Mrs. Biesen was brought out. She obtained a hold on Beier while he was in his teens and when he tried to escape locked him in the closet without her husband suspecting.

Beier overheard Biesen quarreling with his wife over her coolness, and when the farmer threatened to kill her he leaped from the closet and shot Biesen with a revolver. Then, he told Gov. Zimmerman, Mrs. Biesen handed him a shotgun, told him to fire again, and he did.

Mrs. Biesen tied a string to the shotgun trigger and forged a note to make it appear that her husband had committed suicide. His death was not questioned until the Biesen log cabin home was destroyed by fire and Beier's revolver was found.

Beier was sentenced in 1920 and served nine years. Mrs. Biesen served two years for her share in the murder.

Government Scientists Using Test Tubes as Preventive of Diseases.

(Associated Press.)

A scientific offensive that may greatly reduce the toll of "deficiency" diseases such as goiter, anemia and pellagra is starting here in the test tubes of government chemists.

Deficiency diseases are caused by lack of some essential element in food. Government chemists believe they can be prevented by adding the needed elements to soil fertilizers, which in turn will transmit them to food plants and so to humans.

The bureau of chemistry and soils of the department of agriculture is conducting research on this theory in various parts of the United States, says Dr. Oswald Schreiner, chief of the division of soil fertility.

Presence or absence of mere traces of minerals, too small to be measured, may mean the difference between health and illness or death for human beings as well as plants and animals, he explained.

Manganese, copper, zinc, nickel and cobalt, found in minute quantities in the seeds and leaves of plants, play an important part in the formation of vitamins.

Iodine is necessary to prevent goiter. Copper and manganese are important in formation of blood and prevention of anemia, while calcium and phosphorus are essential for strong and healthy bones and teeth.

Nurses Are Taxed By More Sickness

Visiting Society Reports Increase of 1,518 Patients Treated.

An increase of 1,518 patients and 3,194 visits was noted last month by the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society, as compared with February, 1930, figures, at the monthly meeting of the society in the Board of Trade offices.

The increase in the sick list was attributed "largely to respiratory disorders, grippe and colds." The report showed that 5,038 families were carried on the books of the organization in February, while 12,186 visits were made by the staff.

So great has been the sickness load, the organization has been forced to curtail activities of its education department to cope with the emergency, it was stated. Reports were made by Mrs. Ord Preston, vice chairman of the supply committee; Mrs. John W. Sternhagen, chairman of the publicity committee; George H. Myers, chairman of the finance committee, and Miss Inez Cadel, assistant director.

One-third of the area of the United States, or 800,000,000 acres, has been covered by surveyors of the Department of Agriculture since 1899.

MOSES SPEEDS AID TO VERMONT G. O. P.

Leaves on Seeing Hoover; Rising Democratic Tide Disturbs Party.

(United Press.)

Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican senatorial committee, was en route to Montpelier, Vt., last night, fresh from a conference with President Hoover over unexpected political difficulties in Vermont.

Fear that the Democratic senatorial candidate, Stephen Driscoll, of St. Albans, running on an antiprohibition platform, may smash Vermont's traditional Republican senatorial succession has been expressed by many Vermont leaders, according to Senator Moses.

Mr. Driscoll opposes Warren Austin, Republican, at a special election March 31.

"I talked with the President about the Senate situation in Vermont, Senator Moses said at the White House yesterday. "I am leaving for Vermont tonight. Republican leaders there are tearing their hair over prohibition. The Democratic candidate is a wet from the populous up-State region near the Canadian border."

Senator Moses said he had no intention of sending any national committee money into Vermont but was considering the use of "an army of orators."

The nominal Republican majority of one in the next Senate is at stake in the Vermont race, which explains the concern of national leaders over a local contest.

Abner O. Latham Rites to Be Today

Resident of Capital for 75 Years to Be Buried in Rock Creek Cemetery.

ik'yqinupñ ETAOIN SHRDLU TAOIN

Funeral services for Abner O. Latham, 93 years old, of 1628 Eckington place northeast, who died Monday at his home after having lived in Washington for more than 75 years, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the McKendree Methodist Memorial Church, with interment following in Rock Creek Cemetery. He had been employed for many years in the General Accounting Office.

Mr. Latham was born in Prince William County, Va., in 1838, and his father's family moved to the western part of the State in 1851 and settled in Taylor County. He received his education from private schools and from Duff's Commercial College, at Pittsburgh, Pa. He was employed at Wheeling, W. Va., and Baltimore, Md., before coming to Washington. The first vote for President he cast was for President Lincoln.

He has been a member of the McKendree Methodist Episcopal Church for more than 60 years. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mattie Ham, of Melbourne, Australia; a son, P. Julian Latham, Takoma Park, Md., and a daughter, Bessie Latham Gibson, with whom he made his home.

Birthday Observed By Jewish Council

Women's Society Sponsors Informal Rally and Program.

The Council of Jewish Women held its annual birthday luncheon and rally with an informal program yesterday afternoon at the Washington Hotel with a large number of members and guests in attendance.

The organization, numbering Jewish women of all Jewish congregations in Washington, heard as principal speaker Mrs. Margot Sanger, of Toledo, Ohio, a widely known speaker, in a series of monologues.

The gathering was presided over by Mrs. Harry Bernton, president of the council. Others assisting included Mrs. James Lansburgh, Mrs. Will Ilich, Mrs. Estelle Greenbaum and Mrs. E. R. Haas.

Count of Murder Denied by Squaw

Seneca Indian Concurs With Husband by Pleading Not Guilty.

Buffalo, March 10 (A.P.).—Abbie Jimerson, Seneca Indian woman, pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder in Federal court here today. She will be tried March 24 with her husband, Joseph Hemlock, who previously had entered a not guilty plea. The couple is accused of killing Roy Wilson, a neighbor on the Cattaraugus Reservation, during a quarrel over some property.

Abbie Jimerson is no relation to Lila Jimerson, who was acquitted a week ago of the murder of Mrs. Clotilde Marchand last March. Lila is a Cayuga Indian, while Abbie is a member of the Seneca tribe.

Nancy Bowen, 65-year-old Seneca Indian woman, today pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter, in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Clotide Marchand in her Buffalo home a year ago.

DEATH CLAIMS COTTON AFTER TWO OPERATIONS

cessantly and in all company, was alluded to by Mr. Cotton as his "single vice."

He speedily reached decisions on matters of highest policy. Subordinates would brief cases or questions for him, take them in singly or in groups and have them disposed of within a matter of minutes with an order of "tell them 'yes,' or tell them 'no.'"

There was hardly a limit to the amount of work his office could handle during a single day. He often was there long after the department had closed.

Frank in His Answers.

His frankness was demonstrated once when Sir Esme Howard, the former British Ambassador, called upon him. The diplomat had a complaint against a certain man, and in diplomatic fashion talked around the question for some fifteen minutes without coming to the point.

"I suppose what you are trying to tell me, Mr. Ambassador," Cotton interrupted, "is that this man to whom you are referring is a common, ordinary garden variety of numbskull. Is that right?"

The diplomat said it was correct.

Cotton cared nothing for society or formal functions, dressing in top hat and striped trousers for the latter only under protest. When he grew tired or bored with a party he was attending by virtue of his office, the went home. He never observed the diplomatic demand that he should remain until the ranking guest and guest of honor should depart first.

Had Automobiles, Used Taxis.

He disdained anything which might approach ostentation. A man of great personal wealth, he had several highly priced cars, but usually arrived at the diplomatic entrance of the State Department in a minimum rate taxicab. When he wished to go anywhere in the city he would stand in the street before the department and hail a passing taxi. He rarely sent for his own automobile and frequently rode on the street cars or walked great distances.

Golf was his one diversion. He played a good game and enjoyed taking "duba" with him and helping them improve their shots. The undersecretary's modesty was shown in the autobiographies required for various Government publications. Despite his extensive career he confined his sketch to three or four lines.

He was born at Newport, R. I., July 22, 1875. Surviving are his widow, who has been ill for a considerable period, one son and a daughter.

Cotton was a close personal friend of President Hoover. He assumed the duties of Undersecretary of State largely because Mr. Hoover brought pressure on him to return to public service.

In Food Administration.

The President and Cotton were first drawn to each other in 1917 when Cotton came to Washington to become a part of the food administration of which Mr. Hoover was the head.

Later when Hoover became Secretary of Commerce he called on Cotton for further service in the reorganization of certain phases of the Department of Commerce work, particularly those dealing with foreign trade.

The two men were often in consultation, especially last spring when Secretary Stimson was attending the London disarmament conference. At that time Cotton was acting secretary.

He was a familiar figure at the White House executive offices and was often a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. Matthew's Church, Bedford, N. Y. The body will be sent to New York, where it will be placed aboard a train leaving for Bedford shortly after 2 o'clock.

Chinese Torture Americans, Report

Bandits Hold 2 Preachers for Ransom, According to Legation Wire.

(Associated Press.)

The torture of the Rev. Bert N. Nelson, of Minneapolis, Minn., and the Rev. Tvedt, a Norwegian, by bandits in China to force payment of ransom was reported to the State Department yesterday by the American Legation at Peiping.

The report was based on letters received by a Dr. Skinsnes, at Sinyangchow, from the missionaries who have been held by Chinese brigands since last October.

"We have just been bound and whipped and told to make haste with the ransom money or there would be worse things to follow," Mr. Nelson's letter said in part. An aged messenger who brought the letters said the prisoners looked "fair, but have been beaten some." American consular officers in China have made representations to the Chinese authorities on 22 different occasions in an effort to effect the release of the two captives, but without result.

TRIBUTE TO COTTON IS PAID BY HOOVER

Demise of Undersecretary Is Also Mourned by Stimson.

(Associated Press.)

Praise for the career of Joseph P. Cotton, Undersecretary of State, was voiced last night by President Hoover and Secretary Stimson.

In a statement after receiving word of the death of Mr. Cotton in Baltimore, the Chief Executive said, "His passing is a great loss to the Government and to our country."

At the same time Secretary Stimson said in a statement that Mr. Cotton had rendered service of "literally inestimable value" to the Government.

Tribute by Hoover.

The President's statement said:

"Mr. Cotton's passing is a great loss to the Government and to our country. He was my friend for over 20 years. He has given much of his life to public service and has never refused a demand from the public interests. His ability, his character, his devotion to the higher purposes made him a great citizen."

Secretary Stimson said:

"In the two years in which he has been Undersecretary of State, Joseph Cotton has rendered service of literally inestimable value to the Government.

"His wide acquaintance among men; his familiarity with large affairs, both of business and Government; his industry and faculty of dispatch; his keen analysis and wise judgment have all served a spirit of high public purpose and a character of unfailing courage.

Position Won by Tact.

"Among his fellows in the State Department he has won a position which was entirely unique. Coupled with a respect for his attainments, they have grown to cherish for him a devoted affection on account of his sympathetic consideration and kindness as well as a delight in the charm of his companionship and of his never-failing whimsical humor.

"For myself I have lost an associate whose counsel and assistance have been invaluable and a friend whose absence will make the world a poorer place."

The death of Mr. Cotton also brought expressions of regret last night from the diplomatic representatives of different countries whose affairs he was called upon to deal with in the State Department.

Praised by Tellez.

Ambassador Manuel C. Tellez, of Mexico, paid high tribute to the late official, who was in direct supervision of Mexican affairs coming to the department.

"He was one of the most splendid men and sincere officials to deal with," Ambassador Tellez said. "It was always a pleasure to transact official business with him, due to his sincerity and earnestnes to come to an understanding of the situation.

"It was my privilege to discuss and settle many questions of interest and concern to our two governments during his term of office. I will always recollect that on the occasion when our different viewpoints could not bring us to a common conclusion, I always felt at once impressed by the sincerity of his character, his understanding and his plain human humor and unfailing desire to be right.

Great for Service.

"Mr. Cotton was a great citizen of this country for his service and for his character."

Ambassador Orestes Ferrara, of Cuba, characterized the late State Department official as "a man of high judgment and very sure in his actions and opinions."

"His death," Ambassador Ferrara added in expressing his sorrow, "undoubtedly means a great loss to all the people who had occasion to deal with Mr. Cotton."

"I am very sorry to learn of Mr. Cotton's death," Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, minister of Nicaragua, said. "We of Nicaragua appreciated his cooperation in the State Department."

The minister recalled, also the Undersecretary's handling of questions affecting Nicaragua during Secretary Stimson's absence, especially during the London Naval Conference last year.

Uruguay Adds Praise.

Dr. J. Varela, minister of Uruguay, expressed his regrets as one of the oldest members of the Diplomatic Corps in point of service.

"I had the highest esteem for Mr. Cotton," he said. "I had the privilege of knowing him ten years ago, and the opportunity to appreciate his friendly cooperation in matters concerning my country. His death is a great loss to all of us."

Ambassador Alejandro Padilla y Bell, of Spain, said Mr. Cotton's death affected him deeply, as he had had many contacts with the late State Department official and always appreciated his confidence and cooperation.

Chile Laments Death.

Ambassador Carlos G. Davila, of Chile, lamented his death as a personal friend whom he had known since the Chilean envoy came to Washington in 1927. He expressed deep regret over Mr. Cotton's death, and said he always appreciated the good manner in which he had cooperated in the handling of matters of concern to Chile.

Ambassador Manuel de Freyre y Santander added his "sincere regrets" to the expressions of sorrow from the Diplomatic Corps.

The late Undersecretary was closely associated with the diplomatic representatives, particularly in handling all questions of loans. In the Mexican field, he was particularly conversant with the problems arising from the Rio Grande River between the United States and Mexico, as to water rights, control of that stream and the like. When he was taken to the Baltimore hospital, Cotton was supervising the study of a proposed loan sought by the Dominican Republic.

M'KINLEY COMPANY WAR GAME WINNER

Team of Lieut. Chapman Captures Map Contest Held at Franklin.

Company C team, of McKinley High School, under the command of Cadet Second Lieut. Hugh B. Chapman, won the 1930-31 high school cadet war game at the Franklin School yesterday afternoon.

Second place was awarded to Company H, of Western High School, under the command of Cadet Capt. Stephen Holderness. Third place went to the field and staff team of Central High School, under the command of Cadet Capt. Daniel C. Pollock. Fourth and fifth places were given Company C, of Eastern, under the command of Cadet Capt. John H. Meads, and Company E, of Business, under the command of Cadet Capt. Ralph Cole.

Col. Wallace M. Craigie, professor of military tactics in the Washington high schools, who directed the contest, described it as the most exciting in years. The final scoring was extremely close, McKinley receiving 93.1 points, Western 92.4, Central 92.3, Eastern 91.0 and Business 89.6.

Maj. William H. Hobson, professor of military tactics at Georgetown University, was judge. Other members of the winning team are Hilbert Browne, Leroy Zepp, Richard Draper, Fair Gammon, Hugh Chapman and Jack Almquist.

The game was played on a 12-inch-scale map of the Antietam-Gettysburg sector. The winning team will receive the Gen. Anton Stephan Cup and the commanding officer will be given a gold medal. The awards will be made at the time of the annual competitive drill of high school cadets.

WINTER BITES DEEP INTO MANY NATIONS

Record Snowfalls Reported From European Points; America Shivers.

(Associated Press.)

Frosty winter bit into the South yesterday, tightened its cold grip over Europe and swept the Balkan quake scenes with chill winds.

Snow avalanches descended upon rail and telegraph lines in France. Ice encrusted English roads.

Ships tossed on high waves through blinding snow along the continental coast.

New England and the Middle West still were digging from under drifts. The Black Forest and Rhine Valley of Germany lay buried in white.

Battered fragments of boats and the pieces of an airplane were remnants of coast gales in Massachusetts. The boat fragments indicated five fishermen were lost. The airplane pieces spelled tragic mystery.

Dixie's frost was felt as far south as Miami, Fla.

Florida Area Shivers.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Winter made another stand today in the land of palms, scattering light frosts as far south as the Miami area.

Little or no damage to growing crops was reported, but there was some evidence of windburn in scattered localities where high winds kept the frosts away.

This was the coldest March 10 in Jacksonville since 1887, the Weather Bureau said. The mercury was 38 downtown early today, but colder on the outskirts of the city.

Paris Covered by Snow.

London, March 10 (A.P.).—Belated winter continued today to hold large sections of Europe in its grip.

Austria lay under a thick white blanket. Snow whirled across Germany. A snowstorm swirled across Paris. In Scotland and northern England many towns and cities were snowbound, and the fall continued. The roofs of London were crusted with white, although streets had been cleared and traffic no longer was seriously impeded.

Several deaths in Great Britain were ascribed to the cold, which brought temperatures to zero in many sections.

Atlantic Seaboard Lashed.

Cherbourg, France, March 10 (A.P.).—Weather which old salts caled the foulest in 50 years whipped the Atlantic seaboard of France today with northeasterly gales and snow.

The gale extended 500 miles out into the Atlantic and held the Europa back a full day. The President Roosevelt, due Thursday, sent radio word it would not arrive until late Friday night. The Deutschland was also 24 hours late. The Europa sent word all was well but the headwinds were fierce.

Quake-Stricken Region Hit.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, March 10 (A.P.).—Reconstruction is proceeding slowly and with difficulty in the frontier regions rocked by earthquakes during the past week-end. Railway service to Greece has been resumed and soldiers are clearing away the debris.

A report from Undorg said 40 bodies had been recovered there and the estimate of the total dead still stands at nto more than 10. It is believed that more than 2,000 buildings were destroyed.

Tirana, Albania, March 10 (A.P.).—A resumption of earth shocks was reported tonight from Kopce, but the new quakes were said to have caused no damage.

Visit of Siamese King Anticipated

Other Trips of Royalyt to America Are Recalled With Interest.

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—King Prajaohipok of Siam and his wife, Queen Rambrai Barni, probably considered their impending visit to America a mere trip to the doctor's, for the king is coming to New York in April to be treated for cataract.

But for democratic America, where royalty is royalty, their arrival is an interesting event in the rather brief history of royal visits. It is a long time since Americans saw a monarch who wields the absolute power of King Prajaohipok.

There was the visit of Queen Marie of Roumania and the 1924 sojourn of the Prince of Wales at the Long Island home of James A. Burden. Before that were visits from the Infanta Eulalia of Spain and Princess Theresa of Bavaria, sister of the king, and in 1860 a visit from the then Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII.

Only a few years ago Queen Marie moved a faction of the W. C. T. U. to attempt to censure her for smoking cigarets, but the motion was lost.

RULING ON HOLIDAY AWAITED BY HOOVER

Question Is Shall Four Hours Constitute Full Day on Saturday.

President Hoover is interested in the legal interpretation of the new Saturday half-holiday law and desires to bring about uniform application of its provisions to all Government employes affected.

At present the Labor and Justice Departments are proceeding on the basis that though four hours shall constitute a day's work on Saturdays, employes taking that day off will be charged with only four hours leave. This is the same practice that was followed before enactment of the half-holiday law.

The Treasury Department, however, has reversed the practice followed when the Saturday half holiday was granted in the summer months under executive order, and has ruled that employes taking Saturdays off will have a full day deducted from their annual leave. The District Commissioners made the same ruling yesterday.

Navy Seeks Reversal.

The Navy Department, on the other hand, is seeking to reverse its former practice of charging a full day of leave to employes taking Saturdays off.

A ruling by the Attorney General or by the Comptroller General is expected to settle the interpretation of the new law.

The theory of those officials who believe a full day shall be charged against the leave of those employes who take off the four hours on Saturday is that the new law plainly states that four hours shall constitute a day's work and under that language nothing else can be done but to charge up a day's leave to employes not working that day.

Intent of Congress Argued.

Others, including representatives of the employes, contend that it obviously was the intent of Congress to decrease the working hours of Government employes and making working conditions in the Government service better. It is equally obvious, they said, that it was not the intent of Congress to cut down any leave privileges enjoyed by employes in the past nor otherwise make them pay any higher price for leave on Saturday than they paid on half holidays in the past.

The ruling requested by the Navy Department may not settle the question. The leave provisions governing employes in navy yards and arsenals in the past were contained in a separate law, under which a full day was charged when the half Saturday was taken off. The department now wants to change this and wants an official ruling.

Change From 5 to 4:30 P. M.

Employes of the German-American Mixed Claims Commission yesterday got their first benefit of the half-holiday law. Commission employes have always had a Saturday half holiday the year round, but they made up for that by working an extra half-hour each other work day. Yesterday they went on the usual Government work day and closed business at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon instead of at 5 o'clock.

Employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing yesterday were waiting for the question of the effect of the law on their furloughs to be presented to the Comptroller General.

Although a request to submit the question to the Comptroller General was made last week by Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Federal Employes, the question has not been put by bureau or Treasury officials.

HALF-HOLIDAY LAW BENEFITS PRISONERS

following Saturday the other half of the force will be given the afternoon.

At Gallinger Hospital and at other institutions where it would be obviously impossible to close shop in accordance with the law, adjustments will be made so that some of the employes will be released on Saturday and the remainder will get part time off during the week.

Because of the shortage of personnel, however, many of the employes will not be given the full four hours entitled to them under the half-holiday act. An attempt to remedy this unfairness will be sought in the next estimates, though, Mr. Wilson said, as additional employes will be asked. The number has not been determined yet.

The District Commissioners yesterday gave a jolt to some of the weekend plans of their employes who planned to take Saturdays off during the summer and be charged with only a half day. They held that a full day should be charged against any employe who failed to appear for work at all Saturday.

The theory on which the Commissioners reached the decision, it was explained, was that the employes are paid full time for Saturday although they work only four hours.

Formerly, however, when the summer half-holiday system was in effect, District employes were charged with only a half day for Saturday.

SOUTH WILL FIGHT RASKOB, DRY SAYS

Antisaloon Session Told Revolt Looms if Democrats Adopt Wet Plank.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—The prohibition enforcement problem, basically, is one of education, Edward B. Dunford, Washington, attorney for the Antisaloon League of America, told the association's annual Southern convention here tonight. The major burden of enforcement, he said, rests upon the State government, with such assistance as the Federal Government can offer.

"National sobriety," he declared, "will not be won on the hustings, but in the home, the school and the church. The propaganda glorifying liquor and condoning and lauding the bootlegger, the rumrunner, as well as their patron, will prove ineffective in the light of truth."

Liquor in Canada.

Ben Spence, prohibition leader of Toronto, Ontario, explained the operation of Canada's system of government-controlled liquor traffic, and described what he said were the evils of such a plan.

He said the drink bill of Canada last year alone amounted to $192,000,000, the largest in the country's history.

Dr. A. J. Barton, Wilmington, N. C., for twenty years chairman of the executive committee of the Antisaloon League, espoused the cause of prohibition, attacked Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob, and declared any effort on the part of the Democrats to name a wet presidential candidate for the 1932 election would be bitterly contested.

South May Revolt.

"The Southern Democrats will not run with Raskob and will not be tied to the tail of the Tammany Tiger," he declared, "if the Democrats put forward a wet candidate we will fight even stronger than when we defeated Smith. We will not have to be whipped into line; we will fall into line of our own accord."

Dr. Barton also attacked Raskob's proposal for State control of liquor. "Although Raskob did not say he wanted repeal of the eighteenth amendment," Dr. Barton said, "that is what would have to be done if his plan were put into effect."

Dr. Gifford Gordon, of Australia, said "it is one thing to outlaw a great evil, but it is another thing to destroy that evil. Alcohol has been outlawed in this country, but has not been destroyed. It look long years to outlaw it, and it is reasonable to believe it will take a long time to destroy it."

Miss Phillis Ellsworth Is Wed to C. D. Dillon

Boston, March 10 (A.P.).—Miss Phillis Ellsworth, daughter of Mr and Mrs. John Chess Ellsworth, of Boston, was married to Clarence Douglas Dillon, son of Clarence Dillon, New York financier, in Emmanuel Church this afternoon.

The bride made her debut two seasons ago, and is a member of the Junior League and the Vincent Club. Mr. Dillon was manager of the Harvard football team during the past season, and will be graduated in June. They will make their home in New York City.

Glenda Farrell, Stage Actress, to Wed Actor

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Glenda Farrell, leading woman in "On the Spot," Edgar Wallace mystery play, announced today that she will be married in June to Jack Durant, of Mitchell and Durant, vaudeville team. Miss Farrell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farrell, of Los Angeles.

She met Durant, she said, while she wats playing leads in stock in Los Angeles, and he was appearing in "Hit the Deck." They will go to Europe on a honey moon.

flight to the spot where they expected the carrier, were unable to locate any ship and were forced to fly aimlessly. All were land planes equipped with emergency flotation gear able to keep them afloat only a brief time.

Heading away in the direction of a small light 50 miles away, they chanced on the carrier and were taken aboard, several of the planes showing gas tanks virtually bare.

Secretary Ingalls said the Navy was seeking adequate radio telephonic equipment for installation in all planes on sea duty, but had been unable to devise or purchase the proper equipment after numerous tests.

Municipal Center Changes Ordered

Architect Harris Is Making Alteration in Plans of Two Buildings.

Municipal Architect Albert L. Harris is making alterations in the original plans for the Municipal Center upon instructions from Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, it was learned yesterday.

The changes affect the rear portions of the courts and the administration buildings and are intended to make the plants more convenient to the city employes who will work in them. Instead of having several court indentations, Maj. Gotwals has ordered that the rear exteriors be straight, thus forming a perfect rectangle.

Maj. Gotwals, in making the alterations, explained that he is looking to the future when the rear additions to the buildings will be made. Under the original plan there would have been no connections between the front and the rear wings save by the two end wings. The new plan will permit the erection of corridors between these ends.

After the plans are revised they must be approved by the municipal center committee, of which Maj. Gotwals is chairman.

Courts to Decide Identity of Man

Wanderer May Be Wealthy Professor or Alleged Fugitive Printer.

Florence, Italy, March 10 (A.P.).—The courts of Florence were called upon today to decide whether a man found wandering near a cemetery, apparently suffering from loss of memory, is the respectable, wealthy and married Prof. Giulio Canella or Mario Bruneri, typesetter and alleged fugitive from justice.

The man is expected to testify, but he was not in court today. Neither was the woman who identified him as Canella, her husband, after he had been picked up in a dazed condition near the cemetery in Turin seven years ago.

If the man is Canella, he is the brother-in-law of the president of the Italo-Brazilian Chamber of Commerce, and was reported missing after a battle in the World War.

ARLINGTON PLANS FOR BICENTENNIAL

Realtors Join in Sponsoring Arrangements for 1932 Celebration.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With predictions that between three and five millions of people will come to this section during the bicentennial celebration next year, at a dinner meeting held last night at Windsor Arms, Arlington County, sponsored by a special committee of the Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax Real Estate Board, of which Henry C. Morris is chairman, concrete plans for preparing for the celebration were made with the appointment of Representative Howard W. Smith from Alexandria as chairman of the organization committee. Other members are: J. Barton Phillips, president of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce; J. P. Daniels, mayor of Falls Church; Harry A. Fellows, from Arlington County; Thurlow White, from Fairfax County, and Henry C. Morris, from Arlington County, as vice chairman.

Dan S. Hollenge, business manager of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, declared it has been predicted that between three and five millions of people will visit this area during the celebration, and said the housing situation will be one of the most serious conditions at that time. Great care must be exercised, he declared, to see to it that those seeking homes are treated in a just manner as far as rates are concerned.

Edward Ticer, member of the city council, of Alexandria, declared that there can be no question of the great opportunities confronting this entire area as a result of the proposed celebration. "I am sure I speak the will of the Council of the City of Alexandria and the entire population when I say that this organization can rest assured of the whole-hearted cooperation from Alexandria," he said.

Harry A. Fellows, of the Arlington County Civic Federation, stated that the organization being prefected by the federation is purely local in character, and that there is no possibility of an overlapping of effort as a result of the organization as a result of this meeting.

Speaking for the Board of Supervisors of Arlington County, Supervisor B. M. Hedrick from Arlington District stated that the board will cooperate in every way.

Among other speakers, all of whom assured the hearty cooperation of their organizations, were H. L. Zile, of the Arlington County Garden Club; Dr. H. L. Martin, president of Arlington Hall, junior college for girls; Mrs. Ruby G. Simpson, president of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County; J. P. Daniels, Mayor of Falls Church; the Rev. Elmer Lucas, president of the Ministerial Union of Arlington County; Roger Sullivan, of Alexandria; C. C. Carlin, jr., of Alexandria; Mrs. F. M. Dillard, Garden Club of Alexandria; W. A. Woodson, superintendent of Schools for Fairfax County; Mrs. Amos Chilcotte, Garden Club of Fairfax County; C. H. Powell, member of the board of supervisors for Fairfax County; Thewloe White, Chamber of Commerce of Fairfax County; J. Barton Phillips, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Alexandria; Ashton C. Jones, of Arlington County; Louis C. Carl, president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Ruby Lee Minar, of Arlington County, and E. E. Carveer, vice president of the Citizens Association of Alexandria.

Announcement was made that the committee will hold a meeting in the next few days at which time plans will be perfected for the appointment of a number of subcommittees, and for the calling of a general mass meeting in each of the three districts, Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax County.

The political committee of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, of which Mrs. L. C. McNemar is chairman, met yesterday at her home and perfected plans for a general survey of the entire county to see that all women register and pay their poll taxes prior to May 2 in order that they may vote at the coming election in November.

Dr. Frank T. Stone was elected president of the Clarendon Citizens Association at its meeting held last night in the Firemen's Hall. Other officers are John T. Lipscomb, first vice president; J. W. Swecker, second vice president; Mrs. L. C. McNemar, third vice president; Mrs. Louis A. MacMahon, recording secretary; L. G. McNemar, financial secretary; Arthur J. Porter, treasurer; Herbert H. Porter, Walter U. Varney and L. C. McNemar, legal counsel.

Members of the executive committee, including the above officers, are Walter F. Sunderman, Herbert F. Smith, Mrs. S. B. Detwiler, and Mrs. Elizabeth K. Taylor.

The terms of seven directors of the Clarendon Citizens Corporation, holding company for the association, having expired, the following were placed in nomination to fill the vacancies: Charles R. Taylor, George H. McCrillis, J. Thomas Manning, Arthur J. Porter, Herbert H. Porter, and Mrs. L. C. McNemar. Dr. Frank T. Stone and Walter U. Varney were also nominated to fill the vacancies caused by resignation from the board.

It was announced that the corporation will meet March 19 to confirm the nominations and to arrange for the organization's annual report to the State Corporation Commission.

L. C. McNemar made a comprehensive report on the work being done to have the county take over Washington street from the intersection of Wilson boulevard and Court street as an adequate approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge.

Dr. Stone, chairman of the special committee to consider a modern street lighting system for the business section of Clarendon, reported progress is being made by the committee.

As its new president, Dr. Stone stated that the future for Clarendon and the entire county looks bright.

Last month 245 deeds were recorded in the county clerk's office. The tax to the State amounted to $856.08.

The Arlington Chapter No. 39, Order of the Eastern Star, at its annual meeting held last night in the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall, elected Mrs. Ethel Wetzel as its worthy matron for the year. Other officers are Frank M. Chambers, worthy patron; Mrs. Viola Walker, associate worthy matron; Virgil Bauknight, associate worthy patron; Mrs. Martha Rauh, secretary; Mrs. Nellie Batschelet, treasurer; Mrs. Florence Donaldson, conductress; Mrs. Ethel Hammond, associate conductress; Mrs. Lottie Chambers, chaplain; Mrs. Mildred Rees, marshal. Those chosen as the star points are Miss Margaret May, Adah; Mrs. Ethel Rhynes, Ruth; Mrs. Nilda Springer, Esther; Mrs. Mary Palmer, Martha, and Miss Lois Hagerty, Electa. Mrs. Abbie Toucher was elected warder, and Marian Ward, sentinel.

The newly elected officers will be installed at the meeting to be held the evening of March 26 by Mrs. Mary E. Techum, grand lecturer of the Order of the Eastern Star of the District of Columbia.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold its weekly meeting tomorrow at Windsor Arms, Glebe road, at 12 o'clock.

The Rosslyn Business Men's Association will hold its quarterly meeting tonight in the offices of Fred N. Windridge at Rosslyn. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, will address a joint meeting of the three home nurses classes being sponsored by the Arlington County Chapter American Red Cross in the Lyon Park Community House tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Community Club of the Ballston Presbyterian Church will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Frank Weikel, Spruce street, Clarendon.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Thomas Nelson Page School, at Ballston, will hold a card party tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Davis Morgan, 106 School street, Ballston.

Circle C, of the Clarendon Presbyterian Church, will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. Mammie Lewis, 137 Court street, Clarendon.

Circle B of the Clarendon Presbyterian Church meets tonight at the home of Mrs. A. Emily Rauchenstein in Aurora Heights at 8 o'clock.

The Crusaders Club of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. P. B. Anderson, 305 Hamilton avenue, Clarendon.

To avoid any possible prosecution, C. Wayne Carr, State traffic officeer and inspector, warns motorists to have their automobiles checked for proper lights, brakes, horns and other safety devices, as a crew of State inspectors will be in the county the latter part of this week and next week to make a check-up on all cars.

Mr. Carr announces the following places in Arlington and Fairfax Counties where cars can be tested in accordance with the State law: Arlington County, Cherrydale Garage, Cherrydale; Heitt's Service Station, East Falls Church; Fred N. Windridge, Rosslyn; Bauserman Motor Co., Alcova Heights.

Fairfax County—Dunn Service Station, Woodruffs Corners; Horn Motor Co., Herndon, and Harrison's Garage, Herndon.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

SUMMER COURSES AT V. P. I. ENLARGED

More Than 5,000 Persons Expected to Attend Various Classes.

Blacksburg, Va., March 10 (A.P.).—This summer will be a busy season at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, with a list of ten conferences to be held in the three summer months in addition to the two terms of college work.

More than 5,000 persons are expected to take part in the summer activities described in the 28-page summer quarter bulletin issued here today.

The first summer quarter begins June 11, two days after commencement exercises for the regular college year are to be held; The second term begins August 3 and will conitnue until September 5. During these two terms 118 courses in 20 subjects will be offered. Dr. John W. Watson, professor of chemistry, is chairman of the summer quarter.

Student Rally Planned.

A rally of agricultural high school students and the annual conference of the Future Farmers of Virginia will be held here June 16 to 18, the bulletin says. At this time about 1,000 boys from all sections of the State will be here to take part in stock and crop judging contests and athletic competition. The annual conference of instructors of vocational agriculture, which will bring more than 150 high school teachers here, will be held June 29 to July 2.

A new short course in the use of soils and fertilizer will be held July 6 to 11. It has been designed to meet the needs of farmers, fertilizer dealers, and salesmen, seedsmen, land appraisers, and others who may wish to study the most recent recommendations of agricultural experiment stations on soil management and the use of fertilizers.

The second annual rural ministers' short course will be held July 14 to 23. More than 80 registered for this course last year when it was given for the first time.

The 4-H Club leaders' course will be held July 18 to 20, while the annual 4-H boys' and girls' short course will be held July 20 to 25. Nearly 1,000 will attend the 4-H Club events.

Institute of Rural Affairs.

The third annual Institute of Rural Affairs will be held July 28 to 31. At the same time the State Farmers Institute and the Virginia Homemakers Association will meet. Despite last year's drought more than 1,200 persons from Virginia and the surrounding States attended.

The Southwestern Royal Arch Masons' School will be held on the V. P. I. campus July 13 to 17, and the Southwestern Blue Lodge Masonic School will be held August 3 to 8.

The summer activities will be directed by a committee composed of Dr. Watson, chairman; Harry Gudheim, associate professor of mathematics, secretary of the summer quarter; Edmund C. Magill, professor of agricultural education; J. R. Hutcheson, director of the agricultural extension division, and Reuben Lee Humbert, executive secretary of V. P. I., associate professor of economics, manager of the bureau of community development, and director of industrial surveys.

Pay Is Cut to Aid Railway Receiver

W., B. & A. Employes Take Slash of $50,000 to Aid Situation.

Motormen and conductors of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad Co., now in receivership, have accepted a substantial reduction in salaries as their contribution in efforts for progress in rehabilitation of the property.

Decision to take the cut was reached after conferences, ending early yesterday in Baltimore, between George Weems Williams, receiver for the road, a Baltimore committee of motormen and conductors and officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Order of Railway Conductors.

While the exact amount of the reduction was not made public, it was understood that upward of $50,000 annually will be saved by the agreement. Last year the operating expenses of the electric railway system cost $1,593,420.70, while revenue was only $1,580,587.11. After allowing $90,477.18 for depreciation, the total operating expenses were $1,683,897.92, giving a loss from operations of $103,219.81 before taxes, and $211,826.26 after taxes.

GRAND JURY INDICTS 29 IN WEEK'S WORK

Two Persons Will Face Trial on Manslaughter Counts in Auto Deaths.

Twenty-nine indictments were returned by the District grand jury in its weekly report to Justice Peyton Gordon in the District Supreme Court. Two were for manslaughter growing out of deaths occurring through automobile mishaps and eight were for nonsupport.

Harold A. Blucher, a soldier, was charged with manslaughter in connection with a hit-and-run death in Anacostia two weeks ago. The victim, Edward T. Ryan, was found lying in the street at Anacostia road and N street and died a few hours later.

Blucher was arrested several days later and the car he was driving was found to have been taken from Mrs. Katie Scott, of K street near Thirteenth street northwest.

Joy Riding Also Charged.

The damaged condition of the front of the car led to an investigation that disclosed the machine as the one that struck Ryan. Blucher is also indicted for joy riding.

Harry L. Frissell also was indicted for manslaughter. He is said to have been driving an automobile under the H street viaduct when the machine struck and fatally injured Thomas Carey, 74 years old. Police testified before the grand jury that Frissell was intoxicated when they saw him.

The theft of $420 "bonus" money from Owen F. Cox, of Fifth street near F street northeast, led to the indictment of three Negroes for robbery and two for receiving stolen property. One, Charles Bolden, snatched the money from Cox, and two others, Preston Henry and Sterling A. Reed, snatched it from a Negress who had in turn sought to hand it back to Cox. George and Jennie Buck then got the money and hid it, it is charged. They were indicted for receiving stolen property. The money was recovered.

Others Under Indictment.

Others indicted were William T. Ford, nonsupport of wife; Wade Hampton Lynn, nonsupport of wife and minor child, and Irwin L. Wagner, same charge; Charles Waters Rhine, Robert Paul Weske, John Morris Clingan, Walter H. Wilson, Thomas G. Olsen and Richard Byron Franklin, nonsupport of a minor; Herbert M. King and Clarence Ware, violation of the national prohibition act; Coleman Duckett, Edward A. Jackson and Joshua Callander, housebreaking and larceny.

Three were indicted for grand larceny. They were Charles K. Lohr, Julius Strange and Edward A. Jackson (two counts). Horace I. Lancaster was indicted for robbery and Virginia Katherine Sounders for violation of the Harrison narcotic law.

The grand jury ignored charges against Frank Carson and Elmer Dyer, forgery and uttering, and Vernon Brownell and Alvin Barnes, violation of the national prohibition law.

a rear door. Their home is on H street near Thirteenth street northeast.

Edward H. Johnson, father of Mrs. Dulaney, came to the defense of his son-in-law. "Once," he said, "Mr. Dulaney heard my daughter talking over the telephone with a man, and he grabbed the receiver and asked the man to please stay away, that he was ruining their home."

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are now caring for the four Dulaney children. James A. O'Shea was retained yesterday by Dulaney. Mr. O'Shea said that his client had no statement to make, but that he might have something to say at the inquest.

Huff died in Casualty Hospital a few hours after he had been shot three times by Dulaney. The husband brought Patrolman Dant to the house to guard the rear door when he went to the front. A few minutes later Dant heart shots, and he placed Dulaney under arrest and sent Huff to the hospital.

Accused Man Awaits Hearing in Murder

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., March 10.—The time for the preliminary trial of David Sours, charged with the murder of Edward Buracker in this county last Thursday, has not yet been determined.

Sours is in the Luray Jail, attended by a physician, who has been compelled to administer hypodermic injections to quiet his nerves. He maintains a stolid front, declaring he knows nothing of the crime. A daily search is being made for Buracker's hat; watch, pocket knife and a letter he is thought to have had in his pocket when killed.

ESTATE OF RECLUSE CLAIMED BY OHIOAN

Petition Filed to $98,000 Left by Woman Who Hanged Herself.

Baltimore, March 10 (A.P.).—The $98,000 estate left by Mrs. Mary J. Textor, 74-year-old recluse who hanged herself last May 12, was claimed today by Mrs. Emma J. Thoma, of Cincinnati.

In a suit filed in Federal District Court, Mrs. Thoma said she was an intimate friend of Mrs. Textor and asserted that several times prior to her death Mrs. Textor promised to bequeath her estate to the Ohio woman.

Mrs. Textor's body was found in the home where she had lived alone since the death of her husband, George H. Textor, a lumber contractor, in 1925.

Near by was a bucket of smoldering ashes believed to have contained a will which favored a Baltimore hospital, and which Mrs. Textor is said to have canceled.

The only will found was made in 1910 and left the estate to her husband. Mrs. Elizabeth Nicklas, of Baltimore, filed a claim as next of kin.

Mrs. Thoma's suit asserted she had nursed Mrs. Textor through several periods of illness.

Man Held Under Bond For Shooting of Wife

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 10.—Jesse W. Sublett was held under a $4,000 bond this evening for the Corporation Court grand jury, in the Domestic Relations Court, charged with wounding his wife with a revolver bullet a month ago.

Mrs. Sublett told of a domestic wrangle preceding the shooting at their home, while two policemen knocked vainly at the door to arrest her husband for a misdemeanor. After the police had gone, she said, she turned to leave and was shot from the side, the bullet entering her temple and emerging through the forehead. Sublett did not testify.

4 CASES HEAD LISTS IN NEW YORK INQUIRY

Gordon Murder and Crain's Conduct Hold Attention of Investigators.

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—New York City's law defiance and law enforcement tonight were under a four-lens microscope.

The Vivian Gordon murder, now half a month old without a definite clew; Thomas C. T. Crain's conduct of the office of district attorney; the trial of police officers for "framing" women, and the long-running inquiry into the operation of the magistrates' courts—these are the specks on the plate.

The Gordon murder investigators, including private detectives, have extended their search for evidence to several States, Portland, Me., pawnshops were scrutinized today in the hope they might yield some of the slain woman's possessions—her fur coat, for instance.

Radeloff Refuses Freedom.

Attorney John A. Radeloff, the "J. A. R." of Vivian Gordon's diary—the man she said she greatly feared—refused freedom from jail today when his bail was reduced to $5,000. He has persistently contended his ignorance of the case and insists he should be freed without bond.

Referee Seabury, who had uncovered irregularities not only in the magistrates courts but among bondsmen, prosecutors, lawyers and policemen, expects his new task, involving District Attorney Crain, to be conducted without interfering with the first inquiry. The investigation into Crain's conduct of office is at the direction of Gov. Roosevelt. Crain is a "Tammany Democrat." Referee Seabury is known as an anti-Tammany man. Crain has stated he would welcome an immediate and thorough probe.

Jury Hearing Case.

The current police trial, an outgrowth of the revelations of the erstwhile stool pigeon, Chile Acuna, involves Sydney D. Tait, plainclothes policeman, charged with perjury in connection with vice charge prosecutions. Tait, on the witness stand, denied irregularities in his conduct. A jury is hearing the case.

Miss Arnolda Franklin, sister of Vivian Gordon, left Cincinnati for New York to press a claim for a share of the Broadway butterfly's $50,000 estate. Her brother, Pierre Franklin, of Montreal, was discharged from the psychopathic ward at Bellevue Hospital. He was taken there Sunday after a nervous breakdown ascribed to reaction from the murder of his sister, and the subsequent suicide of her 16-year-old daughter, Benita Bischoff, at Audubon, N. J.

POLICEMAN HELD FOR CARRYING GUN

Denver Policeman Went to Village With Revolver and Trouble Followed.

Denver, March 10.—Arrest of a big-town cop by a small-town cop caused great furore in City Hall here.

The big town cop is E. L. Scott, one of Denver's "finest," and reports reaching here were that Scott was arrested in a dance hall in Erie, Colo., on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Scott showed his badge, it was reported, saying, "You can't arrest me—I'm a policeman myself."

"Do tell," retorted the Erie custodian of law and order. "You may be a cop in Denver but you ain't anything here.

"It's against the law to carry a gun here and you are going to jail for it."

So Scott went to jail while his friends hustled Denver-ward to report the occurence to local police heads.

They appealed to Sergt. David F. McLean, acting captain of detectives. McLean said he could do nothing about it, on the grounds that he didn't know full details of the arrest and the reasons for it.

Then Sergt. Lou Kratke was appealed to and Scott was released from the Erie jail on his request, it was said.

But the case didn't end there. After all, when a cop's arrested, the situation needs probing—So Police Chief Reed assigned Detectives Clarence Jones and Leo O'Laughlin to investigate.

"I want to know the facts," said the chief. "But if carrying a gun was Scotty's only offense, I will take no action against him, as I believe a police officers has a right to carry his revolver in any part of the State."

Berlin Straphangers Walk to Save Penny

Berlin, March 10 (A.P.).—Five pfennigs, one and a quarter cents, is proving almost too great a burden for the straphangers of Berlin.

Comparison of street car, subway and bus receipts before and after that much increase in fares made the cost of a ride six and a half cents, shows a big reduction in passengers.

As between November, 1930, and the same month of 1929, street car rides dropped from 69,600,000 to 51,700,000; subways from 18,900,000 to 17,900,00 and bus fares from 17,700,000 to 12,500,000.

Capt. Eaker Forced Down In Nonstop Flight Attempt

Army Ace Makes Landing in Kentucky Cornfield as Engine Balks.

CAPT. IRA C. EAKER.

Tolu, Ky., March 10 (A.P.).—Capt. Ira Eaker, noted Army flier, was forced down and damaged his plane near here today on a transcontinental flight. He escaped with minor scratches, and, after discovering he could not continue the flight, hurriedly set out for Cave-in Rock, Ill., to spend the night.

Capt. Eaker landed near the farm of Jack Thomas, whence he telephoned a telegram to be sent to Long Island, N. Y., his destination on the flight that started from Long Beach, Calif., early today. At the farm it was said his plane stuck in mud on landing and was badly broken up. He was said to have blamed the forced landing on a "dead engine." He had started for Cave-in Rock before newspaper men could get in touch with him.

Prior to his landing here about noon no definite word had come from the noted Army flier since he took off at 2:13 o'clock this morning from Long Beach, though a plane believed to have been his was seen over Albuquerque, N. Mex., early today. He was flying a specially built Lockheed-Vega monoplane and had said it was rather a test flight than an effort to break the West-East transcontinental record. He had traversed about 1,700 miles when forced to land.

Capt. Eaker was a pilot on the Army plane Question Mark, which set one of the first outstanding endurance flight records in California.

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Faulty fuel pressure caused Capt. Ira Eaker to make a forced landing near Cave-In Rock, Ill., while he was speeding toward New York at the rate of nearly four miles a minute, Army officials announced here tonight after communicating with Eaker by long-distance telephone at Cave-In, Ill.

They said Capt. Eaker told them he was flying the new Army transport command plane at the rate of 235 miles an hour at an altitude of about 12,000 feet when the fuel pressure went bad.

He said he landed in the marshes along the Ohio River, damaging the plane and scratching and bruising his face and hands. He said it took him about a half an hour to extricate himself from the plane and he then walked about five miles to a farmhouse where he obtained transportation to the nearest town.

Army officials said the flight can not be considered a failure as at the rate of speed Capt. Eaker was making, he would have established a new transcontinental record, reaching New York from the Coast in little more than ten hours.

They said Capt. Eaker was merely experimenting as part of the Army search for a transport ship able to keep up with pursuit planes.

PANTAGES IS IMPLICATED IN 'LOVE MARKET' INQUIRY

transported here from Los Angeles to meet the men, Whelan said.

The district attorney also stated his information indicated Olive Day, proprietor of the love mart, had obtained $200 each for the girls and had passed on only $15 to each of the girls for the acts referred to in complaints being drawn.

Pantages, when seen at the Agua Caliente Hotel, where he and Mrs. Pantages were occupying a suite, denied any knowledge of the so-called Hollywood "love bazaar."

"I do not know anything at all about this love syndicate, other than what I had read in the papers," said Pantages. "I have been a very sick man ever since the incipiency of my trial in Los Angeles, my weight sometimes being as low as 100 pounds, and it is only lately that I have begun to gain.

"I have no knowledge whatever of this syndicate and have only known William H. Jobelmann about two weeks, and that was at the time the Los Angeles charges were made. I believe my name has been brought into this affair for the sole purpose of injuring my appeal in the Los Angeles trial, for I am innocent of these new charges."

"That is as true as there is a God in Heaven," interjected Mrs. Pantages. "I know that my husband has not been mixed in any way with this affair."

Pantages then stated he and Mrs. Pantages had gone to Agua Caliente for a few days rest.

"I am willing to cross over into the United States any time the San Diego district attorney sends word he wants me," concluded Pantages.

Shreve said he knew nothing of the operations of the alleged love mart and his dealing with John P. Mills and Alexander Pantages had been limited only to business affairs.

OIL MEN HAPPIER AS OUTPUT LOWERS

Recent Statistics Tend to Show That Industry Is in Better Shape.

Tulsa, Okla., March 10 (A.P.).—If beacons can be found in statistics of petroleum economists, fairer weather lies ahead for the American oil industry.

The industry experienced troublous times last year, but finds new hope in the following statistics, revealing the situation in February:

Daily average production of crude oil in the United States less by 530,000 barrels than on July 1, 1930.

Number of drilling wells 1,000 fewer than at the beginning of 1930.

Crude oil runs to refinery stills decreased by more than 500,000 barrels per day from a year ago.

Gasoline stocks almost down to the 40,000,000 barrels set by economists as ample inventory for April 1, 1931.

Service Station Problem.

A definite sentiment crystallizing for curtailing excessive service station building.

These indications at least encourage hope for a gradual return to normal, in the opinion of such oil men as E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute and the Barnsdall Corporation; W. G. Skelly, president of the Skelly Oil Co.; Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the board of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, and Jacob France, president of the Midcontinent Petroleum Corporation.

While the program of proration of crude production in major areas has been attacked, the majority of producers remain committed to this policy. Fewer new wells are being started now than in any month in 1930.

Progress Is Noted.

Meanwhile, says Reeser, progress is being made in convincing the industry of the soundness of unitization in drilling operations. He believes 1931 will see the unit plan of development put into practice in many areas.

Under "unitization," all companies holding acreage in an area cooperate to drill, and then prorate the oil on the basis of acreage held. Fewer drillings, making for less waste, are required under the unit plan.

Chicago deported 650 aliens during 1930.

OLD DATA IS FOUND ON U.S. REVOLUTION

Library of Late Marquis de Rochambeau Yields "Schedule of Marches."

Versailles, France, March 10 (A.P.).—A first-hand document of the American Revolution, lost for a century and a half, has turned up in the library of the late Marquis de Rochambeau.

It is the "Schedule of Marches" for the army which the Count de Rochambeau led to the siege of Yorktown in 1781. As luck would have it, it comes to light just as Yorktown is preparing to celebrate in October the sesquicentennial of that siege, which ended in the surrender of Cornwallis.

Warrington Dawson, special attache of the American Embassy here, who discovered the document, has also found in the same library a complete journal of the Yorktown siege, written by Baron Gaspard de Gallatin one of the French officers under Rochambeau.

Schedule Is Complete.

The schedule covers the march which began at Newport on June 10, 1781, and ended at Williamsburg, Va., on September 26. It tells of bivouacks at 34 towns where the armies camped and gives a plant of each town.

Discovery of the plan of Williamsburg has long been sought, to aid in the reconstruction of Williamsburg as part of the national colonial monument which is being created around Jamestown.

The other towns of which plans are contained in the schedule are Providence, Plainfield, Boston, East Hartford, Farmington, Bedford, Newcastle, Philipsburg, Haverstraw, Whippany, Princeton, Trenton, Philadelphia, Chester, Wilmington, Head of Elk, Hartford, Baltimore, Annapolis and Archers Hope.

Celebrated the Fourth

The document reveals that Rochambeau and his army apparently celebrated the Fourth of July, for they remained in camp at North Castle from July 3 to July 5 before moving on to Philipsburg.

The newly found schedule is presumably the missing companion piece to the "Schedule of Return Marches," setting forth the facts of the return trip from Williamsburg to Philadelphia after Cornwallis' surrender. This document was presented to America many years ago by the late Marquis de Rochambeau.

The other document had been known of, but was presumed to have been destroyed.

The State of Idaho planted nearly 12,000,000 fish, mostly trout, this year, or an average of 22 for every man, woman and child in the State.

LOST GIRL'S BODY IS FOUND IN SACK

Remains of Virginia Brooks, Headless and Mutilated, Is Discovered by Shepherd.

San Diego, Calif., March 10 (A.P.).—The decapitated and mutilated body of 10-year-old Virginia Brooks, of East San Diego, who had been missing since February 11, was found wrapped in a burlap barley bag on Camp Kearny Mesa today by a sheep herder.

The girl vanished while on the way to school and had been sought over the Southwest. Deputy Sheriff Blake Mason said she apparently had been dead about four weeks and that in addition to being decapitated both legs had been cut off.

The sheep herder said the body had not been where he found it for more than 24 hours, as he was in that vicinity yesterday and would have noticed it. The mesa is about fifteen miles north of San Diego and little frequented.

Authorities Seek Clews.

Authorities were making a careful search to determine whether the body had been brought to the place in an automobile, in the hope of finding clews leading to the slayer.

A neighbor said he had seen an elderly man, described as a "hermit," take the girl to her school on the outskirts of the city several days preceding her disappearance, but no one seems to have seen her after she left home on the morning she disappeared.

A possible clew was given to the sheriff by a taxicab driver who brought in a hat partially identified as having been worn by the girl. The cab driver told the sheriff that two weeks ago he had as passengers a man and a girl wrapped in a cloak.

Dismissed Near House.

The man ordered him to drive to an address, the driver said, but three blocks before the address was reached the man ordered the cab stopped and he and the girl got out. The next morning, the chauffeur said, he found the hat on the floor of the cab.

This conflicted somewhat with the estimate the girl had been dead about four weeks. The disappearance and death of the Brooks girl recalled the slaying in Los Angeles, in 1927, of Marian Parker, 12-year-old daughter of a banker, by William Edward Hickman. Hickman was later executed at San Quentin.

Teachers at Virginia's school offered the theory she might have been carried away while searching for flower specimens for her school work.

Sign Rules Committee Completed.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward Thomas and Capt. L. Edwards, personnel officer at police headquarters, were named yesterday by the District Commissioners to complete the committee ordered to draw up sign regulations under the new law.

Salesman Slayer Hanged in England

First Execution There in 145 Years for Death of Unidentified Man.

Bedford Prison, Bedford, Eng., March 10 (U.P.).—A tangled trail of love and crime brought Alfred Arthur Rouse, 36, dapper salesman and bigamist, to the gallows in Bedford Prison today.

Rouse, convicted of the murder of an unidentified man, was hanged in the gray hours, shortly after dawn. A curious throng of 2,000, the majority of whom were women and children, crowded around the prison gates, despite the bitter cold.

Punctually at 8 a. m., the prison bell tolled, signifying that Rouse had been executed. For the first time in 145 years England had executed a man for the murder of an unidentified person.

Hawks Reaches Atlanta En Route to Houston

Atlanta, Ga., March 10 (A.P.).—Capt. Frank M. Hawks, speed flier, arrived here at 10:59 a. m. Central time today in his "mystery plane," en route to Houston, Tex., where he will visit relatives before sailing for Europe March 31.

Hawks left New York at 7:16 a. m. Eastern time.

Open Your Eyes . . . to the advantages of OIL HEAT

Today—not tomorrow—you should begin a serious investigation into the advantages of Oil Heat. This scientific world owes you a better standard of living. You owe your family the clean, healthful atmosphere of an Oil-heated home.

Automatic Oil Heat has brought heating up to the same modern level of comfort you already have in other details of your home. The lights you use, your modern bathroom, your electric appliances are not essential for the mere maintenance of life. But for a fuller and richer enjoyment of life, their convenience is indispensable. You no longer consider them luxuries. Nor are the modern comforts of Automatic Oil Heat so considered today.

Freedom from Drudgery and Dirt

Automatic Oil Heat marks a notable advance in convenience and comfort. Age-old nuisances and drudgery are eliminated in one sweep. The cellar becomes part of the living quarters. Routine cares are supplanted with new opportunities, new time, new energy for living. With Oil Heat, a small, unobtrusive thermostat on your living-room wall becomes your furnace man. Operated by the temperature of the room, it builds your fire for you, instantly, whenever you want it . . . and keeps it going as long—and only as long—as it is needed. It maintains a uniform, healthful temperature . . . and guards your pocketbook as well.

Eliminates Waste—Actually Costs Less to Operate

In the home that is heated automatically with Oil, not so much as an ounce of fuel is consumed when the house is warm enough. The experience of thousands and thousands of users clearly show that the economical way to heat your home automatically is with Oil. This modern heating system is dependable—as dependable as the quiet, efficient electric current that controls it. Oil Heat produces its benevolent warmth without giving you one anxious moment. The fuel itself can be delivered at any time, without notice, confusion or dust. The remarkable record of delivery service to home owners is a tribute to the foresight, ingenuity and intelligent cooperation of Oil burner dealers, manufacturers and refiners.

Installation Surprisingly Simple

It is not necessary to buy a new heating system to enjoy the benefits of Automatic Oil Heat. Regardless of the kind or type of heating system you now have—steam, hot water, vapor, or warm air—members of the Oil Heating Institute have equipment that may be installed at any time without difficulty or inconvenience. And they will be happy to arrange easy terms for you. From the day Oil Heat is installed in your home your heating cares and worries are ended. Comforting warmth becomes as automatic as the flow of the tide.

TO DISCOURAGE WAR.

A curious misconception has arisen in some quarters with regard to the movement now under way to perfect legislation which, in the event of another war, would enable the Nation to mobilize promptly and in an equitable manner all its resources of men, money and material.

Why this warlike talk about drafting everything? Why not formulate measures to avoid war rather than planning how to conduct one? Such are some of the comments heard. It is difficult to understand how any one who has given this matter thought can fail to realize that the proposals now being advocated by all the American war veterans' associations are primarily and essentially peace measures. They would require just and equitable contribution from every element of national strength in case of war, but the mere execution of that policy would enlist all interests in the country in efforts to prevent war.

The legislation proposed would give assurance that no individual, corporation or special interest of any kind could look to war for profiteering purposes, but rather be given to understand plainly that profits would be reduced to an equalizing minimum. When no individual or concern could, under any circumstances, have a material interest in seeing a war precipitated, even the unprincipled would work against it.

The drafting of the material and financial wealth of the country, as well as its man power, is a complicated undertaking, and it is plain that many different measures of service must be utilized to reach a just division of effort and sacrifice. However, the men who organized under untold difficulties such a gigantic machine as the War Industries Board can do this job, and the time to do it is now, when there is not even a shadow of conflict.

Above all, the men who fought the last war should be absolved of any intention of fomenting strife through legislation or in any other way. The veterans who are working earnestly for the proposed measures know that neither Sherman nor any one else has ever invented language to describe adequately the awfulness of war.

USE OF THE HIGHWAY.

A controversy of far-reaching importance to the future of transportation systems in America is being aired before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Competition between highway and rail traffic has become acute. The railroads are fighting for their lives against the steady encroachment of the truck and the bus. On the other hand, the motor industry is contending for the right of unlimited expansion even though the railroads may be injured. The public assumes the position of a bystander, unable to take sides and yet intensely interested in the outcome.

The issue is whether buses and trucks operating over the highways shall be regulated. Railroad spokesmen claim that motor vehicles carrying passengers and freight for hire are, in effect, subsidized by public funds. They operate over highways that are financed by taxpayers, including the railroads. Why should the railroads be called upon to help pay for the highways that are used by their competitors?

There seems to be little argument against regulation of buses. Without question they are public utilities and should be subjected to regulation, as are other common carriers. But there are practical difficulties in the way of regulating trucks. For the most part trucks are operated by private individuals or corporations in the course of their own business. Regulations applying only to trucks for hire would affect about 20 to 25 per cent of such vehicles in use. Since most of these operate only in intrastate traffic their regulation seems to be a problem for the States rather than the Federal Government.

One step toward a solution is the ever-increasing special taxes levied against motor vehicles. Gasoline taxes amount to tremendous sums, most of which is available for highway building. This system tends to shift the expense of highway construction and maintenance from the shoulders of the general taxpayer to those of the motorist. Nevertheless, the operators of commercial motor vehicles seem to derive more benefit from the highways than they pay for. It is estimated that trucks and buses should bear at least 25 per cent of highway costs. They number only about 12 per cent of all motor vehicle registration, but they are operated over much greater distances and cause more wear and tear on the roads than do private automobiles.

Justice to taxpayers as well as to the railroads demands that commercial vehicles should bear their proportionate share of highway costs. The public is not benefited by low trucking rates if it must pay for them by taxation. On the other hand, motor carriers should not be penalized for the sake of equalizing competition with the railroads. The question seems to turn on whether or not motor vehicles are now subsidized by free use of the highways, and that should not be impossible to determine.

NORRIS OUT-RASKOBS RASKOB.

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, is a unique example of a three-in-one statesman—a triumvirate all by himself. In the last national election he supported the Democratic ticket. Since then he has sat in Congress as a Republican. Today, as chairman, he opens the Progressive conference.

If there should remain any doubt as to who is the boss of the conference, Senator Norris sets it at rest. In a signed article, published two days before the meeting, he announces that the Muscle Shoals bill will be promptly introduced again at the next Congress, and then he "decides:"

"It is the sense of this Progressive conference that we should be able to pass it over the veto of the President by a two-thirds vote in both houses of Congress."

Isn't this out-Raskobing even the Democratic chairman? Why should the Progressives meet and talk, if their resolutions are predigested for them? It is evident that the entire program has already been fixed by Boss Norris, and that the delegates will be called upon merely to sign on the dotted line.

NOVELTIES IN LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Some one is always inventing novelties to take the monotony out of enforcing the prohibition law. Directors and agents must be astonished at the fecundity of their own minds. Sleuthing, sniffing, wire tapping and hip slapping have all had their day, and the bureau is not yet satisfied. Plans are being laid for the use of airplanes in detecting moonshiners. If they are successful Col. Woodcock will annex an air corps to his force.

Let those who have despaired over the failure of enforcement take heart, and the Wickersham Commission withhold further judgment! If the devilish haunts of bootleggers are to be spied out from the clouds, is it not possible that they will give up their evil ways and become law abiding? Think of how a moonshiner would shiver in his boots to hear the drone of a spy plane above his hangout. Maybe the bureau can invent a new sort of bomb that would destroy stills and their appurtenances without causing further damage. Could not an ingenious agent develop a warrant of arrest that could be served from the air? Or, better still, the bureau might make use of the autogyro to swoop down from the skies upon offending citizens in the forest. Enforcement of the liquor laws would become a delightful game of hide and seek. Agents would flock to the service, and moonshiners would be put to an enormous expense for the purchase of anti-aircraft guns.

And yet it seems that with all its inventive genius the Prohibition Bureau has not taken full advantage of its possibilities. Some one ought to get busy on a mechanical sniffing device for the sleuthing planes. Let the so-called mechanical eye be brought into play to search out cleverly camouflaged dens of rum. Then Congress could enact a law requiring all bootleggers to broadcast their exact position at regular intervals, to facilitate the aerial search. It is unsafe to forecast the future of such experiments, but it looks as if a new era in the conquest of rum is about to dawn.

RUSSIA'S SECOND HOAX.

Moscow's second judicial hoax has come to an end without casualties. The Russian people may not have detected trickery in last December's performance when eight distinguished Soviet engineer "traitors" gushingly proclaimed their guilt, but nevertheless escaped the red executioner. But the "trial" of the fourteen menshevists which has just ended in jail sentences for all of them reached such sublime heights of absurdity that even the most naive peasant must recognize it as a burlesque.

M. Krylenko, the fiery prosecutor, denounced the defendants as the most despicable foes of the Soviet. But the accused put his vituperation to shame by their denunciations of themselves. They admitted plotting against the "glorious Soviet Union." Choking and sobbing like men insane they pleaded for execution in atonement for their hideous sins. They had raised unholy hands against the dictatorship of the proletariat. What could they expect but death?

Every speech was concluded with a glorification of the Soviet regime, and a plea to the people to cooperate in what amounts to their own enslavement. All this blubber was poured into microphones and broadcast throughout Russia to impress the people.

If the proletarian czars find it necessary to resort to this kind of nonsense to convert the people to communism they must indeed be in desperate straits. Instead of furthering the cause of bolshevism, such performances only advertise the insincerity and dishonor of the clique that has Russia in its grasp.

MR. HOOVER'S VACATION.

President Hoover's short visit to his son at Asheville, N. C., recalls the fact that he has not had a real vacation since he entered the White House more than two years ago. He has refused to seek relaxation while vital problems were pressing for his attention. Fortunately his health has remained good under this strain. Apparently he is conserving his strength well, but certainly he needs a rest from executive worries.

With the exception of a short fishing trip in Florida and a few brief tours in the East and South, President Hoover has been closely confined to Washington. Last summer he planned an extensive trip to the West, but plans were abandoned because of the drought. Mr. Hoover stayed in Washington through the heat of one of the worst summers the country has ever experienced, seeking relief only on week-ends when he motored to his summer camp on the Rapidan. Even these excursions were devoted more to business than to recreation.

The President is reported to be planning another fishing trip to Florida and a more extensive excursion to the West. Now that he has disposed of the bills that Congress sent to his desk in the last hours of the session he will have an opportunity to make definite arrangements. Some quiet fishing as a sequel to the recent session of Congress should do the President a world of good. A long vacation during the summer would enable him to build up needed reserve strength.

A commendable service for the unemployed has been performed by the Junior League of Washington. Last November, when the unemployment situation became acute, the Junior League established an employment bureau in the Epiphany parish house. The work of this bureau was carried on almost entirely by volunteers of the league.

The most notable piece of work which the league accomplished was the donation of extra labor to charitable institutions. A fund was created for the payment of wages to jobless men and women. The workers hired with this money were put in charge of 35 charitable institutions. Buildings were repaired and painted, and social workers, clerks and nurses were relieved of extra duties. The social agencies were as much in need of this extra help as were the unemployed of work. Two worthy purposes were accomplished through this one fund amounting to $15,000.

The Junior League has furnished an excellent example of how the American people take upon themselves the responsibility of aiding fellow human beings in distress.

The Democrats have their Raskob, and the Republicans their LaGuardia, but the Republicans haven't yet sold their party to LaGuardia.

The population of India increased 30,000,000 in the last ten years. That'll make Mussolini turn green with envy.

Ship travel increased last year. Must be due to the large number of Americans trying to avoid the depression.

The latest puzzle is how Senator Borah escaped investigation by the Fish committee.

HELPING THE ENEMY

From the Saturday Evening Post.

For some time now the press has been carrying stories about the Russian five-year plan. The name is a misnomer. Though the plan was conceived by Russian Communists, it is being carried forward by American capitalists. Aid, comfort and credit are being extended by them to the Soviet government.

If the five-year plan succeeds it will be with the help of American engineers, experts, machinery and money. If it succeeds it will be at the expense of the American farmer, laborer and manufacturer.

Alibis are plentiful, but not plausible. Pro-Russian propaganda is making itself felt over the radio, in speeches and in the press. It is being put out not only by radicals, but by capitalists who hold Soviet contracts. The latter plead in extenuation that by forwarding the five-year plan they are really hastening the return of Russia to capitalism. They can find no convict, no forced labor.

Men who have no contracts with the Soviets—men who have escaped from the convict camps—tell a different story. Our farmers, who have to pay taxes, interest on mortgages and a living wage to their help; who have to compete in the world markets with wheat raised by pauper labor, and with the latest American machinery, are finding it hard to believe the propaganda. Our lumbermen, our pulp manufacturers, our independent oil men, to mention only a few of the lines that are beginning to get the backwash from the Americanization of Russian industry, are feeling a little restive.

We are very quick to close our markets to prison goods made by American convicts. Then why so tender to convict-made commodities from Russia? We will not tolerate forced labor at home, and our Congress talks endlessly about maintaining an American standard of living. Then why be receptive to commodities made by labor that is maintained just above the bare subsistence level?

We are sending to Russia tractors to break new lands with which to flood the world markets with wheat, experts to teach the Communists how to run them and to superintend the building of farm machinery factories; we are sending electrical machinery, experts to teach Russia how to run it and to reenforce her forced labor with cheap power; we are sending experts to rehabilitate Russian railroads—in short, ship after ship, with their holds filled with American machinery and their cabins filled with American engineers and experts, has been leaving our ports. But now the ships are coming back, filled with the products of convict and starvation labor.

We have no quarrel with the Russian people, the Russian form of government, or Russian business methods up to the point where by subversive propaganda or by trade policies they seek to overturn our Government and reduce our standards to their level. Siberia and the concentration camp, or worse, is their method of dealing with any one criticizing the masters of the Soviet despotism or taking exception to their policies. What Russians do at home is their business, but what they would do to America is our business. We have no quarrel with them over their five-year plan, but we have a quarrel with American capitalists who are putting it over for them.

If communism as a form of government is superior to democracy, let Russia prove it by some method other than by trying to drag other nations down to her own level. The want and suffering of the Russian people, their desire to raise their economic level, may engage our sympathy, but we must refuse to countenance the methods and morals of their despotic masters. As Oliver Wendell Holmes put it, "One must not burn down one's own house, even to warm the hands of the widow and the fatherless."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

UNPURCHASABLE

A rich man called his son aside
And said: "The money I'll provide.
To an unlimited amount
I'll guarantee your bank account.
Go out and walk the market's length
And buy yourself a stock of strength.
As men buy rifles, so that you
Can bear as much as others do.

"Then while you're shopping keep in mind
You'll need the very finest kind
Of courage, so make sure to buy
The best the market can supply.
If strength and pluck are shown for sale
Buy every barrel, jug and pail
Which you may chance to see displayed
And gladly will the bill be paid.

"Go out and pay whate'er you will
To any master of his skill
And bribe a scholar to dispose
Of every helpful fact he knows.
Flourish your gold where all may see
And cry: 'I'll buy integrity!
My character is worn and frayed,
I seek a new one ready made.'"

The startled merchants heard him shout:
"Good gold for courage offered here!
For brains I'll pay a million clear!
Who'll sell me strength that I may hold
My own against the brave and bold?"
But those who heard him thought him daft
Or pitied him or merely laughed.

The Elephant Lives in Peace Because He Preys on None and None Dare Attack Him.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

"In time of peace prepare for war," was the slogan of men who considered fighting the only proper career for a gentleman.

It was good advice in a world where might alone prevailed and pillage was the reward of valor, and it still is good advice if we concede that war must come.

But for present-day America, free of envy, fear and malice, there is a wiser and more decent slogan:

"In time of peace prepare to prevent war."

Merely to be ready for conflict is not enough. To be ready for a quarrel is in some measure to invite it. The making of medicine to cure plague victims is a poor investment of energy if there is a way to prevent the plague.

And beyond any doubt America can prevent the plague of war.

Not by means of treaties, for all experience has shown that treaties are mere scraps of paper to a nation that is fighting for its life.

Not by means of disarmament, for men fought with spears before guns were invented and never yet have refrained from fighting for lack of adequate weapons.

Not by any scheme of cooperation, however just and reasonable it might be, for nations are by the nature of things competitors, with conflicting needs and interests, and no league or alliance can survive the strain of competition until the race has developed far enough to welcome the idealistic "federation of mankind" and "parliament of the world."

America's assurance of peace lies in America.

It is an assurance based on the fact that nations make war for two reasons only—because they are attacked, or because they are sure of victory. No nation willingly undertakes a war it can not hope to win. The weak nation fights only with its back to the wall.

America, as all the world knows, will engage in no war of conquest. However strong she may be she will not be an aggressor.

There remains only the matter of self-defense.

How, then, could war come if other nations of the world knew America was equipped to defend herself successfully against any combination of enemies?

Germany, equipped to fight the world, welcomed war. America would not. Germany had much to fear; America would have nothing.

America, prepared to defend herself against the world, would have complete assurance of peace.

It is not enough to win when war comes. Winning will not replace wrecked cities and restore the maimed and butchered millions.

Catching and hanging the murderer is small comfort to the family of his victim. The murder must be prevented.

The task that confronts the enemies of warfare is to make war impossible, and they can do it only by making America's shores invulnerable.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Politics in a Good Cause.

New York Times.

A man so prominently talked about as Gov. Roosevelt for the Presidency next year is certain to have his every act searched with a lighted candle to discover its possible bearing upon his ambition. All that he does is at once "affected with a political interest." This is clearly revealed in the flood of speculation about his motives in ordering an investigation of the district attorney in this county. It is buzzed about in Washington almost as much as in New York. • • • He is in an important political position himself. He has to seek the support of politicians, and to strive himself to be a good one. This may be scorned by superior and fastidious persons as "playing politics." But in public life and in the public interest it is often necessary to play politics in order to get things done for the general welfare. And we rather fancy that few citizens will greatly care how Gov. Roosevelt goes about cleaning up New York, provided he makes a good job of it.

What of States' Rights?

Chicago Tribune.

Mr. Raskob, who has a $600,000 lien on the Democratic party, gave its national committee an idea at the party program meeting in Washington. It was for another amendment to the Constitution, qualifying the eighteenth and permitting the States to adopt their own liquor control policy if they wanted to get out from under Federal prohibition. States which did not want this freedom could remain under Volstead. Sharpshooters came out of the Southern brakes and brush to pot the idea as soon as the chairman had submitted it. In this instance the South turns tail on the doctrine of its devotion, and Joe Robinson, of Arkansas, is not satisfied that his State might have what it wanted. Al Smith's State must have it also, whether it wants it or not.

How Mr. Morrow Voted.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch (Dem.).

They are calling Mr Morrow the sphnix of the Senate because during the last session he uttered no word except to answer to his name when the roll was called. How he stands on public questions, however, was indicated by his votes. He voted against recalling confirmation of the power commissioners; against the original food relief appropriation; against the veterans' loan bill; to confirm "Beet Sugar" Brossard for the Tariff Commission; against the Muscle Shoals bill. In other words, up to this point he has been a stanch administration Republican.

Maybe he will improve as he warms up his seat.

Not Progressive Enough.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Prof. John Dewey, leader in a movement to organize independent voters and advocate of a third party in 1932, has administered a schoolmaster's rebuke to the Progressives who meet tomorrow to formulate a legislative program for the next Congress. Possibly for the reason that he was not invited to attend the conference, he chose this period of preparation to take the Progressives to task for not holding up necessary appropriation bills in order to force votes on their proposals at the last session. And he warns that "more progressive tactics must be pursued by those who claim to be progressive if they expect to maintain the support of the rank and file of Progressives off the Government pay roll."

Which proves that Prof. Dewey's progressivism is largely academic, and that he does not give proper consideration to the all-important problem of election and reelection to public office.

A Break at Last.

We have had floods and drought and earth tremors but luck has changed. The danger of another extra session of Congress has been averted.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Neither Great Party Should Be Fanatical on Liquor Question, Says an Old Voter.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I suppose I may call myself one among several million voters who, the more they think about it, will be increasingly astonished and disgusted at the attempt of the wet Raskob group to make their fanaticism paramount in the policy of the Democratic party.

My great objection to the drys has been that they seek to make the question of what we shall drink more important than any other. That objection holds good so far as the Raskobian wets are concerned.

With a reckless disregard for orderly procedure suggestive of the ruthless tactics of racketeers, the sole aim of the Raskobians seems to be to add wetness as a fundamental doctrine of the party of Jefferson and Jackson.

It should steadily be kept in mind that the Constitution of the United States is today a dry Constitution.

Under that Constitution, we will easily outlive any danger the future may have in store. But it is a silly thing for either great party to hang its fate upon the single question, "To booze or not to booze."

HICKORY.

Another Effort to Be Made at Geneva to Limit Opium Manufacture.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial of February 28 notes that "For a number of years it has been agreed that the most effective way to control the drug traffic is to limit its manufacture." Having regard to The Post's views expressed in your excellent editorial of February 9 last year, you might well have said that appropriate limitation of manufacture would not stop at the "control" of the enormous quantities of narcotics which find their way around the world underground, but would actually eliminate it—the entire existence of these ghastly commodities. For, as you pointed out a year ago, given world limitation of manufacture to the world's medical requirements, where would the illicit traffic gets its supplies of morphine, heroin, etc.?

But in your current editorial you feel that "about all the United States can do is to strengthen its own force for the prevention of smuggling," and that "apparently world opinion has not yet advanced to a point where the principal drug-producing nations are willing to limit their manufacture to the medicinal demand."

While the continental countries which supply most of the rest of the world's narcotics are doubtless, as you suggest, most unwilling to appropriately limit their outputs, there is every indication that the world's 50-odd victimized nations are going to force them to do so at the international conference called for May 27 in Geneva on the initiative of the League of Nations, at which conference it appears safe to predict that the United States will be represented.

It remains to be seen whether a "drug tight" international agreement will result from the May conference, or only one which will appear to meet the situation, but which, thanks to the usual sinister forces, will conveniently not do so.

A Briton's View of Remedies for His Country's Ills.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As an Englishman I think that all your readers who have the welfare of Great Britain at heart have been much interested in your article of today's issue entitled "Crushed by the Dole," which also deals with England's failing industries and the unemployment problem, in regard to which I think the common sense of my countrymen will soon assert itself now that the climax has almost been reached.

The real working people there I find are now tired of helping to support the idlers and are willing for fresh legislation with regard to the doles by government finding some sort of work at doles' rate of pay for all those who wish or are able to work, and to disenfranchise the remainder.

Further, with regard to relieving the failing industries and unemployment: First, this could be greatly remedied by introducing a tariff on almost all imports, with the exception of those produced in the British dominions. Second, by the home government granting long-term loans to the dominions to encourage immigration by using the money to develop their vast untouched lands and natural resources. Third, by making strikes subject to government arbitration, especially those dealing with public necessities, and enforcing this by adding classified labor battalions to the army, which it could call upon to work, in case of emergencies.

ALYN WILLIAMS.

Wonders Whether Radio Is the Cause of Drought.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A great deal was said in the last Congress about drought relief, but nothing said as to the probable cause of the drought, the end of which isn't in sight.

I blame it on there being so many radios, which absorb the electric currents in the air, preventing moisture.

Last summer, with all the intense heat, there were hardly any thunderstorms, which was very strange. I would like to hear from others in regard to this, especially the Weather Bureau.

DEAD MAN IS FOUND AT BOMBING SCENE

Havana Police Mystified by Apparent Suicide in Door at Spanish Embassy.

Havana, March 10 (A.P.).—Police of Havana had a new mystery on their hands tonight in the death of an unidentified man, whose body was found hanging in the doorway of the Spanish embassy just after the explosion of a bomb there.

Though perhaps a suicide, authorities could not explain his presence at the embassy, where he was unknown. His body was found when they went to investigate the explosion, which did little damage. Those who placed the bomb escaped.

Police also were searching for assailants who early today raided the office of the humorous weekly, Karikato, wrecked the equipment and beat several members of the staff, including the editor, Julio Gaunaurd, who also received a slight bullet wound. Several women were reported among the intruders.

Gaunaurd tonight said he believed "agents of the government" committed the depredation. His publication was among those which were permitted to resume operations after being suspended by the government. His first issue last night contained cartoons directed against the Machado administration.

Gaunaurd was beaten about the head by the attackers, who were numbered at between 20 and 50. A wound in his ear required six stitches. He did not recognize his assailants. "I have no guarantee for my life," he said tonight, "and expect to be assassinated from one moment to the other."

Other developments today included the arrest of a former army officer in whose home police had found a cache of firearms, and continuation of inconsequential bomb explosions, which have held the attention of police for several weeks.

Secretary of the Interior Vivanco tonight said that he had ordered the secret police to investigate fully the attack on the Karikato office.

PROGRESSIVE GROUP QUIZZED BY WATSON

immigration laws? Should we place an embargo on the importation of oils? Should we place a tariff on oils?

"These interrogatories are addressed to you not in any controversial spirit, but because, in my judgment, it is a duty of all persons who are assuming to define their position on public questions, to whatever party or group they may belong, to fearlessly state their views on all the problems that today confront and perplex us as a people. Therefore, in common with all your fellow citizens, I shall be very happy if you and those associated with you will make as full a response to these questions as those assembled may deem fitting and appropriate."

The wily Senator Watson must have chuckled as he wrote that letter, for the Progressive conference that opens here today is in no position to answer such a list of questions.

Sarcastic Response Likely.

The chances are therefore that if the Watson letter is mentioned at all, it simply will call for some sarcastic statements from the Progresive senators who will be in command of the conference.

The ballroom of the Carlton Hotel, often the scene of debutante coming-out parties, is to be the Progressive forum. Among the 175 who have signified that they are coming are men and women of both parties, and men and women who find it difficult to line up with either party. Many of them rode the Bull Moose band wagon with Teddy Roosevelt in 1912 and later on threw their strength to the Progressive ticket of La Follette and Wheeler.

The keynote of today's conference will be sounded at 10 o'clock this morning by Senator Norris, who will call upon the assemblage to help in the formulation of a Progressive legislation program to be presented to the Seventy-second Congress.

Three Sessions Set Today.

After the Norris keynote speech, letters and telegrams from five governors will be read, among them one from Gov. Roosevelt, of New York. The latter has said that State affairs hold him in New York, but Democartic politicians say that he would not have come here even if he had the chance.

Following the reading of the messages, announcement will be made of the make-up of the committees that are to work out a legislative program during the spring and summer months.

At 10:30 a round table conference on the tariff will begin. This will be opened by Senator-elect Costigan (Democrat), of Colorado. After he has spoken there will be a general discussion of the tariff.

The afternoon session will start at 1:45, with Senator Borah in charge. The Idaho senator will talk about and lead a discussion on the problems of agriculture, and his speech will be broadcast by the Columbia system. He will begin about 2 o'clock.

Will Discuss Government.

There will be an evening session beginning at 8 o'clock. This will be marked by a discussion of "return to representative government," a discussion that will be started by Senator Cutting (Republican), of New Mexico.

Tomorrow morning's session will be in charge of Senator La Follette, and will be devoted to unemployment. The afternoon session will be in charge of Senator Norris, who will talk on public utilities. His talk also will be broadcast by the Columbia System. The evening session, which will be the final one, will be devoted to listening to reports from the committees outlining the work that must be done in connection with formulating the legislative program.

No matter how progressive this program may be, it is not going to be progressive to all those who style themselves progressives. Evidence of this was contained yesterday in a statement issued by the Peoples Lobby, of which Prof. John Dewey, of New York, is president.

The statement called upon the conference to demand of President Hoover to call a special session of Congress to deal with unemployment.

LABOR PARTY CUTS LINK WITH MOSLEY

Founding of New Political Faction Is Called Act of "Gross Disloyalty."

London, March 10 (A.P.).—The name of Sir Oswald Mosley was expunged today from the rolls of the Labor party, until lately the possessor of his political affections.

Terming his foundation last week of a new political party "an act of gross disloyalty" national executives of the Labor party ousted by unanimous vote the 35-year-old member of the House of Commons who has sat in that body as an independent, a Conservative and a Laborite.

Sir Oswald, still abed with a cold which prevented his presence at the formal inauguration of his own party several days ago, vouched no comment on his expulsion from the Labor ranks—an action which was not unanticipated. His wife, Lady Cynthia Mosley, her husband's "right-hand man" in the new party had resigned from Labor's ranks a week ago.

Mosley's new party, which has tariff reform as its main purpose and which sponsors a limited dictatorship in British government by an inner cabinet of half a dozen ministers was formed, its founder said, for the rehabilitation of Britain.

One Conservative member of Commons, W. E. D. Allen, has joined it. Its other members are John St. Leo Strachey, journalist, and Dr. Forgan. Labor members of Parliament, and Sir Oswald and Lady Cynthia daughter of Lord Curzon and granddaughter of the late Chicago merchant Prince Levi Leiter.

10,000-MILE TRIP FOR INSECT BEGUN

University Expert Sails for Australia to Seek Foe of Fruit Pest.

San Francisco, March 10.—A 10,000-mile journey in search of an insect is the job delegated to Stanley E. Flanders, of the University of California.

Flanders sailed for Australia on a hug hunting expedition, the object of which is to find an enemy of the destructive citricola scale which is damaging citrus fruits of California. Hope of success is based on the university's discovery a few years ago of a parasite that destroys the deadly mealbug.

According to Dr. L. D. Batchelor, director of the university's citrus experiment station, Australia is known to be the source of citricola scale. Before scientists can hope to find the scale's natural enemies it must be studied in the pest's home territory, he says. Flanders is prepared to devote several months in collecting likely enemies of the scale. These will be returned to California, bred in quantities and if they are found harmless to other agricultural crops they will be propagated in sufficient numbers to wipe out the scale.

"There are several species of citrus relatives growing in the hot, arid portions of Australia, including eremocitrus and microcitrus. It is these plants that the university propose to have Flanders study as a possible source of citricola.

"In addition to the search for the citricola scale, there are additional enemies of the black scale, citrophilus mealbug and perhaps of the red scale, which the university hopes to secure from Australia as a result of Flanders' trip."

Street intersections in Tulsa, Okla., will be marked with luminous signs, visible night and day.

Actor, Who Saw Lincoln Assassinated, Is Dead

Philadelphia, March 10 (U.P.).—Charles Francis Byrne, 86-year-old former actor, who was on the stage of Ford's Theater in Washington the night John Wilkes Booth shot Abraham Lincoln, died at the home of a son here today.

Byrne took the role of Captain De Boots in the play "Our American Cousin" the night of the assassination. Production of the play was discontinued immediately after the shot was fired and Byrne never returned to the stage. He was in the real estate business here for 25 years.

3 Killed, 2 Hurt When Plane Falls

Unlicensed Ship Nose-Dives Onto Oklahoma Farm From 100 Feet.

Mounds, Okla., March 10 (A.P.).—Three persons were killed and two others injured, perhaps fatally, today when an unlicensed airplane piloted by J. R. Hays, Wewoka, Okla., crashed on a farm 3 miles south of here.

The dead: Mrs. J. T. Reed, of Mounds; David Reed, 18, her son; Herschell Casey, about 23. The injured: J. T. Reed, jr., 15, son of Mrs. Reed; J. R. Hays, pilot.

Hays said the ship went into a nose dive at an altitude of about 100 [illegible] biplane of an old model. It bore an identification number, but was not licensed. The crash occurred near an improvised landing field.

British Army Cost To Be $200,000,000

Commons Asked to Vote Sum for 1931; Request Awaits Debate.

London, March 10 (A.P.).—Appropriation of £39,930,000 (approximately $200,000,000) for maintenance of the British army during the coming year was proposed in the House of Commons today by Tom Shaw, secretary for war, and accepted in principle on behalf of the Conservative and Liberal parties.

The army estimates were much the same as last year's.

Mr. Shaw said in submitting the estimates that while the government was eager to do all that was possible to further disarmament by international agreement.

Admiring Horde Menaces Gandhi

Speech Made on Return to Home Is Unheard by Joyous Thousands.

Ahmadabad, India, March 10 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi, home for the first time since his salt-making march to the sea, was jostled about like an American subway passenger today by 100,000 worshiping Hindus who fought to touch his garments.

So great was the crush that he would have been seriously injured had not those closest to him formed a flying wedge and butted a way to the speaker's platform in the center of a tremendous crowd.

Tens of thousands of white-clad men, women and children sat cross-legged on the burning sands of the dried-up River Sabarmati, gazing upon the man who has led them closer to freedom than Indians have ever been before. They didn't care whether they heard him. They had come to see him, and when his speech was over the mob closed about him again and there was another battle before he could get away.

Six Mothers Offer Buggy To Poor Babe

A mother's zeal for the health of her infant child that caused her to steal a baby carriage went rewarded yesterday when six mothers came forward with offers of a carriage for the child.

The carriage was taken from in front of the child's clinic at 330 C street northwest. Detective Sergt. Robert Barrett recovered the carriage and returned it to its owner, Mrs. Nellie G. Neilson, of F street near Third street northwest, who refused to prosecute.

Upon publication of the theft, Sergt. Barrett was besieged with calls from mothers who volunteered to give a carriage to the destitute mother.

B. B. Jones Names Horse 'Mary Borah'

Senator's Wife Thrilled to Have Mare Called After Her.

AL SMITH, famous steed of Senator William E. Borah, is jealous. Right under his nose a newcomer, Mary Borah, has stolen his thunder and trotted to the center of the paddock to be introduced to the world by a name as significant as his own and far more euphonious. Even the senator from Idaho finds no redress. Mary Borah, named for his petite and charming wife, has slipped into fame and will go down on the registry as proud of its name as of the blueblood of Princess Doreen, which runs in its veins.

Owned by Mr. Bernard B. Jones, of Washington, the slim filly of the Audley Farms Stables bids fair to become the proud pet of the Senator and Mrs. Borah who are close friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Jones. If the path of nomenclature has been a bit wabbling with respect to the fine animal, its place in the hearts of horse lovers was quickly established.

First named Princess Mary, the horse was duly registered under the name of the Princess Royal until it was found to be a duplicate of another horse in the United States, whereupon Mr. Jones changed it to Petite Princess Mary. Forthwith came protest from the New York Jockey Club which declared the name too long and unwieldy. And into the limelight came "Mary Borah," of Princess Doreen and Bright Knight, which Mr. Jones brought from the stables of Viscount Astor in England. Bright Knight is also the father of Gallant Knight, champion runner last year.

Not at all disturbed by the jibes directed her way by Senator Borah, who takes delight in teasing the chatelaine of his home, Mrs. Borah declares she is greatly thrilled to have her name attached to the beautiful mare, considering it also an honor to have been selected by Mr. Jones as the "lady of the decoration."

Mrs. Hoover Has Guests At Philharmonic Concert.

Mrs. Hoover had as her guests at the concert given by the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. Arthur Wood and Miss Susan Dyer. The concert was given in Constitution Hall.

The Minister of Greece and Mme. Simopoulos will go to New York on Friday. Mme. Simopoulos will pass the week end at Rosslyn on Long Island and will join the Minister in New York on Monday. Yesterday Mme. Simopoulos entertained at luncheon at the legation.

The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, who is in the Canal Zone for the maneuvers of the fleet, will be the guest of honor at several fetes to be given in Balboa, where he will remain until next Wednesday. On Saturday night, the United States Minister to Panama, Mr. Roy Tasco Davis, will entertain at dinner in honor of Secretary Adams at the Miramar Club. Next week a reception will be given in his honor aboard the U. S. S. Texas.

After a short visit in New York, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, whose retirement from the Army came with his sixty-fourth birthday a week ago, is the guest of Col. Clark Williams at his estate near Camden, S. C. Yesterday Gen. Summerall addressed the Legislature of South Carolina at Columbia.

Since his departure from Washington last November Gen. Summerall, with Mrs. Summerall, has spent most of the winter at his former home in Eustis, Fla., where they devoted much time to the restoration of the old house, which was their home while the general was serving the Army as second lieutenant.

In September Gen. Summerall will assume his new duties as president of the Citadel, military college of South Carolina, where he will have charge of 700 cadets. Each year many of Citadel graduates receive commissions in the Regular Army without examination. Gen. Summerall's new position will take him back to the days of his boyhood when he received his first military training at Porter Military Academy in Charleston. After graduation from this school he won the West Point appointment. Gen. Summerall will succeed Col. Oliver J. Bond, who has headed the institution since 1908.

Mrs. Ingalls Sard entertained a company of 20 guests at dinner last evening in her home at 1911 F street in honor of Mrs. W. Davies Sohier, jr., of Boston, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Denegre.

Mr. and Mrs. Denegre will entertain at dinner tonight for Mrs. Sohier, who will leave tomorrow for her home in Boston.

Mrs. Sard will leave next week for Aiken, S. C., where she will spend a few weeks. She came to Washington from New York several months ago to spend the winter months and leased the house on F street which belongs to Mrs. James F. Curtis. Mrs. Sard, who was Miss Abby Ingalls Barnard, spent much of her girlhood in Washington and has many friends here.

The house which she is occupying is just across the street from Mrs. Curtis' own charming old-fashioned house at 1925 F street. Last winter, as her father was seriously ill, Mrs. Curtis turned the "big house" over to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Merriam, and moved into the smaller residence next door.

Will Live Abroad

Carter Bailey.

MRS. HARRY LIVINGSTON HARTLEY

before her marriage on Saturday was Miss Louise Harris Randolph, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Buckner Magill Randolph, of Charlottesville, Va., formerly of Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Hartley will sail on April 3 for Buenos Aires, where Mr. Hartley is vice consul.

Martino Host To Toscanini At Big Party

Princess Boncompagni Is Among Notable Guests at Dinner.

The Italian Ambassador and Donna Antoinetta de Martino entertained at dinner last evening.

The guests were the Argentine Ambassador and Senora de Malbran, Senator and Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Senator Arthur Capper, the Minister of Albania, Mr. Faik Monitza; the Counselor of the Spanish Embassy, Count de Montefuerte; former Senator and Mrs. Guy D. Goff, Maestro Arturo Toscanini, who conducted the concernt of the New York Philharmonic yesterday afternoon, and Signora Toscanini; Princess Margaret Draper Boncompagni, Miss Bell Gurnee, Signor Gieuseppe Catalani, second counselor of the embassy; Miss Helen Patten, Signorina Wanda Toscanini, Miss Anne Randolph, the Counselor of the Embassy, Count Alberto Marchetti di Muriaglio, and the Military Attache of the Embassy, Lieut. Col. Marco Pennaroli.

The Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr have canceled the dinner they were to have given tonight in honor of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson, owing to the death of the Undersecretary of State, Mr. Joseph P. Cotton.

Senators Spending Spring in South.

Former Senator Arthur R. Gould, of Maine, and Mrs. Gould, will pass the remainder of the season at their winter home in St. Petersburg, Fla. Also in Florida for the month are Senator and Mrs. Reed Smoot, who are at the Breakers in Palm Beach. Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who has been in Miami for a short time has gone to Havana.

Senator and Mrs. Frank C. Partridge and their son, David, of Proctor, Vt., are at the Chelsea in Atlantic City for a few days.

Senator Royal S. Copeland arrived in Washington from New York yesterday and is at the Willard.

Gen. and Mrs. George E. Leach, of Minneapolis, Minn., have arrived at the Powhatan for a brief visit.

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts, has canceled all social engagements owing to the critical illness of her mother, Mrs. Nourse.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Robert C. Davis, of New York, will arrive in town today, planning to remain for some time. They have taken an apartment at the Wardman Park.

Maj. and Mrs. Raymond E. Lee have gone to New York, where they will be for a few days at the St. Regis Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Colt Bloodgood, of Baltimore, will be the guests of honor at the luncheon of the National Woman's Country Club Monday, March 16, at the clubhouse on Bradley boulevard. Afterward Dr. Bloodgood, who is a world authority on cancer, will give a talk.

Paynes Hosts At Big Dinner Last Evening

Assistant War Secretary Entertains Tonight for Tufts.

The Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Frederick H. Payne were dinner hosts last evening at the Mayflower, having as their guests the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, Senator and Mrs. Charles L. McNary, of Oregon; Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. F. Trubee Davison, Mrs. William V. Pratt, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Edward A. Kreger, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua, Maj. Gen. Samuel Hof, Maj. Gen. Albert J. Bowley, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. William E. Horton, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. George S. Simonds, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Edwin D. Bricker, Surgeon General and Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming, Col. and Mrs. Charles D. Herron, Col. and Mrs. John O. Johnson, Mrs. Robert G. Foy, Col. and Mrs. James K. Crain, Lieut. Col. Campbell E. Hodges, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Maj. and Mrs. Delos C. Emmons, Maj. and Mrs. H. H. Hawkins, Capt. and Mrs. Guy R. Hatrick, Lieut. F. V. H. Kimble, Mrs. James Carroll Frazer, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Karl D. Klemm, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Tufts, of Greenfield, Mass.

Dinner was served in the Chinese room of the hotel, where a section of the Army Band played during the evening.

Mrs. Payne is the guest in whose honor Mrs. McCain, wife of Col. William Alexander McCain, director of the Army Industrial College, will entertain at luncheon tomorrow in her home.

The Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Payne will have as their guests of honor tonight at a dinner at the Mayflower Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Tufts, of Greenfield, Mass., who arrived yesterday.

Mrs. Bernard B. Jones will go to New York today to pass some time. She will return the first of next week.

The Young Women of the National Capital Republican Club will be the guests of Mrs. Virginia White Speel at a reception and afternoon tea to be given at the Willard Saturday.

Society Girl Becomes Airport Hostess.

Another young girl has joined the ranks of the employed in Washington. Miss Edwina Davis, daughter of Col. Robert Davis, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Davis, who now make their home at Little Silver, N. J., has come to Washington and has taken a job as airport hostess with a local air-line company.

When Miss Davis was asked how long she expected to remain in Washington, she answered, "Until I crash."

Which probably will be figurative crashing, as her duties keep her close to the ground and bring her in contact with the passengers. She welcomes them to the airport and sees that they are comfortably seated in the planes before they "take off."

Mrs. Paul E. Johnson was a luncheon hostess yesterday at the Mayflower, having sixteen in her party.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clifford Burke entertained at dinner last evening in honor of their guest, Miss Helen Grace McCarthy, niece of Mrs. Burke, who is here from New Britain, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Burke are spending some time in Washington at the Westchester, having come early in the winter from their home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Carl A. Mapes has returned to Washington after several weeks in New York.

Miss G. Fray, of New London, Conn., is at the Dodge Hotel for a few days and is accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Wall, of Waterbury, Conn.

With Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the Commercial National Bank, as the guest of honor and students of the Majorie Webster School furnishing the entertainment for the occasion, the Tennessee State Society will hold a St. Patrick's masquerade dance at the Willard Saturday.

Miss Gertrude Walter has arranged a musical program for the Women's City Club to be given by the Chaminade Glee Club this evening.

Mrs. James Irvin Steel and Mrs. John Gardner Ladd will be the guests of Mrs. Lewis Pettijohn at the luncheon tomorrow of the League of Republican Women at the Shoreham. Mrs. Ladd is regional director of the Delta Zeta Sorority and Sunday night entertained the alumnae and active chapters at a buffet supper.

Claudels Have Concert After Large Dinner

Madeleine Grey, French Mezzo-Soprano, Sings at Embassy.

The Ambassador of France and Mme. Claudel entertained at dinner last evening. Their guests included the Cuban Ambassador and Mme. Ferrara; the German Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz; Senator and Mrs. George H. Moses, the Norwegian Minister and Mme. Bachke, the Siamese Minister, Maj. Gen. Prince Amoradat Kridakara; Gen. John J. Pershing, Representative and Mrs. Frederick A. Britten, Representative and Mrs. James M. Beck, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, the First Secretary of the Italian Embassy and Countess Roncalli; the Commercial Counselor of the Swedish legation and Mme. Weidel; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Augustus Jay, Mr. and Mrs. John Philip Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Oulahan, Mrs. Tracy Dows, Miss Josephine Patten, Mlle. Rosa Padilla, Mlle. Reine Claudel, the first secretary of the French Embassy, Mr. Pierre Henry de la Blanchetal; and the third secretary of the embassy, Mr. Philippe Baudet.

At a pleasant feature and one which the Ambassador and Mme. Claudel have introduced many times by way of after dinner amusement, they entertained at a musicale. The artist was Mlle. Madeleine Grey, French mezzo-soprano, who was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Boris Kogan. Mlle. Grey is well known in France, although she is making a tour in the United States this season for the first time.

About 30 or 40 additional guests came to the embassy for the concert.

Mrs. Agnes Jackson, of Saginaw, Mich., accompanied by Mrs. John McGlinn, of Philadelphia, has come to Washington for a few days and is at Wardman Park Hotel. Mrs. Jackson formerly made her home in Washington.

Miss Ethel Goldheim entertained a company of fifteen at luncheon Saturday at the Garden Tea Shop in celebration of her eleventh birthday anniversary. Later she took her guests to the theater.

Engagement Announced Of Miss Keiser.

Mrs. Mary McEntyre Keiser announces the engagement of her daughter, Ellen Jane, to Mr. E. Arthur Beavens, of this city. The wedding will take place early next month.

Both Miss Keiser and Mr. Beavens are graduates of the University of Maryland. Miss Keiser studied later at New York University and Mr. Beavens at Michigan State. Miss Keiser is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi National Fraternity, Phi Kappa Pi and Beta Mu Pi, honorary scholastic fraternities. Mr. Beavens is affiliated with Sigma Nu and Phi Sigma, scientific frarternity.

Mrs. Ernest Humphrey Daniel entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower in compliment to Mrs. Wallace Hanger, formerly of Washington, who has made her home in New York since her husband has been a member of the United States Board of Mediation.

Others at the luncheon were Mrs. Willoughby Chesley, Mrs. Theodore Shuey, Mrs. Bruce Baird, Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., Mrs. Charles Kappler, Mrs. Robert Musser, Mrs. Edgar Smith, Mrs. Stuart Walker, Mrs. Parker Jones, Mrs. Guy Saffold, Mrs. Harry Underwood, Miss Elizabeth Young and Mrs. Winston Holt.

The Delta Circle of the doll group of St. Stephen and the Incarnation Church will give a dinner tomorrow at the church.

A music travelogue will be given at the Arts Club tomorrow evening by Miss Sade Styron, chairman of the club's music committee. The travelogue will retrace the steps through Europe of Dr. Charles Burney, the music historian and father of Fanny Burney, who in 1770 visited not only the musicians of foreign lands but their literary and scientific celebrities. Musical illustrations will be given. Lantern slides of places visited will aid in illustrating the musical travelogue. Mr. Lynch Luquer will be the host.

Recent Bride

Underwood & Underwood.

MRS. L. W. HENDERSON, was recently married in London. Mr. and Mrs. Henderson are now living here, where the former is associated with the foreign service of the Department of State.

Miss Grace Sprucebank Named for Leading Role

Miss Grace Sprucebank, of the Bureau of Loans and Accounts in the Treasury Department, has been chosen to play the leading feminine role in the Lenten drama, "On the Third Day," to be presented the night of March 24 at the Immaculate Conception Auditorium.

Miss Sprucebank is connected with the Mackin Players of St. Paul's Church, having been seen in two of its recent productions, "Daddy Longlegs" and "Come Out of the Kitchen." She also played in the club's presentation, "Finders Keepers," in the Drama Guild play contest.

Italian Air Attache Will Marry Today

Commander Sbernadori Will Bring His Turin Bride to Washington.

The marriage of the Air Attache of the Italian Embassy, Commander Paolo Sbernadori, to Signorina Magda Belinggardi will take place today in Turin, Italy, the bride's home.

Commander Sbernadori left Washington the middle of last month and the young couple will return to Washington early next month to make their home during the former's period of duty at the embassy here.

Commander Sbernadori came here last year, succeeding Commander Silvio Scaroni, who, when he left Washington, went to Rome, where he married Signorina Anella Anelli, niece of Signor Cosulich Trieste shipbuilder.

Dr. Depp Will Address Mother-Daughter Fete

Dr. Mark Depp, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church, tonight will address the annual "Mother-Daughter Banquet" of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at 6:30 o'clock at the Calvary Baptist Church.

A reception for mothers and daughters will be held for a half-hour preceding the banquet. The program of entertainment will include solos by Miss Helen Donofrio, soprano, and a concert by the Mellowtone Quartet.

Illinois Society Plans Gathering on March 21

Cards, a short musical program and a ball will feature a gathering of the Illinois State Society on the night of March 21 at Willard Hotel. The program will begin at 8:30 o'clock, with dancing to begin an hour later.

Judge Thomas S. Williams, of the United States Court of Appeals, president of the society, has urged all former residents of the State to attend.

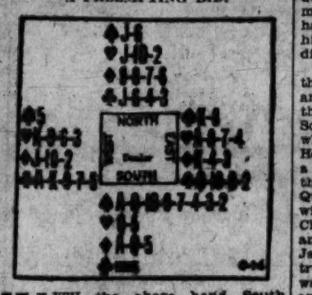
WORK ON BRIDGE

A PREEMPTING BID.



WITH the above hand South should bid four Spades at either Auction or Contract bridge to shut out all other bids. If North has any help the contract will be made, if not the opponents might make game if either were permitted to show the other his strength; although as it happens East and West would not be apt to go game at any declaration.

With the Contract four Spades, West led the King of Clubs and South ruffed. The declarer then realized that he would lose two Hearts and one Spade, and must lose two Diamonds unless he got a lead from dummy to take a finesse. If that maneuver took place after dummy had established Heart, it would give him a Heart trick and a Diamond discard.

Consequently to trick 2 South led the Queen of Hearts which West won and led a small Club. East finessed, thus shutting out dummy's Jack; South ruffed and led a second Heart, which East won; and that left a good Heart in the dummy and East led a third Club and South ruffed for the third time. Now South led the Queen of trumps, which East took with the King, and led a fourth Club. South ruffed a fourth time and put dummy in with the trump Jack, which drew all the adverse trumps. Then dummy's good Heart was led to get the Diamond discard, and next a Diamond for a successful finesse. So declarer made game, losing only two Hearts and one trump.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer made all there was in this hand, and more than East should have permitted. If East had refused to win the Queen of trumps with the King, dummy could not have been put in the lead and that would have killed the discard and the Diamond finesse. In that case Declarer would not have lost a trump trick, but he would have lost two Hearts and two Diamonds.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Roy Sersusky

"EENY, MEENY, MINY, MO"
WHEN CHILDREN COUNT OUT ONE OF THEIR GROUP TO BE "IT" THEY ARE ADOPTING THE METHOD OUR EARLY FOREFATHERS SOMETIMES USED OF DECIDING WHICH OF A GROUP COMMITTED A CRIME, BY COUNTING HIM OUT WITH MAGIC WORDS.
SLANG
PURISTS IN ANCIENT TIMES SELECTED FOR CONDEMNATION WORDS AND PHRASES THEY DID NOT CONSIDER GOOD ENGLISH. THEY SAID THESE WORDS AND PHRASES WERE EX LINGUA (OUT OF THE LANGUAGE). LOW BROWS SOON CORRUPTED "EX LINGUA" INTO "X LING" AND THEN "SLANG"
POURING OIL ON TROUBLED WATERS
SAILORS FROM EARLY TIMES HAVE POURED OIL ON THE ROUGH SEAS TO CALM THEM. PLINY SPOKE OF THIS IN HIS NATURAL HISTORY AND STATED THAT IN THE SAME WAY SOFT WORDS WOULD SOOTHE ANGERED FEELINGS.

TOMORROW—St. Patrick and the Waves; How Dieting Began; First Meaning of Slaves.

If you have other ideas as to HOW IT BEGAN, write to Russ Murphy, care of The Washington Post. If you want to see how some other particular custom or saying began, let Russ Murphy know and his answer will be illustrated in this series.

... and INTERPRETS the MODE

Silk organdie party frock of pale green, sleeves and collar of pink. (A Dah-ray design.)

Paris, March 10.

WOULDN'T you like to know the high spots of Lanvin's summer collection, because there were plenty of high spots, and all of them worth mentioning, quite apart from the riot Dah-ray caused with her silver wig, which I'll tell you about some other time—both the wig and the riot.

Not in line of their importance but in the order that they occur to me, we'll start with paper hats. Only when I say paper hats you needn't think of New Year's Eve, but on the contrary of exotic looking straws which just happen to be made out of paper, but which are very much like any other novelty straw in appearance.

Scarfs that button on in front in a V shape or not especially Lanvin, as many other couturiers show them this season, but Lanvin offers very many of them in smart color combinations for sport wear. Also this house specializes in double collars and double belts, by that I mean a red cloth belt on a dress, for instance, and then a black patent leather belt right over that letting the red show about a half an inch on either side of the black belt. Or, on a dress of one color, two collars one on top of the other, and both of quite a different color than the dress, one much darker.

And then a lovely belt on an evening dress made very simply of flat strands of silver lame stuffed ever so little with cotton and then braided.

And then there were muffs made of tulle of flowers, of taffeta cut into petal shapes to match a taffeta dress, and usually worn on one hand—an ornament only, really, rather than anything that has any reason for existing.

• • • •

Fashion French.

Tricot (tree-ko)—knitted; trou (troo)—hole; trousseau (troo-so)—outfit; tulle (tool)—netting.

• • • •

You don't have to go to a garden party to wear a garden party kind of a frock, you know. Or do you? For silk organdie is so charming, and lends itself in such a way to summer dance frocks or afternoon frocks for vacation wear, that any woman who can do so will have at least one such a love of a dress as the one I designed for you today! The belt part is cut in three formed pieces which shape the dress, and the lines above and below it are tiny nerveurs which further it. Then the skirt is circular and shaped in the cutting to fall as you see it, and the sleeves and collar effect are all cut out of the material, doubled and fashioned into petal effects. Oh, yes, plenty of work, but who cares—when the result can be so lovely!

• • • •

And then there is your Easter dress that Dare designed for you, after looking over all Paris for just the right idea. It comes in the form of a smartly cut and gracefully draped tunic, which can be handled in such a way that you have at least three or four afternoon ensembles, each one a tunic effect, each one different. Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make it, and you will be five dresses and one tea pajama ensemble to the good, for what one smart Paris tunic frock would otherwise cost you!

• • • •

It's a Patou dress of black taffeta, and the lovely and unusual little fichu was of rose organdie, silk of course—and the corsage was of silk parma violets, pink, without any green showing. It was so smart, this dress, because the lines were so long and slim.

• • • •

Smart footwear for spring and summer! You're interested, of course. Well, read about it in Dare's weekly fashion letter in next Sunday's Post.

Dairy Council to Hear Talk by Dr. McCollum

Dr. E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University, national authority on nutrition, will address the annual dinner meeting of the Washington Dairy Council tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock in the Italian garden of the Mayflower Hotel.

Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools of the District, will preside at the dinner, and a number of Federal and District government officials and public school executives have been invited to attend.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

AFTER all the prosperity evidenced at the Belasco last week, with standing room only for all performances of "The Wonder Bar," the old Lafayette square playhouse is dark this week.

• • • •

On its way to New York, Mr. Al Jolson's latest starring vehicle, "The Wonder Bar," has a week in New Haven, playing before the Yale students. Mr. Morris Gest, the producer, is in New York getting the Nora Bayes Theater ready for the big attraction.

• • • •

When the thrilling narrative told by Aloysius Smith in his book, "Trader Horn," was filmed and shown at the National for the first time Sunday night, a distinguished audience saw the photoplay. Amongst the interested spectators was Alice Longworth, whose father, the late Theodore Roosevelt, was one of the finest big game hunters the country ever produced. Whether it is press agent or not, some of the African chieftains shown in this film are said to have been friends of the former President.

• • • •

The S. R. O. sign was dusted off and placed in front of the National Sunday night, when every seat in the house was sold for the opening performance of "Trader Horn." This is the first time a big road show picture has met with such a reception in Washington.

• • • •

By way of contrast, the final performance of the musical comedy, "Making Mary," which took place in the National Saturday night, proved to be the farewell performance of this vehicle. It went to Mr. Cain's celebrated storehouse yesterday. As one of the sidelights on show business, a production that cost $35,000 was sold for $32.

• • • •

While Washington theaters are minus any form of the drama, the neighboring town of Baltimore is visited with a new musical comedy called "Accidentally Yours," playing at Ford's Theater, with the Dutch prima donna, Beppi de Vries, in the starring role. She was last seen here in "The Merry Widow," with Donald Brian. Incidentally, the Monumental City is having a revival of vaudeville at the Maryland Theater, with Joseph E. Howard, the old song writer, featured this week.

• • • •

New York has two more hits on its hands. Of the five productions, one a revival, presented on Broadway last week, "Give Me Yesterday," an A. A. Milne play—which means a fantasy—was received by the critics with a great deal of enthusiasm. The next bid for fame was Rachael Crothers' play, "As Husbands Go," presented by John Golden. The other two new plays which were not rated so highly were "Greater Love," with Mary Hay the star, and "Privilege Car," Willard Keefe's latest offering. The revival was "Blossom Time."

• • • •

Monday night in New York at the New Amsterdam Theater—which is usually the home of the Ziegfeld girls in their glorified musicals—witnessed another George C. Tyler revival. This time Mr. Tyler dragged out the old J. M. Barrie play, "The Admirable Crichton," which has not been done in America since 1903, when Charles Frehman produced it with William Gillette in the title role. The present revival has Walter Hampden as Crichton and Fay Bainter as leading lady, with Effie Shanan in a featured part.

• • • •

Just when everybody has given up hope of ever seeing another new Pinero play, the celebrated playwright, Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, came across with another manuscript. This is called "Dr. Harmer" and it will be unfolded for the first time on any stage in the Belasco Theater next Monday night, March 16, with Philip Merivale playing the leading role. The play is said to be somewhat along the lines of the old melodramatic piece once used by Richard Mansfield, "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde." This was also the play that gave Thomas E. Shea a whirl along the old Haviland and Stair Circuit, of which the Academy of Music here was a member.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFARRARI, PH.D.

THE family names "Hildreth" and "Hildred" are of English origin. Their source is the Anglo Saxon personal name "Hildraed," which means "battle counsel." They do not seem to be recorded as family names until relatively late. A London church register of the year 1789 records the marriage of John Woodcock and Elizabeth Hildreth.

The family name "MacParland" (also spelled "Mac Partland," "Mac Partlin" and Mac Pharland") originated in Ireland and Scotland. It means "the son of Bartholomew." The personal name "Bartholomew" is ultimately of Hebrew origin, and may be translated "the son of furrows."

The family name "Hamrick" (also spelled "Hambrick") is a variation of "Hambridge." "Hambridge" is derived from the Old English "hembrycg," which may mean either "the high bridge" or "the important bridge," and it indicates the place of residence of the persons who were first so called. A London church register of the year 1583 records the marriage of Anthony Hambridge and Margaret Temple.

The family name "Beckermann" (also spelled "Baeckermann" and "Backerman") is of German origin. In most cases it means "the baker," and indicates the occupation of the persons who were first so called. However, this name has frequently become confused with "Bachmann." "Bachmann" is also of German origin, and means "he who lives near the stream."

The family name "Wetherholt" is of English origin. It means "the forest frequented by wethers (male sheep)," and indicates that the persons who were first so called had their residence near such a forest.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

She Will Not Read.

DEAR Frances McDonald: What would you say was the matter with a girl who had been through three years of college and has not read a line since she came home? Understand I am not asking that she read the classics or study Einstein. All I ask is that she know who is the present occupant of the White House, know when an earthquake has wiped out lives, and show a normal interest in her surroundings. To be frank, I believe she is not mentally normal. And I have the great misfortune to be her husband. She is 26 years old. Sits in the house all day or drives the car over to some neighbor's home and sits there.

Her friends seem to just about tolerate her and nothing more. She cares nothing about clothes, although she is immaculate, thank heaven, about herself. She is very beautiful with a quality that puzzles me and that lately I have begun to interpret as suggested above. It is a sort of faraway attitude. Nothing seems very real to her. For instance, she went with a fellow for years and was engaged to him when we met. They parted but never lost touch with each other. Two months ago he was killed in a collision—lived a few days then passed away. When it happened I dreaded to even tell her. It made me ill when I heard it. But she said, "Is that so—was he driving?" And then went on to tell me that she thought the brake on our car was none too good. I thought that after a while she would revert to the subject. But not a word. A friend of fifteen years, smashed and dying in a hospital and never a tumble. She never inquired for him. The day he died I was afraid to come home. But she had not been out and did not know. I told her. She said, "He spoke once of taking out life insurance. I wonder if he ever did?" I asked her if that would be her first thought when I died. She said, "I never thought about it—is your insurance paid?"

Now do not get the idea I am just picking on her. I am not at all literary. Never saw the inside of a college, and think she and many more would be better off if they had not, but I want to read and to see and hear what is going on in the world. We take morning and evening papers and several magazines. She never opens them. I have tried to get her started on your column just to stimulate her to some interest in other people and their problems. She read one and said, "Do you suppose she really gives a darn about a lot of strangers spouting their troubles?" There you are. Strangers or friends and their troubles would never bother her. Is there anything that can be done about her? She has been like this for six years that I know of. I do not know how she made college. She flunked third year. I am not inquiring as to divorce. Just as to how to wake her out of what seems like a stupor to me.

TED.

Any one who suddenly stopped reading would become a bit apart from existence, and even a bit queer in attitude. And as simple a thing as a bad case of eye strain would stop the reading. You should insist upon an examination by a competent oculist and tell him in her presence that you are eager that she resume her reading. Her personal pride should do the rest. The matter of the friend's tragedy might indicate merely that she was the unemotional type, lacking the quality of poignant feeling for others. Most people are quite self-centered. Only their own personal disasters loom large upon their horizon. Lacking other evidence I see no indication of mental impairment beyond that occasioned by withdrawal from outside contacts. My guess would be eye strain. Insist upon the glasses. If they fail, by all means see a doctor.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

KEEPING AHEAD OF THE APHIDS.

JUST now the aphids and green plant lice are very active. When you sprinkle your plants over the tops and take care of them generally, the aphids can almost always be kept in check and thus prevented from doing much damage. But neglect your plants for even a short time and you will be surprised some day to find the young and tender branches of many of the usual house varieties literally covered with green lice.

The insect increases with wonderful rapidity if left alone, and in a short time will utterly ruin any plant to which it has attached itself if persistent and exterminating warfare is not waged against it.

Tobacco solution is the weapon with which to combat the aphids. To make this effective, a considerable quantity should be prepared and the plants held upside down and dipped in it. You can use a proprietary preparation or you can make a solution of tobacco in your own kitchen.

Merely boil a half pound of cheap smoking tobacco in a gallon of water. After it has been boiling about twenty minutes, remove from the fire, strain and bottle. This solution will keep indefinitely. It must, before it is used, be diluted with water until it is the color of table tea. To be an effective insecticide, the plant must be permitted to remain in the solution for five minutes.

Smooth-leaved plants, like ferns, palms, rubber plants and English ivy, the pandanum, aspidistra and dracena, are usually attacked about this time by a hard-shelled little insect known as scale. The only way to banish this insect is by scrubbing him away. An old toothbrush is an excellent instrument to use. Owing to his hard shell, insecticides have no effect on him.

When you have removed every insect, wash the leaves with cold, soapy water, and every day carry your plants to the laundry tubs and sprinkle their tops. Cleanliness is the ounce of prevention that is worth the pound of cure when it comes to insect enemies of house plants.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"Pisces."

IF March 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8.15 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight.

Astrological influences on March 11 will be enervating, and you will have to fight against unpleasant moods and pessimism. Young people in the throes of love affairs will be unreasonably jealous and false suspicions may cause much unhappiness. Make tact and caution your watchwords!

The child born on this March 11 will have a very stubborn, wayward nature. It will not be unprincipled, however, and will be too "wise" to ever get into serious difficulties. It will respond to love and affection, and may be guided by tactful methods, when it will not heed commands.

You have little "fight" in your nature, and you are content to eke out your existence by occupying a mediocre position. You have ambitions, but when faced with obstacles, you give in to them immediately and relinquish all thought of achieving your original aim. You are a doormat under the feet of adverse circumstances. You do not know how to create your own opportunities, and are many times blind to the ready-made ones which stare you in the face.

You suffer from the nervous affliction of never feeling sure that you are right, and any challenge immediately causes doubts to rise. Your convictions are unstable. You will never have a convincing or forceful nature until you acquire more self-assurance. You have too much ability to accept a back seat in life, but as yet you do not know how to display your talents. You have a good mind and clever hands, which are both "hog-tied" by foolish fears. Your roots of habit sink deep, and you are an inhabitant of ruts, out of which you dislike being ousted. You allow yourself to become mentally anchored, when it would be better for you to maintain a free and open mind. A proper mate will do much to bring you out of your shell, and love may open the real doors of happiness and success for you.

Fight Fat In Your Doctor's Way He Knows What's Right

Physicians the world over now employ a new method of treating obesity. It is based on modern science, and aims to correct the cause. No starvation, no over-exercise, no harmful drugs.

The reason is this: Medical research has found a great cause of obesity in a weakened thyroid gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. Its secretion helps turn food into fuel and energy. When that secretion is scant, too much food turns to fat.

So physicians now feed the factor that is lacking. That is one great reason why excess fat is so much less common than it used to be.

Used in Marmola

Marmola prescription tablets supply this needed factor in ideal combination. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. A book in each box gives the formula complete and explains the results. The purpose is to supply this new method, at a modest price, to all who are over-fat.

Marmola has been used for 24 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others the results, and the use has spread. It has for two decades held top place in this field.

Now you see the results wherever you look. Your own friends can tell you of them. Excess fat has been disappearing at a rapid rate in late years.

Avoid the Fraud

During all this time, many false treatments have been offered for obesity. Some were harmful, some absurd. One by one they have dropped out as users found them false. But others have come under new names.

But Marmola has stood the test of time, because it offers the right way to reduce. The use has grown and grown as users proved it out. Let these facts guide you. Don't be misled. You cannot grow slender without harm and much effort, unless you correct the real cause of obesity.

Do what modern doctors do.

Fat is Abnormal

Excess fat is a blight to beauty, health and vim. To those who know it suggests an abnormal condition. It over-taxes hearts, shortens lives, it quells vitality and vim. Half life's joys are missing to the fat.

Be moderate in all things, but don't starve, don't over-exercise. Such methods often bring injury. Combat the cause in an easy way, as multitudes are doing. Simply take a Marmola tablet four times daily, until weight comes down to normal.

Watch the New Vim

As weight comes down, watch the new vitality, new vim. Not only because you lose the burden of fat, but for other reasons. Other ductless glands depend on the thyroid for activity. So this simple help may bring many amazing results.

Go try Marmola. A nine-day treatment costs $1 at drug stores. Read the book in the box. When Marmola does for you what it has done for so many, tell others about it. Go start today.

Kotex comfort lasts

because Kotex absorbs away from the surface

YOU want more than mere surface comfort in sanitary protection, and Kotex gives you more. It absorbs away from the surface, leaving the protective edges dry and comfortable during use.

Kotex may be worn on either side, with the very same protection, because both sides are equally absorbent. No danger of embarrassment from wrong adjustment.

There's a delicate, fleecy softness about Kotex. What a comfort during warmer days when this problem is more difficult than usual.

Hospitals specify Kotex for the protection and comfort of their women patients. It is disposable, you know, quickly and easily. Once you try Kotex, no other way will satisfy you again.

18-YEAR-OLD PUPILS INELIGIBLE FOR RATE

Public Utilities Commission Upholds Traction Lines' 3-Cent Fare Denial.

The Public Utilities Commission's interpretation of the phrase of the reduced school fare act limiting the sale of tickets to pupils "not over 18 years of age" was the subject of inquiry yesterday afternoon, but the concensus was that the transportation companies are right in refusing tickets to students who have reached their eighteenth birthday.

A lively debate occurred and legal definitions and cases were consulted to determine whether a youth is over 18 immediately after his eighteenth birthday, or whether he remains 18 until he attains his nineteenth birthday.

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, who aided in drafting the original measure, decided after some inquiry that pupils 18 years old should be excluded from the benefits of the act and so stated in a memorandum to Corporation Counsel William W. Bride.

Later an opinion of the Colorado Supreme Court in the case of Gibson vs. People was found in which it was held that anyone who had reached his eighteenth birthday was over 16 years of age.

It also developed during the discussion that there was no copy of the completed school fare act in the District Building. The correct wording was obtained by Mr. Roberts by telephone communication with the House document room.

Two Changes Are Made In Probation Personnel

Two changes were made yesterday in the personnel of the office of Probation Officer Amos A. Steele, of the District Supreme Court.

Miss Alice B. Quaid, 1430 V street southeast, for eight years a stenographer in Mr. Steele's office, was appointed an assistant probation officer and Edward W. Garrett, 331 Sixteenth street northwest, who was in the office of George S. Wilson, executive secretary of the Board of Public Welfare, also received an appointment as an assistant probation officer. Both appointments were made by the Justices of the District Supreme Court under authority of the recent District appropriation act.

MOTHER KILLS SELF IN JUMP OFF BRIDGE

chauffeur for Assistant Postmaster General John W. Phelps, but she eluded his grasp and climbed on the rail and leaped.

A. G. Toombs, of 2208 Cathedral avenue, who was driving through the park, found the woman, still conscious, a few feet from the spot where James F. Skogland, 49, of C street near Thirteenth street, landed after a leap a few weeks ago.

On the woman's arm was a note addressed to "Charles," her husband, which read: "I can't keep on. I am too much worry to you all. You are so good to me that I can't keep on being such a responsibility." Her husband is employed by the Chevy Chase Dairy Co. The note was signed "Mrs. Charles P. Rice, 3138 O street northwest."

Mrs. Rice had been in ill health for several months. Specialists at the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital, at Takoma Park, had been treating Mrs. Rice for nervousness and heart trouble.

Rice said that his wife left home about 12 o'clock, while he was at work. He said that she had walked away from home several times, but always returned home. The note, written in lead pencil on a piece of blue paper, was given to Rice.

Officer J. F. Grove, of the United States Park Police, said the woman had jumped from the north side of the bridge and landed on hard ground near the Rock Creek and Potomac driveway.

The crowd that gathered was held in check by Sergt. William F. Shelton and Officer C. H. Baesgen, of the United States Park Police, and Metropolitan police officers who responded to the emergency call.

Mrs. Rice is the mother of two children, Lillian, 15, and Charles, jr., 13, both of whom were at school.

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate of suicide.

to induce the farmers to believe that if they will elect the Republicans only one more time the Grand Old Party, though it has fooled the farmer, and broken its promises to him repeatedly, will at least brace up and keep its word for once. * * * After a year of Republican farm relief, farmers are more deeply in debt, more engulfed in misfortune than before."

"The Farm Board, possibly, is doing the best it can, under its limited power. It is in sympathy with the farmer. But the farmer has a surplus of sympathy—it doesn't bring on the market as much even as his crops. A policy which pretends to give the farmer relief with one hand and with the other relieve him of much more and hands it over to pampered interests is the cause of the farmers' plight."

Senator McKellar, Tennessee Democrat, said the Hoover farm relief measure has been a total loss insofar as cotton is concerned.

Curator Again Faces Action for Divorce

Mrs. Paul Bartsch Claims She Was Treated Like Scientific Specimen.

DR. PAUL BARTSCH.

Dr. Paul Bartsch, of Belmont street near Fifteenth street northwest, internationally known scientist and curator of mollusks in the new National Museum, yesterday was sued for a limited divorce by his wife, Mrs. Signe G. Bartsch, who gave her address as the Lee House, and who charged that her husband has treated her cruelly for 20 years.

In addition to his duties at the museum, Dr. Bartsch is a lecturer on zoology at the George Washington University, and is connected in a professorial capacity with the Howard University Medical School. He is the author of numerous works on mollusks and has frequently been a member of expeditions in search of elusive scientific data.

Mrs. Bartsch, who alleges "extreme mental and physical cruelty," said that her husband had locked her from the family home on Belmont street and had treated her as a biological specimen. She said that she had endured his attitude for 20 years because of an infant son, now a young man.

The suit follows one of a similar character filed by Mrs. Bartsch in 1929, when a reconciliation was effected. Dr. Bartsch is drawing a combined salary of $8,200, she claims, but has been giving her only $55 a month since their separation last November. Mrs. Bartsch asserted that on three occasions she has been assaulted by the doctor. The suit was filed through Attorneys Lambert, Yeatman & Canfield.

Electrocution Delayed For Ruling on Appeal

Because an appeal now pending before the United States Supreme Court has yet to be acted upon, Justice Peyton Gordon yesterday postponed, until May 8, the date for the execution of Alfred Scott Aldridge, Negro slayer, convicted of the murder of Policeman Harry J. McDonald.

The Negro was sentenced to be electrocuted March 20. He shot and killed Policeman McDonald when he was caught, with his brother, Albert, attempting to rob a drug store at Seventeenth and Q streets northwest, July 6, 1929.

Man's Head Is Injured As Auto Strikes Him

William W. Weeks, 47 years old, of Walker Chapel, Va., was injured yesterday when knocked down by an automobile at Thirteenth and E streets. He was taken to Emergency Hospital and treated for a fracture of the skull.

The automobile allegedly was operated by Mary S. Gibson, of 2911 Seventeenth street northeast. Helen Hutchinson, 16 years old, a passenger, was treated at a nearby drug store for lacerations of the leg.

PRISON IS SCREENED TO PREVENT SUICIDE

Detention House Doors Are Ordered Locked to Bar Women's Leaps.

The screening of windows and the locking of doors in the prison rooms of the House of Detention were ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners to prevent further suicides by women prisoners.

Action to this effect resulted directly from the death of Rose Spinelli, 27 years old, early on the morning of February 26. The young woman, who had been arrested for drunkenness, jumped from a window on the fourth floor of the Woman's Bureau.

Inspector A. J. Headley, of the Police Department, subsequently recommended that mesh screens be placed over twelve windows of the dormitories that do not connect with fire escapes and that new doors with outside locks replace the present doors of the seven prison rooms.

Matrons and other employes of the Woman's Bureau, it was explained, occupy the rooms to which the fire escapes are attached. The added protection incurs no expense as the wire mesh is on hand and the doors have been obtained from abandoned buildings in the Municipal Center area.

Judge J. P. McMahon Sworn In for New Term

Sworn in yesterday for another term of six years as a judge of the District Police Court, Judge John P. McMahon immediately assumed his place on the bench and began hearing a case. His confirmation was blocked in the Senate for a time when a group of men who opposed his renomination were given an opportunity of presenting evidence in support of their opposition.

Judge Ralph Given and attaches of the Police Court were present when F. A. Sebring, clerk of the court, swore in Judge McMahon.

100 to Take Part In 'Galahad' Soon

Drama to Be Presented at Luther Place Memorial March 25, 26 and 27.

More than 100 participants will take part in the Lenten music drama, "Galahad," when it is presented at Luther Place Memorial Church, Fourteenth and N streets northwest, the evenings of March 25, 26 and 27 by various denominations in Washington under auspices of the Federation of Churches here and under direction of the committee on drama and pageantry of the federation.

Many of the symbolic characters in the King Arthur and Holy Grail legends will be played by groups, under the direction of Caroline McKinley, representing the McKinley Studios and the King-Smith Studios of this city. Miss Elizabeth Pritchard, of All Souls' Church, and Miss Katherine Wilfrey, of the National City Christian Church, will have charge of the pantomime direction of a number of the important scenes.

Miss Dorothy Croissant, of New York, will assist Miss Mildred Merrill and the costume committee in designing the costumes for the event, as will Mrs. B. H. Lane, Miss Rosalie Melton, Mrs. N. K. Gardner and many others. The symbolic costumes are being executed by Miss Mabel Wynne and Mrs. Louise Wynne.

John Sullivan Named To District Court Post

The appointment of John H. Sullivan, an assistant clerk of the District Supreme Court, to be assistant assignment commissioner under the new rules for procedure in the courts here, was announced by the justices of the District Supreme Court. The recently announced changes have not yet been put into effect, but they are expected to increase greatly the ability of the courts to keep up with their cases.

The new job pays Mr. Sullivan $3,000. Another appointment was made, that of John C. Settle to be assistant to William H. Harr, who is commissioner in charge of expediting veterans' cases in court. Mr. Settle was connected with Commissioner Harr while both were engaged in private practice. His salary is to be $2,500.

GRAND JURY TO HEAR COUNTRY CLUB CASE

District Attorney to Give Evidence Hinting Fraud in Operations.

District Attorney Leo A. Rover will send before the grand jury next Tuesday evidence concerning the manner of operation utilized by the Country Club Properties, Inc., nearby Maryland suburban development. Advertisements in its campaign to sell lots in the tract of land across from the Indian Springs golf course will be shown to the grand jury.

The current inquisition grew out of a hearing held by the Blaine subcommittee of the District committee in the Senate when a group of persons who had purchased lots from N. B. Clarke, who headed the organization, appeared and protested about certain agreements said to have been made by agents of the company.

These agreements dealt with the ultimate and somewhat immediate resale of the lots with a resultant profit for the original purchaser and development work to be done by the company. Several homes were to be constructed, but only one was built, it was alleged.

The Country Club Properties, Inc., went out of business following the Senate investigation and the former owners, Maj. E. Brooke Lee and Frank L. Hewitt, of Silver Spring, then took back the property. The decision to lay the case before the grand jury was reached upon evidence gathered by agents of the Department of Justice from an examination of the company's records.

Interlocutory Decree Of Divorce Is Granted

An interlocutory decree for an absolute divorce was awarded Mrs. Alice V. Stinchcomb, Thirteenth street near Euclid street northwest, by Justice Adkins in Equity Court yesterday. Mrs. Stinchcomb charged that her husband, John Marshall Stinchcomb, had been untrue to his marital vows.

She named a young woman as corespondent. The decree placed the burden of counsel fees and costs on the shoulders of Mr. Stinchcomb.

MRS. G. H. EVANS, 71, IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Heart Attack Fatal to Wife of Patent Attorney; Rites Not Fixed.

Stricken with a heart attack last night in her home, at 3129 Thirty-eighth street northwest, Mrs. Mary Pratt Evans, 71, died despite resuscitative treatment administered almost half an hour by No. 2 rescue squad.

Her collapse and death aggravated the condition of her husband, George H. Evans, patent attorney, who has been in delicate health, and he was treated by squad members and Dr. Lyman B. Swormstedt, who pronounced his wife dead.

Four daughters, three sons and a brother also survive: Mrs. H. H. Grogan, Mrs. P. C. Schneider, Mrs. H. U. Milne and Mrs. Louis Smith; George Latimer Evans, Norman C. Evans and Cecil A. Evans, of Chicago, and the brother, Lee D. Latimer.

George H. Evans is a nephew of Admiral Robley D. Evans, of Spanish-American War fame.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Evans have not been announced.

He learned to fly after becoming manager of the airport more than two years ago. At 17 he enlisted in the Army and during the World War served as a machine gunner in France. He is 32 years old and was recently divorced in Reno.

The bride's father, Walter T. Oliver, at one time was a Virginia State senator. Miss Oliver is 22 years old. The couple will make their home in Alban Towers, 3700 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Wharton Accused Of Embezzlement

Former Member of House, Out of Jail 2 Months, in Trouble Again.

Chicago, March 10 (A.P.).—Charles S. Wharton, former member of Congress, was in trouble again today.

Released two months ago from Federal Prison, Wharton was arrested on a warrant charging him with embezzling $21,000 in jewelry and bonds from Miss Cecile Ware.

Miss Ware said she retained Wharton, former assistant State's attorney, to handle her investments and that he absconded with the jewelry and bonds.

Wharton was sentenced to two years in prison for complicity in the Everygreen Park mail robbery. His hearing was set for March 25 and he was released by Judge John Barbaro under $2,500 bonds.

MILL WORKER BENEFITED

Picked Up After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Towanda, Pa.—"I was working in a silk mill and got so tired and rundown that I weighed only 89 pounds. I was not well enough to do my work. As soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to pick up. After being married for thirteen years, I had a baby boy and the next year I had another boy who now weighs 37 pounds and is healthy as a bear. The Vegetable Compound has helped me in a dozen ways and I hope others will try it too."—Mrs. C. B. Johnson, Webb Street, R. D. #6, Towanda, Pennsylvania.

Educators to Air College Problems

School Difficulties Facing Women Will Be Topic at Clinic Series.

Problems confronting college women before and after graduation will be discused at a series of educational clinics beginning Friday under the auspices of the American Association of University Women. The discussions will be conducted at the national headquarters here.

Dr. David A. Robertson, president of Goucher College, will speak at a dinner, opening the discussion at 7 o'clock Friday night. Under the subject "Women and the World's Work," he will outline the various careers open to college women.

Who should go to college, what college women should wear, the relation of college education to one's life work, and discrimination in the choice of colleges will be discussed by nationally known educators. The clinic will be concluded Saturday.

Automobile's Mileage Is Aid in Divorce Suit

Checking up on the mileage as shown on the speedometer of her husband's automobile when he allegedly went to play golf yesterday led to an interlocutory decree for absolute divorce for Mrs. Catherine T. Scott, a Treasury Department employe, of New Hampshire avenue near U street northwest.

Mrs. Scott charged that her husband told her he was playing golf, whereas, she said, he was meeting a corespondent and going driving with her. The decree was granted by Justice Adkins in Equity Court.

G. A. R. Memorial Day Group Elects

Yaden Is Named President; Celebration Details Are Discussed.

James G. Yaden was elected president of the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial Day Corporation at a meeting of the board of directors at the temporary home, 921 Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

Mr. Yaden, a past department commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, succeeds Judge Hosea B. Moulton, a past department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic. Preliminary arrangements for the Memorial Day celebration were outlined at the meeting.

Other officers elected were William I. Jenkins, Veterans of Foreign Wars, secretary; Arthur H. League, United Spanish War Veterans, treasurer, and F. C. Lucas, Veterans of Foreign Wars, assistant treasurer. One vice president from each of the organizations in the corporation were named as follows: William F. Dorsey, Grand Army of the Republic; Charles W. McCaffrey, United Spanish War Veterans; Charles H. Reilley, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Paul J. McGahan, the American Legion, and E. Claude Babcock, Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Red Cross Official to Speak.

Mrs. C. O. Richards, secretary and assistant director of the District of Columbia Red Cross Chapter, will address a meeting of the Red Cross Auxiliary of the Women's Auxiliary of the District Medical Society at 10 o'clock this morning at the Medical Society Building.

J. G. Rogers Sworn In As Assistant Secretary

(Associated Press.)

James Grafton Rogers, of Denver, Colo., was sworn in yesterday as Assistant Secretary of State to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Nelson T. Johnson as Minister to China.

Secretary Stimson attended the ceremony. The oath was administered by Miles Shand, of the department's Bureau of Appointments.

Senator Black Predicts Legislation on Shoals

Birmingham, Ala., March 10 (A.P.).—Senator Hugo Black came home today, confident Muscle Shoals legislation will be passed at the next session of Congress.

The last general election changed the complexion of the Senate, in which more Democratic faces are in evidence, and this will work for disposition of the shoals problem, he said.

ACID causes Headaches

WHEN there's too much acid in your stomach, you must force yourself to work, and even pleasures are too great an effort! Appetite lags; the digestion is poor; the whole system suffers.

Laboratory tests show an acid condition is due to errors in our modern diet. But you need not wait to diet your way out of the trouble! Take a tablespoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This will neutralize the excess acid instantly; make you feel like a new person in just a few moments.

Take a little whenever heartburn, sick headaches, nausea, flatulence, indigestion or biliousness show the digestive system is becoming too acid. Whenever you are taking cold or feel sluggish, weak, constipated. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia has a gentle, laxative action.

Delightful to take. Endorsed by physicians for 50 years and prescribed everywhere for men, women and children. The genuine is always a liquid; it can not be made in tablet form. It always bears the name Phillips for your protection.

DO YOUR TEETH ERODE?

MIDDLEAGED people are not interested in tooth decay. Their interest is in pyorrhea and erosions and, in some instances, in granuloma of the roots, sometimes called apical abscess. This article deals with erosions only.

Erosions are grooves that wear in teeth in locations where there is no rubbing and grinding to account for it. As a rule, the grooves run across the tooth near the gum margin and on the cheek surface. There is never any grind in that region. The process is not one of decay and there is nothing suggestive of anything that produces cavities. The gums do not have the appearance of gums suffering from pyorrhea. For a long time erosions are painless and otherwise symptomless. Finally the groove is deep enough to cause some pain, some toothache, or some "sensitive dentine." Eventually the groove causes the tooth to break.

Since the process is not that of decay nor of pyorrhea the dentist must look further afield for an explanation. Some of them hold that, largely as the result of worry, the chemical composition of the tooth is changed and grooves appear. Not many hold to this opinion, though it may be the right one. More of them hold that erosions are due to changes in the saliva. Many years ago Drs. Black and Keefe contended that erosions resulted from currents of saliva flowing continuously over the eroding areas. The saliva is a mixture of secretions from several different glands. The theory is that this mixture becomes unnatural for some reason and, in consequence, the fluid dissolves parts of the neamel, causing grooves to appear.

Dr. Vaughan tested the saliva of one side and found it acid. On the other side the mixture was alkaline. His explanation is that the gum secretion and other parts of the saliva are acid, but that the parotid secretion is sufficient in alkalinity and in quantity to neutralize it. In his case, there being no parotid secretion on one side, the saliva of that side became acid and dissolved grooves in the teeth. About two years ago two research students at the University of Kentucky made a report substantially to the same effect.

If this explanation be correct, the way to prevent erosions or to stop the process is to change the reaction of the mouth secretions. For this purpose mild alkaline washes are used, such as Dobell's solution, salt solution, bicarbonate of soda solution and milk of magnesia.

An important but unsolved question is whether people with erosions should eat fruit.

GRAY HAIR IN YOUTH.

Miss N. writes: What is the cause of the hair of a girl of 14 turning gray? What remedy would you suggest to prevent further furning?

REPLY.

This in inherited. Nothing you do will stop the hair from turning. If you inherit a gray streak, you will develop grayness according to your pattern, regardless of what you do.

Regard the gray hair as a mark of beauty, for so it is. Also regard it as a mark of distinction. Few people can prove their pedigree.

Save your money. Increase your pride.

PHYSICIAN FEARS ALL HIS PATIENTS

He's Dr. Lichtenstein, Official Doctor of Tombs Prison in New York.

New York, March 10.—Dr. Percy M. Lichtenstein has a large medical practice in New York, but his clientele is peculiar. He never knows when he'll have to fight off a patient who is trying to choke him. For Dr. Lichtenstein is the official physician at Tombs Prison, through which all the Nation's big shots in crime pass sooner or later.

To keep in the good graces of his patients is not only an advantage to Lichtenstein in his work, but it is of great personal value, says the American Druggist. Refuse a criminal a bottle of cough mixture and he may try to choke you on your next visit.

If sometimes the doctor must refuse, he makes every effort to patch up the friendship as soon as possible. Very often he has had to back out of a cell and seek the aid of a keeper. But more often he has been successful with the men, treating them kindly but never showing them he is afraid. Under no circumstances does he carry a gun.

That the physician's policy of treating his patients humanely results in firm friendships was recently demonstrated when he encountered a former prison inmate on the street.

"Doctor," said the man, "you treated me square. If you know of some one you want to get rid of, or if you need to get rid of some guy, just tell me. I'll fix it for you free."

One of the difficulties of treating prison patients is that they must be guarded against the temptation of suicide. Confinement usually results in nervous disorders. A harmless bandage, a glass bottle, may give the convict the opportunity he wants.

Here the physician can only use his discretion, for there are no substitutes for bottles and bandages. He can only retort that the electric light bulbs in the cell, the sheets, the spoons, all of which can not be dispensed with, are equally dangerous.

Fled With Indian, Said of Mother

Relatives Ask Custody of Girls After Death of Their Father.

Special to The Washington Post.

Pittsburgh, March 10.—A father's deathbed wish that his two daughters be not permitted to pass into custody of their mother, who, it is alleged, deserted her family to live with an Indian, was revealed in common pleas court.

The woman, whose farewell letter to her deserted husband defended the Indian as "the same as a white man and better than many of them," and who expressed a liking for "a quiet and respected life among people who know me," came into court to oppose a habeas corpus action brought by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Katherine Rodgers, and James Rodgers, of Warren, Ohio, but he did not take the stand.

The Rodgers petition asked custody of Norman, 10, and Ruth, 5, daughters of Joseph Flannagan, Castle Shannon, World War veteran, who died in the Veterans Hospital, Aspinwall. It was related that the children's mother, Mrs. Ruth Flannagan, had left them and Flannagan in August, 1929.

Jungle Explorer Studies "Mental Radio" of Ants

Insects Appear to Have Means of Communicating to One Another Through Their Antennae; Elephants Also Seem to Have "Wireless."

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—The antennae of ants and beetles actually are tiny "wireless masts" through which messages are sent "over short wave lengths," says Commander George M. Dyott, the explorer.

Dyott gained world-wide attention two years ago by his expedition into the Brazilian jungles in search of the missing English explorer, Col. Fawcett.

He brought back some evidence of Fawcett's murder, and now is planning another expedition by airplanes, which in five hours will travel as far as he went in five months.

Dyott heard from savages of "Indians" farther in the interior who pave their roads and build stone homes—another tale pointing to the possible reality of the lost continent Atlantis, supposed by some to have bridged the Atlantic between Africa and South America.

His airplane expedition will search for the source of the stone house Indian rumor, and gather all sorts of scientific data in a country where it is said white men never have penetrated.

Insects are the worst enemies the white man meets in these Brazilian jungles, Dyott says.

Observations of insects and animals as well lead him to believe that they can communicate with one another by some form of mental "radio."

"I believe if human beings were only aware of the powers at their disposal, they would be able to communicate the way animals do," he says.

"Once I watched an ant in its attempt to carry home a leaf many times its size. It tugged and shoved until it realized its efforts were futile, then stood stock still, wiggling its antennae.

"In a moment its S O S was answered by a half-dozen ants, rushing to its aid from as many directions.

"The first ant again wiggled its antennae, evidently radioing orders. Without confusion, the 'first-aiders' stationed themselves around the rim of the leaf, picked it up and bore it off in triumph.

"More than once, too, I have watched elephants moving toward each other from opposite directions." Dyott went on. "They could not possibly have seen each other nor me through the dense jungle growth. One of them could not have scented me, for the wind was in the wrong direction.

"Yet, suddenly both elephants halted, hesitated and then the one which could neither have seen nor scented me suddenly right-about-faced and lumbered off. The other elephant had got wind of me and had warned his friend by 'wireless.'"

Court Refuses $9.97 In Payment of $10 Fine

In almost any other place in the world, $9.97 will pass for $10 in an extreme emergency, but not so in Police Court, Arthur Fischer has found out.

Fischer, haled before the bar of justice on a charge of intoxication, heard Judge Ralph Given say, "Ten dollars or ——." Fischer dug through his pockets and found all but 3 cents of the 1,000 wanted. He borrowed the coppers from cell mates.

HORSE IS SUICIDE; ILL HEALTH BLAMED

Gulps Down Water Until He Passes Out; Long a Stray on Streets.

Philadelphia, March 10.—This is another tragedy of the economic depression—the tale of a horse who couldn't get a job.

His name was—well, let's make his name Dobbin, and the locale of his sad end was the Meadows.

Years ago he was one of the snappiest hacks that ever pulled a chaise through Fairmont Park. He strutted at all the best shows—Devon, Bryn Mawr and Riders and Drivers—and as for blue ribbons, well, somewhere in Chestnut Hill he had a stack of 'em a mile high.

But, like every one else, Dobbin had his ups and downs. From chaises to buggies and finally to a peddler's cart he descended. But the crowning blow came six weeks ago when the peddler—name undetermined—turned him loose on that barren neck of the woods known as the Meadows. He wasn't worth his keep.

Dobbin wandered around all those weeks without a soul saying, "tchk, tchk, c'mon Dobbin, I've got a kid you can pull around in a cart." He strayed close to the streets purposely, hoping that at least a horse thief would solve his plight.

But who wants a wornout horse these days?

Dobbin saw the answer to that question yesterday. So while a group of truant schoolboys looked idly on, Dobbin stalked down to the Delaware River and there he became the first horse suicide on record.

For he drank and he drank and he drank, and even a horse knows that that's fatal to his kind.

SELECT YOUR EXECUTOR FOR ESTATE EXPERIENCE

The advice of the American Security and Trust Company in estate matters is frequently sought by men and women. They bring their individual problems for discussion because they feel that all expressions concerning the disposition of property are based on the Company's broad experience in the management and settlement of estates.

The solution of these varied and perplexing questions is usually found in the drawing of a Will in which the interested person expresses his wishes as to the exact manner in which the estate shall be handled and names an executor to see that all desires are effectively carried out.

If in the handling of your particular estate problem you name the American Security and Trust Company your Executor and Trustee, you will be assured of the benefits that come from co-operation and experience, which are always available to you and your heirs.

PHILHARMONIC GIVEN GREAT OVATION HERE

New York Orchestra, With Toscannini Leading, in Final Concert.

Two symphonies and Arturo Toscannini as leader were the irresistible combination offered by the New York Philharmonic Society Orchestra at its final concert here yesterday in Constitution Hall, when Mrs Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth sat, together in the presidential box and joined the capacity audience in ovation after ovation for the musicians and their distinguished leader.

The concert was given under the local management of T. Arthur Smith.

The orchestra was in splendid form yesterday and Toscannini conducted with the fire and vivid interpretation for which he has become famed on several continents.

The first number on the program was Weber's well-known "Overture" to Oberon, the charm of which is perennial. The first symphony on the program, Schumann's "Symphony No. 4, in D Minor," was played acceptably and proved with its solemn, stately measures a happy choice for the Lenten season.

The lovely Franck "Symphony in D Minor" captivated the audience to a greater degree, however. And well it might, with its graeful passages in the three movements which comprise the symphony.

Mme. Queen Loses Suit; Andy Celebrates

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Amos and Andy celebrated in Harlem tonight because Mme. Queen lost her $25,000 breach of promise suit against Andy.

A mystery witness "the woman in black"—broke up the radio trial when she testified that Mme. Queen had married several years previously and never had been divorced.

The mystery woman fainted in the courtroom just when things looked bad for Andy. She was carried out, but Amos had recognized her. He brought her into "court" tonight, and she broke up the serial trial.

Mme. Queen left the courtroom vowing vengeance on Andy, and Amos and Andy went out to celebrate.

SAMANEZ OCAMPO NOW HEAD OF PERU

Becomes Fourth President of Nation in Two Weeks, Despite Ill Health.

Lima, Peru, March 10 (A.P.).—Lieut. Col. David Samanez Ocampo today became head of the Peruvian government—the fourth to occupy that position within a fortnight—despite ill health and an apparent unwillingness to serve.

By invitation of Lieut. Col. Gustavo Jimenez, who has headed a transitory junta since he seized power Thursday, Samanez Ocampo will serve as provisional president until constitutional government can be restored.

Samanez Ocampo, who has been head of the "Southern Junta," set up by Arequipa revolutionaries February 20, was offered the provisional presidency by Jimenez Sunday, with two additional posts for the Arequipans and the remainder to be allocated among various sections of the country.

Yesterday he refused, suggesting that Lima form a government and Arequipa be given a veto power on cabinet selections, but the Jimenez junta resented this, saying it savored of a demand for a dictatorship by the southerners.

Whereupon the "Southern Junta" resigned last night, saying it did so to prove good faith and because it did not wish to stand in the way of a union of all Peruvian elements.

This was followed by an exchange of telegraphic communication with Lima, and today Samanez Ocampo announced he would assume the "heavy responsibilities as a duty," asking that he be permitted to organize his own government "within the requirements of national harmony."

Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, who was provisional president of Peru last August, when he was installed by a revolt at Arequipa, was unseated March 1 and since has gone to Europe. Judge Ricardo Elias followed him, but was ousted in a few days by Jimenez. Now it is Samanez Ocampo's turn.

Samanez Ocampo left Arequipa by airplane at noon today and arrived here tonight at the Pan-American-Grace Field at 5:45 p. m. He will organize his new government as soon as possible.

WEDDED 53 YEARS, DIE WITHIN ONE DAY

Lived Together Constantly and Had Long and Happy Marriage.

Philadelphia, March 10.—Never since they were married 53 years ago, had Joseph and Mary Kerr been separated as long as a single day.

They lived a simple life, without automobiles or frills. Everywhere they went, they went together. They reared a family of five children and saw them all married and leave home.

In all their lives they had been seriously ill only once. That was 23 years ago. Both were laid up with rheumatism at the same time.

Like all old folks, they feared the day of final separation. Both feared the loneliness and sorrow of life without the other.

But the day finally came. Both were taken ill last week. The husband died Saturday. She died Monday. He was 72. She was 71.

"We're ready to go," she said just before the end came.

DOUBLE POISON PLOT INDICATED IN DEATH

Letters Found in Studio of Photographer Who Shot Widow, Killed Self.

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 10 (A.P.).—From the dingy little upstairs studio in which Jim McClure, aged photographer, was found dead yesterday, letters were taken before the grand jury today indicating that a double poison plot existed before he wounded Mrs. Daisy Dycus, a young widow, and then is believed to have shot himself.

In McClure's old trunk, County Attorney W. H. Southall said today, there were found not only letters in which McClure, 69-year-old widower, told of his own plans to kill himself and the widow, whose husband died mysteriously January 27, but also a statement indicating McClure's belief that Dycus had tried to poison his wife before he met his own death.

Widow Is Held.

Then another letter, unaddressed, but apparently in McClure's handwriting, said that on the morning of the day Edwin Dycus, county patrolman, had died, McClure had given Mrs. Dycus the same kind of poison that a chemical analysis indicated had caused Dycus' death.

Mr. Southall before taking the letters, along with several bottles of various deadly drugs before the grand jury, said he would question the 24-year-old widow during the day. She has been held in jail for investigation since she ran wounded and screaming from McClure's studio yesterday morning, and police found the photographer shot to death.

Letter to Woman.

In a letter addressed to Mrs. Dycus, the county attorney said, there was a pharse "Do you remember you had to switch dishes on him and he became ill afterward." It referred to Dycus, the county attorney said. In another part of the letter were the words, "I don't believe you would come to me for money if you didn't love me."

The coroner yesterday returned a verdict that McClure killed himself, and the grand jury was ordered to remain in session to investigate his death and that of Dycus, and to inquire into the actions of the photographer, whose effects contained dozens of articles on suicide and a quotation from Goethe saying it was sweet to die with a loved one.

FRENCH COLONIES ARE HIT BY SLUMP

Paris Is Considering Plans to Revive Trade on Ivory Coast.

LOANS ARE PROPOSED

Paris, March 10 (A.P.).—Substitution of work for civil wars has been offered here as one reason why French-African colonies have been thrust into economic depression.

France herself escaped the world-wide predicament until late in 1930, but many of her colonies felt the pinch early last summer.

The government now is considering propositions for loans, for revenue tariffs and various other methods of easing the situation, especially in Madagascar and on the Ivory Coast.

For years France has been teaching natives of her colonies to forego their civil fighting and till the soil. The result has been an increase in production, but it was not accompanied by an equal increase in consumption.

The Ivory Coast natives, who used to amuse themselves by tearing up each other's villages, have turned a war-ravaged territory into a vast coffee-growing district.

But the drop in world prices hit them hard, and in Madagascar the entire 1930 coffee crop was left to rot, unharvested. The crop there amounted to 5,000 tons.

Somewhat similar conditions prevail as to the rubber, oils, rice, cotton, sisal and cacao production in the colonies.

The decrease in the colonies' buying power has been felt in France, too. In 1929 the colonies sold $280,000,000 worth of goods in the mother country and took $680,000,000 worth from her. Commerce between the two has increased five times since 1900.

Cities and counties are urged by J. S. Holmes, North Carolina State forester, to acquire land and plant trees.

Fines collected from Missouri violators of fish and game laws increased nearly 200 per cent in 1930 over 1929.

SORE THROATS serious now:

A sore spot no larger than a quarter can spread to the whole throat overnight. Gargle the very moment you feel the least soreness. Physicians recommend Bayer Aspirin for this purpose. It allays all inflammation immediately. It reduces the infection. Just crush three tablets in ⅓ tumblerful of water, and gargle well. It's a wise plan to take Bayer Aspirin after exposure to bad weather or whenever a cold threatens. If you ever have neuralgia, neuritis, or rheumatism, you should never be without this quick antidote for all such aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless. See that tablets bear the name, thus:

Cleveland Grave Is Thronged By Hunters Seeking Ghost

Clevelatnd, March 10.—New Yorkers who are reported to have paid to look at the knob on a flagpole, believing they were seeing an endurance sitter, have nothing on Clevelanders.

This was proved when ghost hunters, nearly 200 of them, came to little Anshe Grodno Cemetery to look at the reflection of a street light on a tombstone.

The fearless ghost hunters tramped through back yards, climbed a fence and eluded guards to prove to themselves that they had not seen a ghost. Then they explained the phenomenon to newcomers.

The crowds kept coming, according to Mrs. Rose Michalski, who lives nearby and whose household has been disrupted by the ghost hunters. The people came at night and then they returned in the morning. At one time there was a steady stream of visitors from 7 a. m. to midnight.

John Miller, caretaker of the plot, covered the stone with a burlap sack for two nights, but this did not stop the curious. The police have been called several times to disperse the crowds, and Marshal Jerry Sticha, of Newburgh Heights, was on duty one night to explain the apparition. It did no good.

The people are attracted when their attention is caught by a snow-white figure which appears to move in the cemetery. It is best seen at a point 550 feet distant from the stone and across a gully. To one walking along East Fifty-fifth street the figure seems to be keeping pace with him.

It is caused by two street lights, one on East Fifty-fifth street, opposite the stone, the other at the corner of East Fifty-seventh street and Hedge avenue southeast. Both these lights are reflected on an inclosed photograph which surmounts the four-foot tombstone. The picture is that of a young man who died two years ago.

Mrs. Michalski says an insurance collector started the story of the ghost as a joke.

REPORT CARDS FOR PRISONERS URGED

Chaplain Would Have Men Serve Time According to Their Conduct.

Philadelphia, March 10.—Convicts would fret over their "report cards" much more than any high school freshman if the "unit system" of punishment advocated by Dr. Linn Bowman, chaplain of Eastern Penitentiary, is adopted.

Speaking before the Delaware County Real Estate Board, Dr. Bowman attacked the "old-fashioned system of time sentences," and argued in favor of terms varying with the "degrees of improvement."

He explained that instead of sentencing a convicted man to six years, the judge would sentence him to six "units." Each unit would represent a certain amount of improvement in the prisoner's social attitude, skill at a trade and moral conduct.

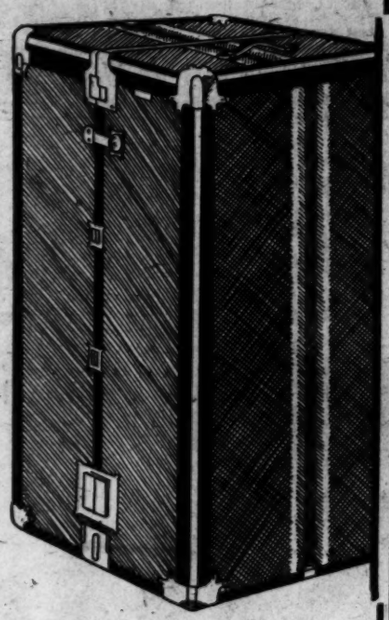
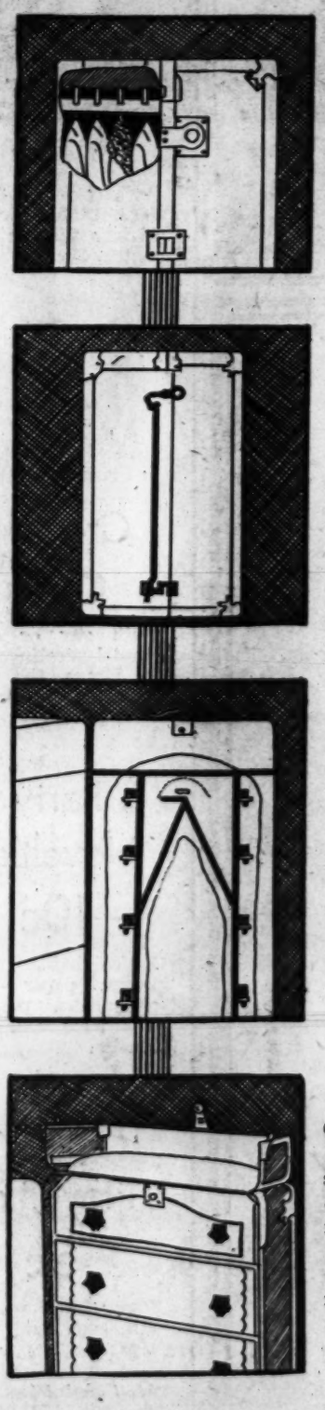
Hartmann Trunks

The "widely traveled" find Hartmann Trunks most practical and economical. Not merely for their rugged abuse-resisting wear, but because of their marvelous conveniences and the complete protection they afford their wardrobe against the dust and damage of traveling. Come in and see the correct type of traveling equipment here among our Hartmann groups, and notice particularly the unusual construction features, such as—





THE GARMENT PROTECTIVE CUSHION—this cushion comes down over the hangers, cushioning the space between, preventing the hangers from shifting on the trolley and the garments from being crushed one against the other.

YALE RITE-HITE CLUTCH LOCK—as the two halves of the trunk are brought together, a massive moving clutch engages with the solid stationary fixture set in the body—then, by applying slight pressure as the top lock enters the lock cup, the halves of the trunk are firmly and securely brought together.

DOUBLE DRAWER LOCKING DEVICE—instead of one locking clamp on each drawer, there are two, assuring absolute security when the drawers are closed and locked. To operate, unlock and remove top drawer and release catches on remaining drawers by turning lever up and over.

CONCEALED DRAWER BINDINGS—the same lining of the drawer section completely conceals the metal drawer binding or reinforcements, yet maintaining rigidity and strength, the primary purpose of these bindings and angles. Leather drawer pulls also add materially to the interior beauty.

To a very little fellow who wants to grow into a great big man

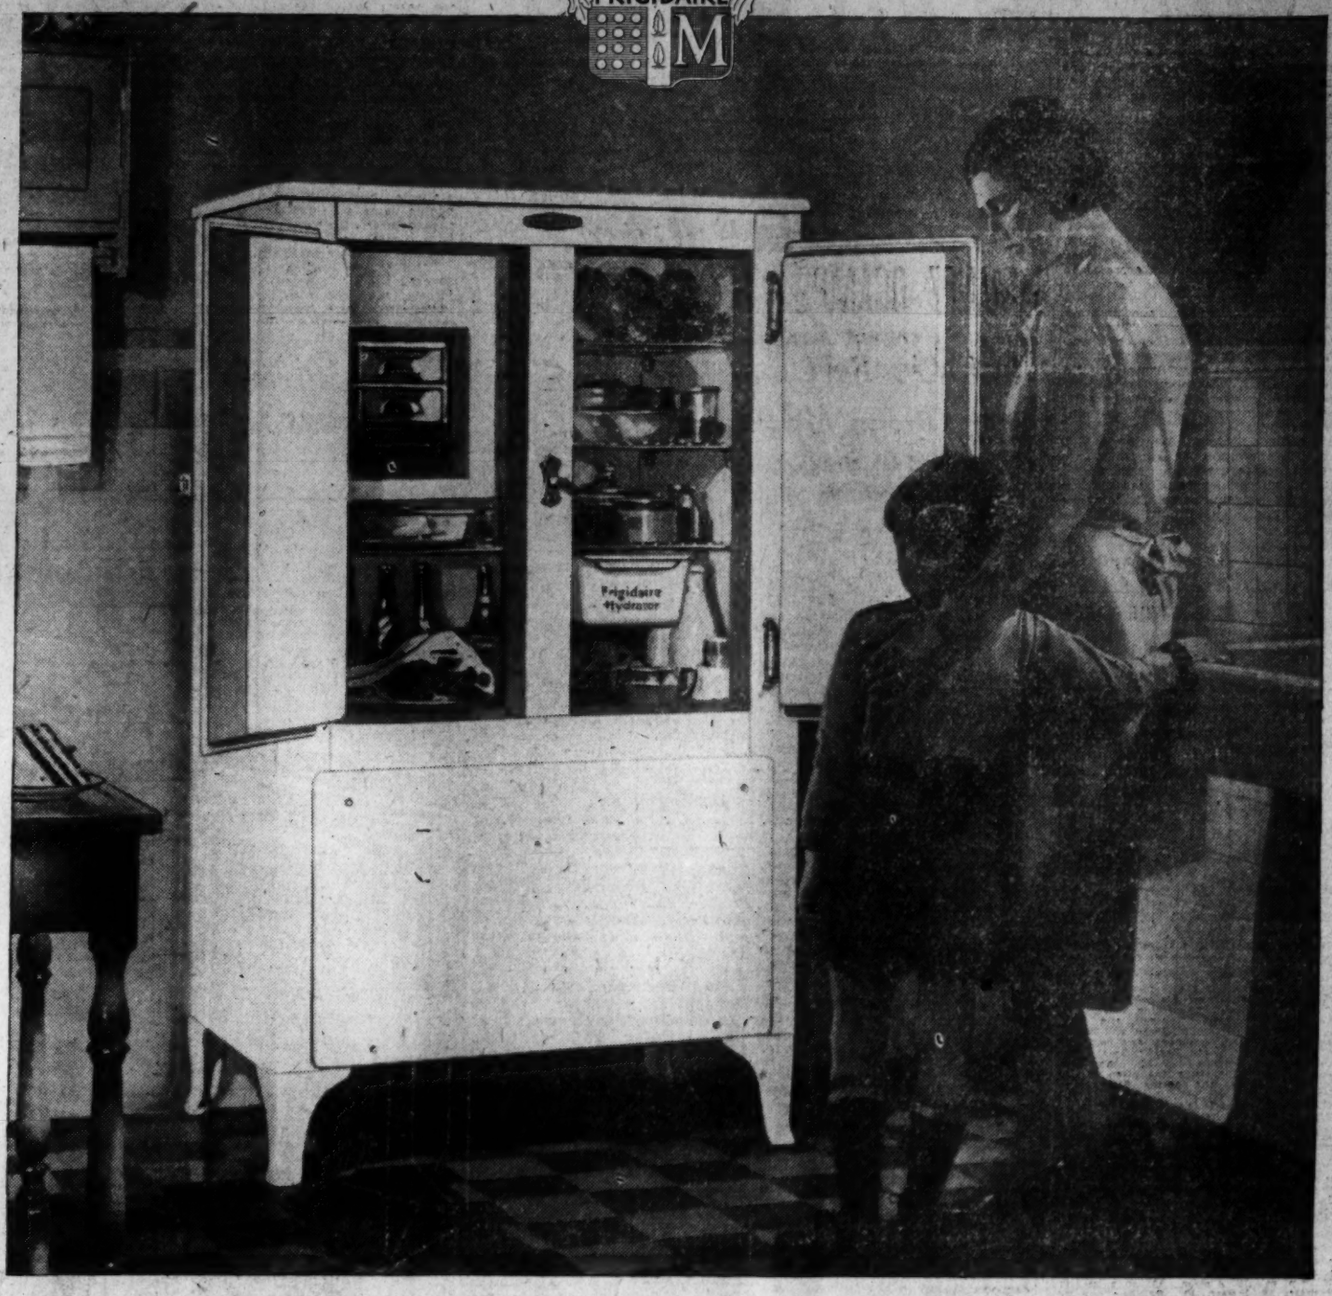
If you really want to grow strong and straight and six feet two in your sox you ought to tell your Mother about Frigidaire just as soon as you can talk! ● For, of course, how your food is kept now will have a whole lot to do with your health, wealth and wisdom in years to come. ● There's your formula, for instance, its freshness between feedings certainly shouldn't be trusted to anything less than Frigidaire refrigeration... and later on there will be pureed prunes... and cooked cereals to be kept overnight... and spinach which, we hasten to add, isn't half bad when kept garden-fresh in the Frigidaire Hydrator and then served through a sieve. ● So take your mind off your toes for a minute and let this fact sink in: For the past fifteen years Frigidaire has been responsible for major improvements that have made modern household refrigeration so healthful, convenient and economical. ● This being so, you will, of course, want your Mother to look into the Frigidaire pictured here... for it offers features not to be found in any other refrigerator. ● Perhaps if you look at the picture long enough and make a great deal of noise about it, Mother may get the Idea. ● And the sooner she does, Young Fellow, the sooner you can get really going on this growing-up business.

ADVANCED REFRIGERATION



In gleaming white Porcelain

Frigidaire offers a new standard of Advanced Refrigeration

From their service-shelf tops to their graceful streamlined legs, the new Frigidaires represent a fine achievement in modern refrigeration. ● The striking beauty of the pure all-white porcelain cabinet harmonizes perfectly with any kitchen color scheme. And these new Porcelain-on-steel Frigidaires are as brilliant in performance as they are in appearance—combining many important improvements and refinements that distinguish Frigidaire from all other refrigerators. ● You will appreciate the faster freezing made possible by the "Cold Control"... ice cubes that tumble so easily from the Quickube Ice Tray . . . the crisper vegetables you take from the Frigidaire Hydrator. You will recognize at once the advantage of the seamless, acid-resisting porcelain interior . . . the elevated food shelves . . . the surplus powered, concealed unit that operates so quietly and at such low cost. ● Here is Advanced Refrigeration—advanced in all that the term implies. And because of these advanced features and the savings they make possible, Frigidaire is the truly economical refrigerator to own. We invite you to see the new all porcelain Frigidaires at our showroom.

CHURCH FIVES TRIUMPH IN DISTRICT A. A. U. UPSETS

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, March 10.—If prize fighting were tennis or golf or a sport, Primo Carnera might now be regarded as eliminated from the competition for the heavyweight championship. He entered the ring against Jimmy Maloney in Miami, needing a good, rousing, first degree manslaughter to qualify, but the score he turned in at the end of his trial was barely a case of simple assault.

But the process of promotion in prize fighting does not follow the same rules that obtain in sport. Prize fighting is show business and Primo Carnera is a spectacle and he will be back.

Drawing cards do not stay eliminated, a fact which Jack Sharkey may reflect upon with considerable pleasure, because, if they did, Mr. Sharkey would have been retired several years ago, or at any rate relegated to the B class. Sharkey was beaten several times in elimination contests under Tex Rickard's auspices, but as often as other parties licked him Mr. Rickard reinstated him, and at the present time Mr. Sharkey's name leads all the rest except on the official rankings of the New York prize fighting commission, where he lost first place by the narrow margin of a 2-to-1 vote. So in Mr. Sharkey's case every defeat was a victory, and it seems possible that just one more walloping would have put him over and made him undisputed heavyweight champion of the world.

Sharkey's Defeats Help

Prize fighting is a very daffy, comic and generally harmless business, and it is impossible to apply to it any of the rules of priority that are used to identify the champions in other lines of athletic endeavor, either amateur or professional.

The procedure in baseball is faulty enough, for it permits that a team may win the league championship by winning a majority of its games from a field of seven opponents, even though one of these opponents may beat the champion 22 times in 22 games and still finish last. But this is just one of those things which might happen but never will, and the baseball system has the virtue of sincerity, anyway, whereas in prize fighting the system is a good deal like a wild scramble of 50 passengers for one seat in the subway. The man who gets the seat is the one who has the luck to be standing nearest to it when the passenger sitting there decides to get off the car, but there is nothing about this to signify that he is the one in the car most deserving of it. He may have ridden only a couple of stations and there may be another customer, a lady, more than likely, just a couple of steps away who has ridden all the way from Brooklyn and, by seniority, deserves the seat.

Title Was Gift to Max

Certainly Max Schmeling did not deserve a fight for the heavyweight championship when he was matched with Sharkey a year ago on the strength of a record of three fights, and still less he deserved the title when he settled down in the fourth round, yodeling his cry of outrage and pain, after three round of defeat.

Primo must be a pretty punk prize fighter considering that most of the expert witnesses scored him second in a fight with a man 70 pounds lighter than himself who had been knocked out half a dozen times and who had been hanging up his gloves every other week for a couple of years in fear that some time a slap on the ear would bring him down with that form of jake-leg known as fighter's dance.

A year ago on a train I chanced to find James in the company of Gus Sonnenberg, then claiming to be the heavyweight champion wrestler, and Mr. Sonnenberg's favorite opponent, a big Bulgarian named Nick Something. Gus and Nick had been seen

Gallaudet-Y. M. C. A. Wrestlers to Clash

Gallaudet's wrestling team and the grapplers representing the Y. M. C. A. will toe the line Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the Y Gymnasium. It is the first time the two rivals have met this season.

Gallaudet will be represented by Clark, 115 pounds; Hyler, 125; Grabill, 135; Carlson, 145; Martz, 150; Smith, 150, and either Davis or Barnes, 165.

The Y. M. C. A. will rely on Shockley, 115; Payne, 125; Broaddus, 135; Wisooker, 145; S. M. Whitworth, 150; A. J. Whitworth, 165; Heuschkel, 165, and Ballard, heavyweight.

Jack Kososwsky, former University of Nebraska athlete, will referee the matches, which will be contested under A. A. U. rules.

Jordan Vies With Bolton For Berth as Pinch Hitter; Slugs Ball in Nat Workout

Newark Draftee, 24, Makes Serious Bid for Batting Role.

Hadley, Brown Most Advanced of Staff; Hayes Shines.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.
(Staff Correspondent The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 10.—Until the second and last consignment of Nationals reported here for drill yesterday, it seemed to be taken for granted that if Catcher Cliff Bolton showed signs of the hitting power which has made a great reputation for him in the minors, that he would land the third string catching job.

Ed (Packy) Kenna is a much better receiver, but Manager Walter Johnson has had Bolton working under Coach Patsy Gharrity and planned keeping Cliff for his batting punch, believing it might come in handy in the pinches and figuring that he could do most of the bull-pen work.

Now, however, another has forged to the front and the Nat leader admitted tonight that Baxter Jordan stands a good chance of beating out Bolton for a job as pinch hitter. If this should be the case, it would cause quite a change in the Nats' early plans, as it probably would mean that Kenna would be given the right of way over Bolton in the backstopping department.

Jordan Lacking Strength in Field.

Jordan, drafted from the Newark International League Club, surely has been pounding the pill the two days he has been here. He is 24, only a year older than is Bolton, is also a left-handed hitter, and, like Cliff, does not rate high as a fielder. He played first base and in the outfield for the Bears last year, and is classed among the fly chasing candidates here. As far as fielding is concerned, neither he nor Bolton stands much of a chance of ever starting a game except in emergencies.

Jordan hit .349 in the International League last year, while Bolton's stick mark in the Southern was .377. Based on these figures, Bolton has a slight edge, but in practice here Jordan has shown to better advantage and it is the way these two youngsters stack up against each other, with Johnson looking on, which will decide the issue. And Jordan certainly has put himself in the running with his slugging today and yesterday.

Carl Fischer, Walter Tauscher and Lynn Griffith will draw the Washington pitching assignments in the opening exhibition game against the Baltimore Orioles here Thursday, all going three innings. Biloxi, by the way, is taking this game seriously, the mayor having declared a half holiday, with a parade having been arranged for early afternoon.

Hadley, in Form, Baffles Hitters.

Pitcher Irving Hadley, who has worked harder than any other Nat in camp, took a long turn on the hill this morning and literally made monkeys of the batters. In addition to showing lots of speed, he had his curve ball breaking to perfection. He and Lloyd Brown are the only flingers who are curving the ball often, this pair being much further advanced than any of the others.

Brown's salary wing was still slightly swollen today, as a result of being hit by a ball Monday, but this did not appear to handicap him much.

Jack (Sonny Boy) Hayes, now in good standing with the club following a salary argument, alternated with Buddy Myer at second in the regulars' infield drill today and showed that he has not forgotten any of the fine points of fielding. "If he could only hit," was in the minds of all while he was capering about that middle sack.

"General" Alvin Crowder reports that he is having trouble getting the kinks out of his throwing arm. He has to do considerable laboring during his warm-ups, but guarantees to be ready by the time the season starts.

Art (Slim) Fidler, the Hagerstown rookie, turned in a good pitching shift this morning. "He's got good action and considerable stuff," said Johnson after watching him, "but I'm afraid he's a year or two away from the majors. I like him as a prospect, though."

Nats Selected On Reserve Strength

IN precisely 243 words, Richard F. Harvey, of 2505 Thirteenth street northwest, yesterday put in his claim for those six box seats The Post is offering at the opening game April 14 between the Nats and the Athletics to the fan who picks the probable lineup of the 1931 Washington Ball Team, the position in which the club will finish, and the reasons for both.

To Mr. Harvey's way of arguing the Nats are going to bring the world series to Washington by reason of the best reserve strength in the league, in Harris, Kuhel, Hayes, Hargrave and Harry Rice.

Submits Batting Order

Here is Mr. Harvey's choice of a batting order: Sam Rice, right field; Myer, second base; Manush, left field; Cronin, shortstop; Judge, first base; West, center field; Spencer, catcher, and Bluege, third base. Crowder, Marberry and Brown will divide the chief pitching honors.

Mr. Harvey points out that while the combination of Foxx, Simmons and Cochrane make up a more potent "murderers' row" than anything Washington can boast of, the Nats as a team are a better batting aggregation than the A's. This point, and the notion that Washington is the best of all clubs in reserve strength, is the basis of Mr. Harvey's argument in favor of the local club.

Contest Rules Few

The rules of The Post's contest are few, and to the point. The fans are invited to respond, in 250 words, to the questions "What are the 1931 prospects of the Washington Ball Club?" and "Who will be in the lineup when training camp breaks up?" The fans are asked to state their reasons.

Six box seats will be pretty much at a premium if the rush for opening day tickets are a criterion. Address your replies to The Post's Baseball Editor, and write on one side of the paper.

All right, you people who are wont to hurl advice down from the grandstand, let's hear what you think about it.

Needy Family Heads As Caddies Urged

Philadelphia, March 10 (A.P.).—Forty-three golf and country clubs in the Philadelphia area have been urged to aid in the drive to decrease unemployment by using heads of needy families as caddies during the ensuing season.

In a letter today to the presidents of the clubs, Roger F. Evans, executive secretary of the committee on work of the Philadelphia Committee for Unemployment Relief, declared that such action would constitute a real contribution to the unemployment problem.

More Entries Received For Indoor Net Event

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—The mail man today brought several additional entries for the coming indoor tennis championships to the United States Lawn Tennis Association offices, raising the entry list to 90 home-breds and three Frenchmen.

While the last of the entries were being received, Jean Borotra and his two copatriots, Christian Boussus and Pierre Landry, were coming to town on the liner Paris. Borotra is favored to regain the title he won in 1929.

The tournament opens Saturday.

Notre Dame Ace Refuses To Consider Navy Offer

South Bend, Ind., March 10 (A.P.).—John J. O'Brien, who won fame in Notre Dame football as "One Play" O'Brien, has refused to consider offers to coach the Navy's ends next year, rather than jeopardize his amateur status.

O'Brien is all done playing football for Notre Dame, but he is captain of the Irish track team and a crack hurdler. He tied the American indoor record for the 65-yard highs Saturday, and is expected to be a consistent point-getter outdoors.

O'Brien won his nickname of "One Play" when Coach Rockne sent him in against the Army in 1926, and left him there just long enough to grab a pass from Neimic for the winning touchdown.

E. E. (Rip) Miller, Navy's new coach, who offered O'Brien the job as his assistant, indicated he would hold the place open until O'Brien was graduated in June.

M. CAESAR BELTRAM was struck five times by lightning, but lived to die of pneumonia. The chances are 500,000 to 1 that the average person will not be struck by lightning once in a single year, and 7,000 to 1 that he will not be struck once in a 70-year lifetime. M. Beltram's record is all the more remarkable when you take into consideration the fact that the chances against being struck five times by lightning are just about 2,000,000,000,000,000,000 to 1.

The match which can be used 600 times is carried about in its own case, upon which the match has to be scratched to ignite. The "eternal match" is practically unbreakable and, if dropped or trod upon, will not ignite.

Al Singer, on July 17, 1930, knocked out Sammy Mandell in 1 minute 46 seconds, winning the lightweight championship. Four months later he defended his title against Tony Canzoneri, who K. O.'d him in 1 minute 6 seconds. Thus, in 2 minutes 52 seconds of fighting Singer won and lost the lightweight crown.

Terry Makes Final Demand of $25,000; Yanks' Squeeze Play Beats Braves, 6-5

Gehrig's Bunt Wins Game; Joe Sewell Hits 3 Singles.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—The old-fashioned squeeze play gave the New York Yankees a 6-to-5 victory over the Boston Braves in the second of their spring series today.

Going into the last half of the eighth with the score tied, the Yanks loaded the bases and then caught the Braves napping as Lou Gehrig rolled a bunt down along the third-base line, Arndt Jorgens romping home with what proved to be the winning run.

Joe Sewell, former Cleveland infielder, led the Yanks' attack with three singles, while Combs poled out a home run and a single, and Babe Ruth connected with a triple and a single. Lefty Weinert started for the American Leaguers and was followed by Roy Sherid and Ed Wells. Harry Seibold and old Tom Zachary divided the Braves' hurling duties.

Machs' Rookies Beat House of David.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—The House of David fell before the World Champion Philadelphia Athletics by the score of 4 to 2 here today in an exhibition baseball game in which most of Connie Mack's regulars and rookies took part.

Mack used three juveniles on the mound. Lou Krausse, Al Butcher and Jimmy Beshong hurled there innings each. Beshong was tapped for two runs in the ninth. Before the game Mack announced that George Earnshaw, his world series pitching star, would continue his spring training at Hot Springs and would not appear in any of the Florida exhibition games.

Killefer Cancels Game, Fearing Sore Arms.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Cold weather caused Manager Killefer to change his training plans for the Browns today. He had hoped to have a ball game between the Regulars and the Mutts, but the wind was too frigid, so Bill cut practice short and canceled the game for fear of sore arms.

Jim Levey, who was hit on the arm by a bat swung by Jimmy Austin yesterday, was able to take part in the day's limited practice.

Reds and Cards Discuss Deal.

Tampa, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—President Sidney Weil, of the Cincinnati Reds, seeking an outfielder and one infielder, today went to Bradenton near here and discussed a deal with President Sam Breadon, of the Cardinals, but neither executive disclosed anything about the conversation. Meanwhile Manager Dan Howley sent his Rhinelanders through a three-hour drill that included all types of conditioning exercises.

BILL TERRY.

Chisox Regulars Win From Yannigans.

San Antonio, Tex., March 10 (A.P.).—Vic Frasier, rookie right hander, and Bill Cissell, the former soldier boy infielder, grabbed the major share of the glory in today's Chicago intercamp game, which the regulars won, 7 to 5. Frasier pitched four innings and the Yannigans did not get a hit, while Cissell made two home runs and a triple.

Hoyt Slab Choice For Tigers.

Sacramento, Calif., March 10 (A.P.).—Waite Hoyt will start on the mound for the Tigers in their opening exhibition with San Francisco Seals Friday. Manager Bucky Harris explained San Francisco had asked that a first string pitcher be on the mound for the game, which will dedicate the Seal's new park.

Lee's Outfielding Is Phils' Feature.

Winterhaven, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Hal Lee, outfield part of the big deal between the Phillies and Brooklyn last fall, is attracting attention in the Phillies' camp because he makes all his catches look easy. Lee, according to observers, gets the break on the ball, knows just where it is going and, if it's in the yard, is usually waiting under it.

Suhr's Hitting Brings Smiles to Pilot.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 10 (A.P.).—Manager Jewel Ens, who has said much of the Pirates' success depends upon an awakening of might in Gus Suhr's bat, grinned broadly as the Regulars defeated the Yannigans today, 8 to 7. It was the first baseman's triple in the seventh inning with the bases packed that featured the Regulars' winning tally.

Hopes for Trade if Giants Fail to Meet His Terms.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 10 (A.P.).—Baseball time and the call of John McGraw softened Big Bill Terry today, and the New York Giants' stubborn first baseman, slashed his holdout demands from $30,000 a year for three years to $25,000 for one.

Nothing softened Charles E. Stoneham, president of the Giants, who offered $22,000 and stuck to it.

"We don't want him, nor does any other club at $25,000," Stoneham said in New York. If that is so, rejoined Memphis Bill, the National League's leading first baseman will spend the summer looking after his local real estate holdings and playing shepherd to a bunch of oil company trucks.

Player Yearns for Active Duty.

Still bristling with self-confidence and determination, Terry's manner nevertheless was shot through today with longing for a ball camp—most any major league camp with a $25,000 pay-check—and he revealed that he and McGraw have talked often and earnestly by long distance telephone from San Antonio, where the Giants are training.

"I reduced my price to $25,000 and a one-year contract," Terry said. "From Mr. McGraw's talk I am almost positive that amount is agreeable to him, but it seems that Mr. Stoneham is both President and manager, insofar as finances are concerned."

"In these times of depression, a lot of millionaires are getting along without their yachts and I guess we can get along without Bill Terry," Stoneham said.

"Huh," said Terry to that.

Demand Is Final, Says Terry.

The $25,000 salary demand is final, Bill said, reiterating that he should get what Lou Gehrig gets, and Gehrig is reported to have capitulated in a holdout stand for $25,000.

Terry seldom mentions Lou

"That guy across the river," is his way of bringing up the subject.

Terry batted .401 last year. He admits to 33 years and a desire to reap while he may.

If nevessary, he said, he is "perfectly willing to be traded to any club that will meet my price." He prefers the Chicago Cubs but hasn't much hope of going with them.

Street Elated at Cards' Wins.

Bradenton, Fla., March 10 (A.P.).—Having beaten the world champion Athletics in two of three games of a little series, Manager Gabby Street is highly elated with the showing made by his Cardinals in their 1931 showing so far.

The most gratifying exhibition, according to Street, was the showing of his regular pitchers against the Mackmen. Fellows like Flint Rhem, Sylvester Johnson, Al Grabowski and Paul Derringer came through with flying colors.

TONIGHT'S GAMES.
(Tech High Gym).

7 p. m.—Peck vs. Boys Club Optimists (130-pound class, preliminary round).

8 p. m.—Aztecs vs. Y. M. C. A. Flashes (130-pound class, first round).

9 p. m.—Company E., D. C. National Guard, vs. Rockville A. A. (unlimited class, first round).

10 p. m.—Boys Club vs. Richard's Colonials (unlimited class, first round).

TWO intersectional games and a pair of battles between prominent local rivals will mark tonight's program in the District A. A. U. Tournament, sponsored by The Washington Post, now in progress at the Tech High Gymnasium, Second and T streets northeast.

Two Maryland teams will provide the unlimited opposition against a pair of District fives. What is looked upon as the feature battle will involve a clash of the crack Boys Club five, winner of the District Amateur League, and the Richard's Colonials, fast Prince Georges League quintet and runners-up for the title in the county league. This game is booked at 10 o'clock.

The other unlimited clash brings the Rockville A. A. team of the Montgomery County League into action against the Company E Club of the District National Guard.

130-Pounders Clash In Two Games.

Supporting these unlimited-class battles are a pair of 130-pound games that may steal the show. The crack Aztecs, runners-up for the title last season in the 130-pound class and prominent in two other tourneys, will tackle the brilliant Y. M. C. A. Flashes. Both teams have boasted long winning streaks this season, and some of the liveliest action of the season is expected before one of these rivals bids good-by to the tourney.

The opening game at 7 o'clock will find the Boys Club Optimists, last year's champions, meeting the Peck Memorial five. Both teams are king pins on their own courts. On the neutral Tech floor an even battle is anticipated.

Former Company F Stars in Action.

The Boys Club unlimited team is considered one of the favorites to carry off the major tourney honors.

The Third and C street combination holds a victory over Saks and has defeated Eastern, Business and Tech, of the high school group. The Colonials, with several of the famous Company F, Hyattsville, players, are expected to give the Boys Club all they desire in a basket ball way.

Tomorrow night's program will feature the appearance of the famed Quantico Marines in two games. The 145-pound Devil Dogs will meet the Colonials, while the unlimited Marines tackle the formidable Fort Washington five. Other games listed are the clash of St. John's and the Arcadians and the struggle between Bolling Field's Aviators and First Baptist Church.

A nominal admission charge of 25 cents will prevail.

Uphill Fight in Post's Tourney Is Won by Young's Basket.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
(Unlimited Class.)

Trinity M. E., 21; Potomac Boat Club, 15 (first round).

Mount Vernon, 38; Y. M. C. A., 37 (first round).

Palace-D. G. S., 28; Mercury, 10 (preliminary round).

THE heat of competition in the District A. A. U. basket ball championships last night whipped the teams and more than 500 fans to a frenzy at the Tech High School gymnasium as a finalist of last year passed out of contention in one unlimited class contest while a 1-point victory was recorded in another.

For sheer excitement, the Mount Vernon victory over the Y. M. C. A. by 1 point, 38 to 37, surpassed all events in the tournament to date, as the former Sunday School League champions, after trailing from the opening whistle, eked out the victory in the last two seconds.

But the major upset of the night was recorded by the unheralded Trinity M. E. quintet which eliminated the Potomac Boat Club, a finalist for the unlimited crown last year, by a 21-15 score that knocked all the pre-tournament dope asunder. In the third and final game of the evening, the Palace-D. G. S. combine defeated its Southwest rival, Mercury, 28 to 10.

Again the tournament, which The Washington Post is sponsoring for the fifth consecutive year, was thrill-packed from the outset last night. The opening game saw Billy Roberts lead Trinity to victory singlehanded with his total of 19 points while the Boatmen strove ineffectually to halt his rampage.

The greatest uphill fight in tournament history was staged by the Mount Vernon Team, runner-up in the Sunday School League, against the surprisingly powerful Y. M. C. A., which assumed a commanding lead from the outset. At one point in the second half with ten minutes to play, Mount Vernon trailed by 21 points. Then the Churchmen uncorked a sensational scoring spree, led by Melton, which was climaxed by the winning basket flung by Ford Young with insufficient time left to enable the teams to line up for another tap-off.

Mount Vernon Victory Provides Thrills.

The Mount Vernon Church Five, former champions of the Sunday School League, defeated the Y. M. C. A. Big Five, 38-37, in a game which ran the gamut of all thrills in basket ball.

Won in the last two seconds of play, the conclusion brought the large crowd of spectators to their feet cheering the dramatic basket shot by Ford Young and the previous play of both the winning and losing clubs.

The game will probably go down in local basket ball history. The Y. M. C. A. team jumped into a 15-4 lead before 10 minutes of the game had ticked away. The score stood 23-9 in their favor at the half, mainly because of the fine play of Miles, guard, one of the smallest players in the unlimited division.

Leading by a margin of 21 points, 33-12 midway in the last half, the Y. M. C. A. was halted as though it had struck a brick wall by the suddenly reactivated play of the Mounts. Point after point came their way, with Melton showing a scoring frenzy to pocket 10 points. Holding the Y Five to 2 baskets in the last 10 minutes of play the eventual winner crept nearer and nearer to even the score.

Melton missed a chance to tie the score, when it stood 37 to 35 in favor of the Y with two minutes to play, by missing two foul shots. Goubeau came through with a foul shortly afterwards to make the score 37 to 36 in favor of the Y. Then out of the melee on the floor, Ford Young appeared with the winning basket, which was registered as the gun sounded.

Roberts Is Hero For Trinity.

The night of upsets started with the first game, in which the Trinity M. E. tossers took a 21-to-15 decision from the Potomac Boat Club.

Entering the game a decided underdog the Trinity boys did little to improve their status in the first half, at which time they trailed by the margin of 11-to-6.

But after that it was all Trinity, or, more precisely, all Billy Roberts, a long, lean, curly-head, who scored 19 of his team's 21 points. Roberts began to find the middle of the rim with devastating effect and up until two minutes of the game were left had scored all of his team's points. Alan Staubly was the only other Trinity man to break into the scoring.

Columbus and Strayer Clash for Second Place

Columbus and Strayer fives of the Washington Collegiate Conference will clash Friday night in a game at Silver Spring Armory to decide second-place honors. The regular season closed last week with these clubs tied for the runner-up position. The game will begin at 9:30 o'clock. A nominal admission fee will be charged.

North Carolina House Passes Bill on Racing

Raleigh, N. C., March 10 (A.P.).—The North Carolina House today passed a bill to permit horse and dog racing with pari mutuel betting in Buncombe County.

Asheville, resort center, is in Buncombe County. The bill, which has evoked widespread opposition from State religious organizations, now goes to the Senate.

Representative Dosher, speaking for the bill, assailed "wet drinkers who vote dry and poker players who attack betting bills."

Giants, Chisox to Meet In Night Game March 21

Houston, Tex., March 10 (A.P.).—The New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox will play the first night baseball game ever participated in by two major league teams here March 21, President Fred Ankenman, of the Houston Texas League Buffs, announced today.

Ankenman was advised by Secretary Harry Grabiner, of the White Sox, that John McGraw, manager of the Giants, had consented to play the game at night.

Fun of Tennis Keeps Borotra an Amateur

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Jean Borotra, arriving today from France to compete in the American indoor tennis championships, said he would never turn professional because he "gets too much fun out of the game."

The Davis Cup star said that when the game becomes work it ceases to be a game.

He had no criticism to offer of the defection to the professional ranks of William Tatem Tilden 2d, but expressed regret that he would not get to meet Tilden in competition again. Playing professional tennis, he said, is as honorable an occupation as selling gasoline pumps, "which I do."

Borotra expressed the opinion that American tennis is coming along better than the French game and that the crop of American youngsters is better than those of his native country.

PIMLICO AND BOWIE THRIVING AS SEASON NEARS

600 Horses Housed at 2 Tracks

Weather Proves Boon to Owners Awaiting Opening Mar. 31.

Stars of Last Year at Pimlico; Stalls Insufficient.

WITH the opening of Maryland's spring racing season scheduled for March 31 at Bowie, there is greater activity at the Pimlico and Bowie tracks.

Already more than 600 racers have been quartered at these two tracks and are working out daily, according to the Associated Press.

Jimmy Ross, superintendent of the Havre de Grace track, reports they will be ready to receive shipments of horses there March 15, and from that date it is expected the Harford County plant will also be a scene of activity.

That there will be no dearth of thoroughbreds for the season is indicated by the great number of applications for reservations the three major tracks have received.

Track Chiefs Cite Lack of Stalls.

Richard Pending, the track superintendent at Bowie, and John H. Ryan, track superintendent at Pimlico, report that they would require again as many stalls as there are available to accommodate all the horses that are slated to come here for the spring season.

The better horses now in Maryland are quartered at Pimlico. There one finds stake stars of last year preparing for their 1931 campaigns, and there is a plentiful supply of 2-year-olds.

Bob Steele is schooling at Pimlico, and within a week or ten days he will be breaking the juveniles from the gates. The Bowie school has not yet opened and the trainers themselves are conducting the work.

Horsemen at Pimlico are loud in their praise of the track. Weather conditions have been unusually suitable for training and many horses already have been brought to withing easy striking distance of their best form.

Three Large Stables Due at Pimlico.

Ryan is expecting the early arrival at Pimlico of three large stables. One is the Seagram Stable, from Canada; another the Brookmeade Stable; the third string will be brought in from Charlottesville, Va., by Dr. J. P. Jones. The three outfits are expected to include about 100 thoroughbreds.

Only one string is installed at Havre de Grace. This is the Lone Star Stable, which wintered there. There are fifteen horses in the lot.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—St. John's Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

ST. JOHN'S PARK today features the St. Augustine record handicap, fourth race, six furlongs, with five well matched horses entered for the fray. GUILDER looks best. JACK HOWE should finish second in this dash. EQUATION is due to improve, and should hold the others safe. Clear weather and a fast track are forecast.

FIRST RACE—Most of the fields are large at this track and the opening race for maiden 3-year-olds is above capacity, but class is missing. MARION ORMONT is picked to win. RUNIN LITE has been running in good form, and will be a contender. ACHTOL LASS ran well in Havana.

SECOND RACE—ZACHARY should account for the second race for maidens, 3-year-olds and up. LADY MESSENGER has a chance, but second is about all that can be expected for her racing has been off for a few weeks. PAL TO PAL may get in the money.

THIRD RACE—HAZEL GUMPERTS should be the winner. GUFFLE stands out as the contender. STURDY has a chance for the short end of the purse. This is the largest field on the card, twenty having been entered, with twelve the limit field.

FIFTH RACE—JEFF O'NEIL is selected to win the fifth race, a mile and a sixteenth. SEARCHER is the chief contender and should improve over his last race at Miami. BELMONA was third to Valley and Wacker Monday and has much early speed.

SIXTH RACE — DAIL, which was heavily backed Monday, but finished out of the picture, is expected to win the sixth event, which is a mile and a furlong. HONEST JOHN may be the favorite and has a chance. ENTHUSIASTIC is best of the others and should clinch third money.

SEVENTH RACE—SUNCHEN is selected to win in the seventh race. He beat Nealon Kay Monday and has no such vigorous opposition in this race. It is a half furlong farther, but SUNCHEN can stick it out. RUNDALE is the strongest of the opposition and should get the place, MADDER is dangerous.

PRIMO LOOMS AS FOE OF SHARKEY

Muldoon Discerns No Bar to Match in Summer.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, March 10 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, the animated Alp from Italy, and Jack Sharkey, from up Boston way, can fight in New York this summer as far as William Muldoon, the iron man of fistiana, is concerned.

The white-haired Duke of Muldoon, 86 years old, rose to all his stately height after the weekly commission meeting today to say several good words for the Primo and put sturdy legs under the heretofore wobbly rumors that this match was a certainty for one of New York's ball parks this summer. As Muldoon goes, so usually goes the commission.

The dope has it that Jimmy Johnston, the busy fight manager who has a friend at court, will promote the match, probably at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, if no arrangements can be made with Madison Square Garden for the use of either the Polo Grounds or the Yankee Stadium.

Tremendous Gate Is Foreseen.

"Right now Sharkey knows too much for Carnera, is too smart, but it would be a good fight," Muldoon said. "It would be a tremendous drawing card and Carnera is capable of giving Sharkey a real battle."

Muldoon stressed the fact that in the eyes of the commission the world heavyweight title still is vacant, Max Schmeling standing forth merely as the German representative, while Sharkey holds only the American championship. Der Maxie has lost all official standing here since his refusal to again do battle with Sharkey and wipe out the uncertainty left after his four-round victory on a foul over the Bostonian last June.

Carnera has been under suspension here since the California commission banned him and his managers for connivery in Primo's fiasco with Leon Chevalier, a Negro, in Oakland, Calif. He was set down so violently here that his suspension was considered of lifelong duration. Apparently, however, he has vindicated himself somewhat in the eyes of the commission.

In the absence of James A. Farley, chairman of the commission, Muldoon announced that final decision on the King Tut-Billy Petrolle investigation would be ready Friday. The commission has been investigating charges that Petrolle's knockout of Tut in Madison Square Garden recently was a fake. The purses of both battlers still are held at the commission.

BOND MOVEMENTS INFLUENCE STOCKS

Late Bearish Drive Takes Away Major Portion of Early Profits.

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Fair weather signals in the bond market dominated the financial scene today. Wall street attached much more importance to the cordial reception given the large volume of new senior security offerings than to the temperamental changes in shares, which rose and then fell in response to passing variations in professional sentiment.

Not only was nearly $200,000,000 in new borrowing quickly taken from the syndicates by dealers, but listed bonds acted well under the competition. Rails, which might have been excused had they sold off in the face of the New York Central and Pennsylvania financing, held firm.

Foreign issues received unexpected assistance from the statement by the Bank for International Settlements that the time was propitious for the extension of long term credits to Europe, and the day's best advances were in this category where many new highs appeared. Since a strong bond market is a familiar basis on which higher stock prices are built, the current rise has many well wishers.

Late Bearish Move.

Stocks were in strong hands most of the day. A bear drive, coupled with profit taking, came in the late trading and took much of the wind out of the bulls' sails, but although final prices favored the down side by a narrow margin pivotal issues for the most part behaved in a manner satisfactory to sponsors of the advance. Sales of 3,200,000 shares represented a moderate expansion in activity.

Had sentiment been less cheerful, the drop in United States Steel Corporation's unfilled tonnage might not have passed unnoticed. The decline of 167,157 tons was considerably larger than had been expected. Unofficial guesses ranged around 75,000 to 100,000, so the actual figures were a little surprising. The shrinkage in the backlog during a month of improving operating ratios reflected the cautious attitude of buyers whose demands, especially late in the month, were probably insufficient to meet production.

The shortness of the month was also taken into account. It was notable that Steel common made its best price of the current movement after the news was out, although it turned its extreme rise of 1⅜ into a small fractional net loss.

Reports that export sales of General Motors were improving and that the effects of the veterans' loans were beginning to be felt in some lines, including the automotive, gave the bulls material to work on, and all groups but the rails and oils enjoyed an upward turn.

Allied Chemical Tumbles.

Consolidated Gas went more than 4 points higher to a new 1931 top on news of a closer tie-up with Niagara Hudson in the New York State electric power industry. The rise was cut in half during the late selling. American Can was equally buoyant, but it, too, reacted from the top. United Corporation made a new high in another large turnover before selling off.

The late bear attack was directed particularly against Allied Chemical, which tumbled 11 points, to 149. Pressure was also exerted against the amusements and some specialties, Westinghouse losing 2 points. Warner Bros. touched a new low.

Bar silver, climbing above 30 cents an ounce, featured the commodities. The recent advance of this important metal has given rise to reports that materially higher prices are in prospect, and a 40-cent quotation is being mentioned as a possible goal. Wheat and corn closed with small fractional losses. Corn was up in the forenoon on a bullish Government report, but a disappointing cash demand and a large Southwestern movement brought lower prices. Cotton sagged 6 to 11 points.

Foreign exchanges were mostly steady, with fluctuations narrow, except in the Far Easterns, which rallied with silver bullion.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 10 (A.P.).—Corn led the grain markets up first and then down today. Buying power in corn faded after an early advance had brought about an onslaught of selling to realize profits. Official announcements that only 709,000,000 bushels of corn remained in farmers' hands against a 5-year average of 1,077,432,000 were responsible for the transient price rally.

Corn closed weak, ⅜ to ⅞ cent lower, wheat unchanged to ⅛ off, oats unchanged to ⅛ down, and provisions unchanged to 47 cents net lower.

At the outset, previous speculative sellers of corn made haste to reverse their market position owing to the bullish showing of the Government report indicating that corn consumers would be forced either to economize or substitute to the extent of 258,000,000 bushels before November 1. The saving or substitution would have to be 357,000,000 bushels, if the usual autumn carrying over were allowed for. While corn was consequently advancing, little heed was given to the fact that the Government report indicated also that farm supplies of wheat were 21,000,000 bushels larger than expected.

After a rise of more than a cent a bushel, however, corn suffered nearly a 2-cent fall from the day's top level, and closed at the bottom point. Buying on the bulge and afterward proved altogether insufficient to absorb the selling. Demand from corn shippers here was especially disappointing, although receipts continued so indicate that the season's peak had been passed. Primary arrivals totaled 526,000 bushels, against 937,000 a year ago, and Chicago had only 79 cars compared with 178 a week back and 142 on the corresponding day of 1930.

Unexpected firmness of Liverpool wheat quotations and smallness of receipts at European continental markets helped to steady wheat. Other sustaining factors included an upturn in Argentine exchange rates, an advance in silver prices, and further unfavorable crop reports from France. Oats were influenced somewhat by smallness of receipts.

Big stocks of cured meats depressed the provisions market, despite sharp upturns in hog values.

FOREIGN BONDS RISE TO NEW 1931 PEAKS

South Americans Feature Upward Spurt With German Issues.

New York, March 10 (A.P.).—Steady buying pushed foreign bonds upward today and a large and varied number of them reached new high prices for 1931.

Among the more active foreign items so distinguished were Antioquia series B and D 7s, Chilean 6s of 1960, Colombian 6s of 1961, Deutsche Bank 6s of 1932, Lautaro Nitrate 6s, Oriental Development 6s, Prussian Free State 6s, State of San Paulo 7s, Rhine Westphalia 6s of 1963, Siemen & Halske 6½s and three issues of United Steel Works 6½s. The majority of other foreign issues traded closed higher.

Although the strength among domestic obligations was much less marked than in the foregoing group, investment bankers and bond dealers were greatly encouraged by the reception accorded the offerings of $75,000,000 of bonds of the New York Central Railroad and $50,000,000 of bonds of the Pennsylvania Railroad, both of which were all sold by noon, and both of which sold at fractional premiums in the open market shortly thereafter. The demand for the $66,000,000 issue of the port of New York authority was described as satisfactory.

American Telephone & Telegraph convertible 4½s of 1939 made an outstanding gain among the issues having stock purchase or conversion privileges. Warner Brothers Pictures as reflected selling pressure and reached their 1931 low at 50, established yesterday. The price movement in other members of this group was irregular and narrow.

Rail, industrial and public utility bonds, whose market is determined by their investment standing, were generally steady, but a rising tendency appeared among them at times.

Obligations of the United States Government were moderately active within a narrow range.

INSURANCE TERMED BIG SOCIAL FACTOR

Terence F. Cunneen Speaks to Capital Underwriters at Hay-Adams.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Characterizing the institution of American life insurance as most significant of our spirit and genius, Terence F. Cunneen, manager of insurance department, Chamber of Commerce of the United States, related yesterday to the managers section, Life Underwriters Association of Washington, how this primarily private business has evolved into one of the greatest economic forces of the Nation and a social factor of incalculable influence.

Speaking on "Life Insurance in the National Business Structure" at a luncheon of the section at Hay-Adams House, Mr. Cunneen, who has written and lectured extensively on insurance subjects, said that whereas in 1905 the amount at risk was less than $14,000,000,000, at the end of 1930 it had multiplied nearly eight times.

During 1930, he said, people of the United States purchased $18,500,000,000 of new life insurance, a sum which exceeded the average of the preceding five years by $1,100,000,000 and was less than 4 per cent under the high mark of 1929.

55 Per Cent Insured.

While in 1911 total life insurance in force has just passed the $18,000,000,000 mark, there is now in force, he revealed, ten times the amount outstanding in 1902, five times as at the end of 1914 and more than twice that as of the end of 1922. While 25 years ago the admitted assets of all life companies were less than $3,000,000,000, today they are nearly $19,000,000,000, the speaker said. More significant still, according to Mr. Cunneen, but 17 per cent of the people held policies on their lives 25 years ago, while now the number of policy holders aggregates 68,000,000, representing nearly 55 per cent of the country's population.

The protection of life insurance, he narrated, is now given by 370 companies, which, in 1930 paid approximately $2,200,000,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries, nearly $250,000,000 more than in 1929, the previous record year. Of this 2,200,000,000, $1,325,000,000 was disbursed as dividends, matured endowments, annuities, disability benefits and cash surrender values, the balance to beneficiaries of deceased policyholders.

Assets of 52 Companies.

On December 31, 1930, 52 companies had assets estimated at $17,350,000,000, or approximately 91.8 per cent of those of all companies in this country. Describing their investments, he said the largest general class for life insurance funds is in the form of first mortgages on city property and farms. City mortgages now total $5,105,000,000, or 29.4 per cent of total assets of the 52 companies. Farm mortgages total $1,886,000,000 or 10.9 per cent of their total assets. While 1930 showed an increase of $247,000,000 in total mortgage loans over 1929, there was a falling ratio, he revealed to total admitted assets in both the city and farm list and an actual decrease in the amount of the latter.

The next largest class of investment is in bonds and stocks, approximately $6,531,000,000, or 37.6 per cent of total assets being in this portfolio.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 10.—Stockholders of the Lehigh Valley Coal Corporation today elected seven directors at the annual meeting. No other business was transacted. W. R. Evans, of New York, was elected to succeed G. N. Wilson. The others, all reelected, were Thomas W. Lamont, Paul Moore and R. S. Grant, of New York, and T. S. Barber, W. H. Conyngham and J. M. Humphrey, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Stockholders of Selected Industries, Inc., have voted to reduce the stated capital of all classes of outstanding stock by one-fourth and to retire 215.385 shares of common which have been purchased by the corporation. The readjustment increases capital surplus by $14,633,844.

Officials of the Eaton Axle & Spring Co. today announced that the axle division had closed a $500,000 contract for supplying a new type of axle.

Announcement was made of the formation of a committee for the purpose of protecting holders of the outstanding Santa Ana Sugar Co. First mortgage 8 per cent sinking fund bonds, due March 31, 1931, with P. L. Dodge as chairman. The committee said it had been informed that Santa Ana Sugar Co. will default in payment of the principal and current interest on the bonds at maturity.

Ray O. Weems, State treasurer of Oklahoma, and Ira E. Mitchell, special representative of the governor, today transferred the State's fiscal agency to the Chatham Phenix National Bank.

The New York Stock Exchange has received notice from Ettington Schild Co. of a proposed reduction in capital represented by common stock from $7,361,202 to $2,451,800.

Notice has been received by the New York Stock Exchange from the Gardner Motor Co. of a proposed reduction in capital from $2,500,000 to $300,000 and reduction in par value of the capital stock from $5 to $1.

Automobiles for Sale 15

AN APOLOGY

To the hundreds of people who visited our salesroom last Monday at 7 p. m. to attend our auction sale of used cars.

Circumstances beyond our control, regarding a legal technicality concerning a permit, compelled us at the last minute to postpone the

AUCTION

We are now set to go ahead and the auction positively will be held

THURSDAY, March 12th

7:00 P. M.

RAIN OR SHINE

We offer a stock of cars that has been reconditioned in our own shop, consisting of popular makes—many late models—some almost new.

Every Car a "Trew" Value

BRANCHVILLE CASE HEARING SET FRIDAY

Paul E. Dement to Ask for Release in Slaying in Prince Georges.

A hearing will be held Friday on a writ of habeas corpus signed yesterday by Judge Joseph C. Mattingly in the case of Paul E. Dement, of Branchville, charged with the murder of Claude L. Hughes, of Branchville.

J. Wilson Ryon and Albert R. Hassall, attorneys for Dement, will seek his release on the first-degree charge by attempting to show that the killing was not premeditated. Hughes was stabbed with a penknife during a quarrel over the playmates of Dement's grandchild.

A petition asking that two lots at the corner of Adams and Lafayette streets, in Riverdale, be changed from residential to commercial zoning was refused yesterday by the county commissioners after they had read an objection to the change signed by about 25 nearby property owners. The Park and Planning Commission had already disapproved the change, and it was taken to the commissioners on an appeal.

A delegation of College Park citizens agreed to re-petition the commissioners to take over as a county road Dartmouth avenue from University road to the Baltimore boulevard. This stretch, about two-thirds of a mile long, was previously refused when coupled with another street.

The chairman of the district road committee was ordered to repair the Old Sallie Hill road, after a delegation from the Glen Arden Citizens Association had appeared to show the need for work on the stretch.

A delegation headed by D. L. Guest and W. A. Link appeared to ask the construction of a new county road from the Beaver Dam road to Sheriff road, but no action was taken on the request.

The February report of the county police court, presented yesterday, showed that fines collected during the month totaled $4,425.80, $2,104.80 of this going into the county treasury. Three hundred and forty-six cases were heard during the month and 335 were disposed of.

Of these cases, 228 were tried in Hyattsville, 67 in Marlboro and 12 in Laurel. Of the total cases heard in each town, 158 in Hyattsville and 35 in Marlboro were traffic cases. All the Laurel cases were for violations of motor laws also.

Suit asking that a receiver be appointed for the Silicia Tile Co., of Prince Georges County, was filed yesterday in Prince Georges County Circuit Court by the Marlboro Implement Co., which says the tile concern is indebted to it for about $3,000.

The tile company has an office in Washington and plants in Calvert County and Hagerstown, neither of which is in operation, according to the bill. The plaintiff asks that a receiver be appointed to keep up payments on the tile-making machinery and to pay royalties on lands leased by the tile company. One creditor has already filed suit in Calvert County, the bill further states. H. W. Taylor is president of the tile company, according to the bill.

Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, of Prince Georges County, chairman of the finance committee and Democratic floor leader, yesterday returned to his duties at the Legislature at Annapolis. The senator was on the floor of the Senate chamber, limping and with his arm in a sling, due to injuries received more than three weeks ago when his horse fell with him in Marlboro.

The school board yesterday lowered by $1,000 the sum it will ask from the county commissioners for the upkeep of the school system during the next school year. The decrease is made possible by the fact that the fund given by the Federal Government for vocational training has been increased by $1,000.

This increase of the amount available under the Smith-Hughes act will reduce the deficit account of the budget from $11,000 to $10,000.

A delegation from the Parent-Teacher Association of the Marlboro colored school also appeared yesterday before the board to make clear their choice of a site for the proposed new colored school in the town. Four sites were considered.

The first choice of the delegation is a tract of seven acres near the Pennsylvania Railroad station in Marlboro. The second choice is five acres and a dwelling house in Lapstone, belonging to Joseph Wells.

The third choice is a tract of five and a half acres on the Dille estate. The fourth is seven acres on the McNabb property in North Marlboro.

White schools in the county will close on Thursday, June 18, the school board decided, and colored schools will close on Friday, May 19. Commencement services in Maryland Park, Marlboro, and Bowie high schools will be held on June 16. Those in the high schools at Baden, Surrattsville and Hyattsville will be held June 16. June 17 will be the date of the services in the high schools at Brandywine, Oxon Hill and Laurel. The colored high schools at Marlboro, Highland Park and Lakeland will hold exercises on May 29.

Horace Perry, principal of the Mitchellville colored school, was granted indefinite leave of absence because of illness. Solomon Grayson was appointed new trustee of the Fletchertown colored school.

The first general registration in more than ten years in Hyattsville will be held April 13 and 20, two weeks before the election of a mayor and four councilmen. Since the last registration for town elections, new voters have been added, but none has been taken off the books.

Councilman Howard A. Harrison, chairman of the elections committee, was selected to take charge of the registration. Offices will be in the Municipal Building, and books will be open from 7 o'clock in the morning to 7 o'clock at night.

Conventions to nominate candidates will be held on April 20, the mayoralty candidates being nominated in a general convention at the public library in the town hall. Following this, conventions will nominate councilmen from the various wards in the following places: First Ward, Fire Department headquarters; Second Ward, council chamber, Municipal Building; Third Ward, public library, in the Municipal Building; Fourth Ward, Charles L. Ervin's real estate office, on Johnson avenue east of the Municipal Building.

The question of changing the boundary between Riverdale and Hyattsville along Calvert street was discussed and referred to the road committee for a report. At present the line runs along the side of the street, so that residents of Hyattsville can not be assessed by Riverdale for improvements of the street, which is in that town. In consequence, no improvements are made.

Solution of the problem probably will depend on the Legislature, unless some agreement can be reached between the two towns whereby Hyattsville can collect assessments and turn them over to Riverdale.

BAILIFFS IN NEW UNIFORMS

Town Bailiffs William Simmons, right, and L. A. Campbell, of Capitol Heights, in their new uniforms. Funds were raised by citizens of the town through a raffle.

ANTIBLUE SUNDAY BILL IS APPROVED

House in Maryland Defeats Measure Giving Jury Service to Women.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 10.—When the House of Delegates today gave its approval to the anti-Sunday blue law bill and struck down the proposal to give jury service to women of the State it disposed of two of the most controversial issues that have been before that body during the present session of the General Assembly.

The final vote on Sunday law abrogation was 71 to 42, while the jury service measure was defeated, 85 to 29, an unfavorable report on the latter measure being adopted.

When it became known that the anti-Sunday blue law bill was to come before the House for final passage the floor and galleries soon were crowded, and more than one-third of the House members explained their votes as the roll was called. Mrs. Lula Boucher, of Allegany County, one of the three members of her sex on the House roster, was among those to participate in the final debate. She opposed the bill.

Distinction Is Drawn.

The majority of those who spoke for the bill drew a distinction between religion and progress of the times, maintaining that it is time that Maryland, the birthplace of freedom and tolerance, should break away from obsolete and antiquated statutes. Delegate Gorfine, while voting for the bill, expressed doubt whether the constitutionality of the measure would stand up in the courts, claiming that the Assembly is without power to enact such special legislation.

Speaker Francis A. Michel, of Baltimore City, is author of the measure, and while the original plan was to make it applicable to Baltimore City only, it was redrafted as a State-wide proposition. The bill is designed to permit Sunday moving pictures and other amusements and sale of certain merchandise under regulations laid down by the mayor and city council and empowers the governmental officials of counties and municipalities to decide the issue.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie finally took a hand in the fight to assure passage of the bill. The Montgomery and Prince Georges County delegations voted for the bill.

Final Effort Fails.

While the fight was in progress Dr. W. W. Davis, executive secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, was among those in the audience. Throughout the morning he was busy working among the various delegates in a final effort to defeat the bill.

The death knell for the bill seeking jury service for women was sounded in quick order. When the unfavorable report of the judiciary committee was laid before the House, Delegate Jonathan Sleeman (Republican), Allegany County, made an unsuccessful effort to save the measure by having it substituted for the report. This brought about the vote of 85 to 29 against the motion. Then the "clincher" was applied through Floor Leader Lindsay's motion tabling the bill. The bill was introduced by request by Delegate Marvin Farrington, Montgomery County, at the behest of certain women's organizations. He was opposed to it.

Water Commission Urged.

Gov. Ritchie would be empowered to appoint a water resources commission of seven members under a bill introduced by Senator McIntosh, Baltimore County, Democrat.

The commission would be delegated to make a general survey of water supplies in the State to prevent a recurrence of the shortage that seriously affected many areas during the prolonged drought.

By a vote of 20 to 7, the Senate approved and sent to the House a bill by Senator Allan Coad (Democrat), St. Marys County, proposing a constitutional amendment to eliminate the provision empowering the General Assembly to extend the term of judges beyond the retirement age of 70.

Civil War Veteran, Father of 33 Children, Near Death in Franklin.

Franklin, Md., March 10 (A.P.).—The spark of life still burned feebly today in the breast of Burridge Coleman Trenum, whose family Bible records his age as 115 years.

Trenum was reported dead last night, but today relatives said he still was living, although his condition was "very low." He fell a victim of bronchitis. He has been active and able to walk without support in spite of his age.

Mr. Trenum, a Civil War veteran, is the father of two sons more than 70 years old. He has had 33 children, 21 of them by his second wife, who now is caring for him, and 12 by his first wife.

SAXOPHONIST FLOPS AS WRONGED HUBBY

Court Turns Him Down When Lawyer of Wife Gives Explanation.

Special to The Washington Post.

Milwaukee, March 10.—To Fred Peterson all the world's a stage, and he's just one of the actors. Fred sought to reenact the role of the clown in Leoncavallo's opera "Pagliacci" in Circuit Judge August E. Braum's courtroom. The court sat in a reviewer's seat and gave Fred's performance a severe panning.

Fred was the defendant in the divorce action brought by Hattie Peterson, 2457 Wisconsin avenue. Her principal complaints were that he gave up a good job last August to go to California with a band and that he went around with another woman. He plays a saxophone.

The operatic clown sings, though his heart is breaking because of his wife's unfaithfulness. So did Fred play the saxophone, he said.

"Your honor, I learned that my wife had been having an affair with another man and that she was supporting him for two years," Fred told the court. He began to cry. "But I kept playing my saxophone. Every Friday night I went to band practice." Fred was sobbing.

Then Attorney Leon N. D. Sauer ruined his act. "There's nothing to his story," Sauer said. "We've investigated his charge but there's absolutely no evidence to back it up."

Mrs. Peterson had testified that she bought a saxophone for her son and that her husband took the instrument and didn't return it. The court ordered Fred to share the instrument with his son.

Judge Braun granted the divorce to the wife and told Peterson to pay $13 a week for his wife and two children.

Exhibits Given Up In Mystery Case

Father of Annapolis Naval Officer Will Receive Son's Belongings.

Seattle, Wash., March 10 (A.P.).—Virtually abandoning hope of finding the body of James Eugene Bassett, former Annapolis, Md., naval officer, who disappeared here while on his way to the Orient several years ago, Prosecutor Robert M. Burgunder withdrew from Superior Court files today exhibits used against Decasto Earle Mayer and his mother, Mary Eleanor Smith, suspects in the case.

Mayer and his mother were convicted of grand larceny after they were found in Oakland in possession of Bassett's bill fold, cuff links and wrist watch. They also had his automobile. The exhibits will be forwarded to Frank B. Bassett, Annapolis, father of the missing man.

Mayer is serving a life term in the State Penitentiary as an habitual criminal while his mother is serving a five to eight years sentence on a grand larceny charge. As Bassett's body was not found, no murder charge was filed against them.

Versions Conflict In Abduction Case

Virginia Teacher Describes Incident as Scoggins' Trial Nears End.

Special to The Washington Post.

Stuart, Va., March 10.—Sharply conflicting testimony was heard today in Patrick County Circuit Court, where Junius Scoggin, 21 years old, is on trial charged with abducting Miss Mary Norman, Martinsville High School teacher, and attempting to attack her.

The case is expected to be submitted to the jury tomorrow with five attorneys' pleas to be heard. Miss Norman, in detailing her version of the episode last December, told of meeting Scoggin at a dance and of his calling on her two nights later. At his request, she said, they went to a drug store for refreshments and later, instead of driving her home, the defendant carried her into Patrick County over her protestations and offered indignities. The car broke down, she said, an d Scoggin took her to the home of Myron Clark, a farmer. Mr. and Mrs. Clark both testified today that Scoggin represented that they were married, no objection being voiced by Miss Norman.

100 EXTRA WORKERS NEEDED IN FAIRFAX

Additional Men Are to Be Employed in Laying of Gas Pipe Line.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon, 2324-W-2.

The Red Cross emergency drought relief committee has received word that work for 100 men is available immediately in Fairfax County. The supeaintendent of the construction force digging trenches for the twenty-inch gas pipe line from West Virginia into Philadelphia, states he will employ 100 additional men. The work will last for many weeks as the line will be laid through Fairfax, Prince William and Fauquier Counties. The force is now working between Floris and Chantilly and applications for work should be made on the ground.

The Colonial home of Dr. J. H. Ferguson near Clifton Station was destroyed by fire yesterday. Lack of water hampered work of firemen from Fairfax, Herndon and Vienna. Sparks from the burning building set fire to the woods a mile from the fire, caused by high winds.

The fire was started by sparks from the chimney falling on the roof.

The house was said to be one of the oldest in Fairfax County and was furnished with priceless antiques and the large library of Dr. Ferguson. A few articles were saved from the building. Loss was estimated to be more than $25,000.

At the regular meeting of the Falls Church Town Council a resolution was adopted directing Mayor L. P. Daniel to make application to the Fairfax County Circuit Court immediately for authority to hold a second election of qualified voters to pass on the $125,000 bond issue for the installation of a municipal water system. Judge Walter P. McCarthy will be asked to rule whether this application must be made in both the Arlington and Fairfax County Circuit Courts, as the town is located in these counties. The report of the judges of the election held last month when the resident freehold property owners approved the water bond issue, was filed and canvassed.

Resident State Engineer R. I. Mount, of Fairfax, informed the town council that the State Highway Commission has planned to resurface the Lee highway, known as Washington street, through the corporation to the north side of Broad street, and that work will be started in the next few weeks. Bids for the project will be opened next Tuesday. The council was informed that part of the highway within the corporation will be of macadam. The council informed the State engineer that a water main will be laid along the highway within the town in connection with the proposed water system, and that they desired to have the pipe laid before the road is surfaced.

A recent survey of Washington street showed that a portion of the right-of-way in East Falls Church is only 28 feet wide. It was stated to the town council that the State highway commission has determined to take the initiative and plans to interview property owners along this portion of the road in an effort to secure the additional right-of-way necessary.

A communication from the State highway department was received which notified the town that the parking of automobiles for servicing within that portion of the road over which the State has jurisdiction will be prohibited and this regulation will be enforced from date.

A communication was received from the committee in charge of the George Washington Bicentennial celebration inviting the appointment of a town committee to participate in the celebration next year, and asking the town to hold suitable exercises in cooperation with the general celebration. It is expected that this committee will be appointed at the next meeting of the council.

The council discussed the employment of an engineer to take supervision of the installation of the water system, but decided to hold a special meeting for the consideration of this question. The water committee reported that it plans to get in touch with the Arlington County Board of Supervisors immediately and secure a definite statement as to the arrangements that can be made by the town to get water from the Arlington County mains.

The council authorized Town Clerk J. C. Parrott to receive contributions from the citizens to assist in paying the hospital and doctor bills of of Douglas Royston, who was injured last Sunday morning when he fell down the 65-foot well shaft while fighting the fire at the home of Wallace Covington on Lee highway. Royston is a member of the Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department.

Capt. Guy N. Church, of Falls Church, has been appointed chairman of the Fairfax County citizens committee of the Citizens Military Training Camps Association of the Third Corps Area. He will be assisted by a group of reserve officers including A. L. Anderson, of Falls Church Richard R. Farr, of Fairfax; M. D. Hall, of Burke; Edward D. Vosbury, of Merrifield; Ralph T. Powell, and Wells A. Sherman, of McLean, and Harold F. Hanes and H. A. Sager, of Herndon.

The application for the various training camps should be made as soon as possible to some member of the committee.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Woodlawn Baptist Church will hold its meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Miller, near Mount Vernon.

Miss Hope Elizabeth Hautt, interdenominational missionary to the American Indian, plans to give talks on the life and habits of the Indians in the schools of Fairfax County during the next two weeks. Miss Hautt yesterday obtained permission of Divisional Superintendent of Schools Wilbert T. Woodson to give these talks. Her first lecture will be given Thursday evening in the auditorium of the Lee-Jackson High School.

Harry V. Leigh, of Andrew Chapel, has announced that he will be a Democratic candidate for supervisor from Providence district of Fairfax County, subject to the primary in August. Mr. Leigh is completing his second term as supervisor from this district and has for many years been closely identified with the civic and political movements of that district.

Robert D. Graham, secretary of the Fairfax County Fair Association, has issued a call for a special meeting of stockholders of the County Fair Association for this evening in his office in the Richardson Building at Fairfax. The stockholders will vote on whether to grant the State Highway Commission a right of way through the fair grounds for the construction of the Lee highway cut-off planned from Wilcoxen's farm on the Lee highway to the junction of the Little River pike, 1 mile northwest of Fairfax. This cut-off was surveyed several years ago by the State so as to route the through traffic away from the congested area of the town of Fairfax. All of the property owners along the route with the exception of the Fair Association has granted the State the necessary right of way.

The Fairfax County Red Cross executive committee will meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the supervisors' room of the Fairfax County Courthouse.

The Nazarene Guild of Falls Church will hold its meeting this morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Samuel H. Styles in Falls Church. This will be followed at 11 o'clock by a meeting of the Daughters of the King. This afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the Sewing Circle and study class of the Women's Auxiliary of the Falls Church Episcopal Church will hold its meeting at the home of Mrs. Styles.

CLUB IN ALEXANDRIA HEARS ZONING TALK

New Engineer Reaches City and Tells Rotarians of Advantages.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Irving C. Root, engineer for the recently appointed Alexandria city zoning commission, made his first appearance here yesterday when he addressed the local Rotary Club, outlining the value of zoning to a community, which, he said, insures health, fire protection, comfort, good morals and prosperity.

Mr. Root explained each advantage claimed for the zoning system, with illustrations of what has been done in other cities.

The speaker stated the first zoning laws were enacted in Boston in 1909 with the passage of laws regulating the height of buildings, thus doing away with the jagged building line and establishing the Back Bay district of five-story buildings. The first comprehensive ordinance was adopted, he said, by New York City in 1916, setting forth regulations establishing the property setback and side yards.

Frank Bane, former president of the Richmond Rotary Club, a member of the Hoover Unemployment Commission, made a short talk describing the suffering in Arkansas and Oklahoma, stating the Red Cross is feeding 137,000 families in Arkansas.

The meeting was presided over by Fred C. Goodnow, vice president, in the absence of Judge William S. Snow, president.

The Chamber of Commerce at its meeting Monday indorsed a movement having for its object the erection in or near Alexandria a structure to be known as the "George Washington Memorial Atheneum," which will cost $500,000. The resolution authorizes the chamber to enter into a contract with James Denson, publicity expert, newspaperman and historian, to raise the money, and more if necessary, and that the contract to provide entertainment in the form of a radio program to be broadcast over Station WJSV three hours each week for a term of one year.

The financial report was submitted by George F. Downham, chairman of the committee, which disclosed that $4,140.25 is owing in back dues by members. He recommended steps be taken to collect this money.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held next Monday, when the selection of the directors wil be announced.

Park A. Kersey has been elected exalted ruler of Alexandria Lodge, No. 758, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, to serve for one year. Other officers are Frederick P. Russell, esteemed leading knight; E. J. Fleming, esteemed loyal knight; Windsor Demaine, esteemed lecturing knight; Herman Freidlander, treasurer for the twentieth consecutive term; George H. Railing, secretary; Harry Fedder, tiler, and A. L. Peake, trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the refusal of W. E. Moore to be a candidate for the office again.

James Reece Duncan, retiring exalted ruler, was presented with a gavel made from the wood of a fence on the scene of the Battle of Bull Run.

The new officers will be installed April 13.

J. T. Lyles, 86 years old, died Monday night at the home of his son, Edward W. Lyles, 113 South Alfred street. Besides the son, Edward W. Lyles, he is survived by two sons Thomas H. Lyles and John W. Lyles, of Fairfax County, and three daughters, Mrs. George W. Peverell, of Franconia, Fairfax County; Mrs. Clinton Ballenger and Mrs. Frank Ballenger of Fairfax County. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from Sharon Chapel, and will be conducted by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Sharon Cemetery.

Mrs. Annie Peterson, 76 years old, widow of Albert J. Peterson, and a native of Montgomery, Ala., died Monday evening at her home, 218 South Alfred street. The funeral will be held from the home at 3 o'clock this afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Dr D. L. Snyder pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Burial will be in Ivy Hill Cemetery. She is survived by a son, Louis W. Peterson.

Husband Charged With Slaying Wife

Salesman Held Declares Accidental Pistol Shot Killed Spouse.

Richmond, Va., March 10 (A.P.).—William P. Whiteside, salesman and World War veteran, was released on $10,000 bond today for his appearance on March 27 at a preliminary hearing on charges of murder growing out of the death of his wife.

Mrs. Ruia Lowry Whiteside, 38, died this morning in a hospital where she had been taken from her home several hours earlier. The coroner returned a verdict of death from a fractured skull "as the result of a pistol wound."

A written report by detectives investigating the affair quoted Whiteside as saying his wife was shot accidentally when he said an automatic pistol on a table after using it to demonstrate in connection with a story of his war experiences. W. D. Davis, also a traveling salesman, who was present when the shooting occurred, likewise was quoted as saying the shooting was accidental so far as he knew. The preliminary hearing was postponed at request of detectives investigating the case after Mr. Whiteside had been taken into court this morning.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

I.

I AM yet to crash the papers,
And I'm quite unknown to fame;
Not inclined to pranks and capers,
I'm a much neglected dame;
But I ought to have a chance with
Press and public, fickle pair,
For I've never had a dance with England's natty royal heir.

II.

To the first page I'm a stranger;
Of my photo no sheets boast;
There has never been much danger
That I'd be a planet's toast;
But I feel I must be clever
And distinct from most females,
For I've never, never, never Danced with Edward, Prince of Wales!

III.

Not a country knows my first name,
Not a continent my last,
And I guess that, if the worst came,
By the tabloids I'd be passed;
Still I hope to scale the deadline
And achieve some notice since
I'm a girl of whom no headline
Ever said "She Danced With Prince."

IV.

I HAVE caused no flashing powder
To be burned with boomings loud,
And no cries of "Louder! Louder!"
Have assailed me from the crowd;
Picture men I am in bad with,
But to fame I yet may forge,
On the ground no dance I've had with Edward Albert Christian George!

V.

Recognition soon will greet me,
Though it's been so long delayed;
Correspondents soon will meet me,
And I'll know I've made the grade;
For a girl's fame is attested
In this world of gay romance
If she's never been requested
By the Prince of Wales to dance.

VI.

There are people few who know me
(And they're all in my home town);
News reel pictures never show me—
No one knows that I'm aroun';
But for fame I now am ready—
I deserve publicity.
For I've never danced with Eddie—
And he's never danced with me!

MAN CHARGES WIFE MARRIED FOR MONEY

Delbert E. Libbey Asks for Court to Annul Marriage to Tuxedo Woman.

Alleging that he was married for his money while mentally and physically deficient due to a paralytic stroke, Delbert E. Libbey, former librarian in the House of Representatives, yesterday filed suit in Prince Georges County Circuit Court for an annulment of his marriage to Irene M. Libbey, of Tuxedo, Md.

The man, who lives at 715 Portland street southeast, says that after the woman had spent his money and squandered his salary of $175 a month, she attempted to have him placed in St. Elizabeths Hospital for the Insane. Failing in this, she had him committed to Gallinger and "left him to the mercy of various charities."

According to the bill, which was filed through Attorneys Ryon and Hassall, he met the woman when she hailed him on the road and asked him for a ride. He says that she took advantage of his condition and imposed herself on him, going to his home with him that night.

She represented her three brothers as eminent doctors who would assist in curing him and said that her parents were wealthy and would provide funds for his support, his bill says.

The couple was married in Rockville on January 30, just five days after he picked her up on the road. At that time, he says, he was unable to speak six words coherently. She spent his investments, he charges, and gained control of his salary, leaving him in "abject poverty."

Southside Medical Body Has Quarterly Session With Large Attendance.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 10.—Between 75 and 100 leading physicians from four cities and fourteen counties of the State and superintendents of the State hospitals attended the quarterly convention of the Southside Medical Association of Virginia, which was held in connection with the department of clinical education of the Medical Society of Virginia at the Central State Hospital this afternoon.

The convention was called to order by the president of the medical association, Dr. Ruth Mason, of Petersburg, and the invocation was by the Rev. J. Edwin Hemphill, pastor of Tabb Street Presbyterian Church.

The address of welcome was by Dr. H. C. Henry, superintendent of the Central State Hospital, and the response by Dr. Mason.

The association is composed of the physicians of Petersburg, Hopewell, Norfolk and Suffolk, and the counties of Amelia, Brunswick, Dinwiddie, Prince George, Greensville, Surrey, Sussex, Isle of Wight, Lunenburg, Prince Edward, Nottoway, Southampton, Mecklenburg and Nansemond.

Addresses on various medical and surgical subjects were made by Dr. William A. White, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Frank H. Redwood, Norfolk; Dr. Richard B. Easley, Richmond; Dr. F. C. Rinker, Norfolk; Dr. David C. Wilson, University of Virginia; Dr. George W. Brown, Williamsburg; Dr. George H. Reese, of Petersburg, and Dr. John R. Gill, Petersburg.

Dr. Reese in his address gave a report on 750 consecutive abdominal operations. Among the physicians attending the convention were Dr. George W. Brown, superintendent of the Eastern State Hospital, at Williamsburg; Dr. J. S. Dejarnette, superintendent of the Western State Hospital at Staunton; Dr. Paul V. Anderson, of Richmond, director of the clinics, and Dr. J. Allison Hodges, president of the State Medical Society.

The afternoon session was followed tonight by a dinner tendered by the officials of the Central State Hospital, at which addresses were made by Dr. Dejarnette and Dr. Hodges.

MEMBERSHIP ROW SHAKES CIVIC BODY

Kensington Groups Voted Into Montgomery Circle After Fiery Debate.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4206.

Following two hours of recrimination and bitter argument, the Montgomery County Civic Federation early yesterday morning voted to admit both the Kensington Chamber of Commerce and the Kensington Board of Trade to membership in the federation and then recessed until tomorow night at 8 o'clock when the meeting will be continued to hear business crowded out by the membership fight.

It was 1 o'clock when the weary delegates cleared from the Bethesda School after the recess. The meeting was ended, but the arguments and recriminations were not. Little groups of delegates gathered on the pavement in front of the school to discuss the proceedings.

The membership committee of the federation, headed by George H. Lamar, of Rockville, had reported that in its opinion the board of trade should be admitted and the chamber of commerce refused until it had changed its name and applied as a citizens association, holdnig that the board of trade was a bona fide quasi commercial body while the chamber smacked much more of the civic order.

Edward H. Jones, of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, then rose and declared that he believed the entire report was "much ado about nothing," and presented an amendment by which the federation would nonconcur in the report, discharge the committee and proceed to consider the applications in the order filed.

Several other speakers discussed the motion and the motion finally was lost when President Stephen James ruled that a two-thirds vote would be necessary to discharge a committee. The vote was 28 to 28.

Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader, then declared that the chairman of the membership committee had injected politics into the federation in his effort to favor an organization which opposed the Democratic organization. "We have not tried to inject politics into the federation," he said, "but we do object when practical politicians of the other side discriminate against an organization which is friendly to us."

Mr. Lamar then rose and shouted: "That statement is untrue." There followed a lengthy verbal tilt between the two until Maj. Lee appealed to the president: "This gentleman has called me a liar. I haven't called him anything. I am anxious to continue my talk without interruption."

Maj. Lee offered an amendment to the Lamar committee report which would add the recommendation that the chamber of commerce be admitted. After much discussion, in the course of which J. V. Morgan, of Bethesda, was applauded when he threatened to resign from the committee and from the federation, the amendment was adopted and the federation recessed.

Several important committee reports will be presented tomorrow night at the meeting which will be held in the Bethesda School.

The applications of the Sandy Spring Community Council and the Glenmont Center Citizens Association were received for membership.

The federation adopted recommendations of the committee on by-laws and constitution that the time of debate allotted to each member be reduced to 10 minutes and 5 minutes in two talks on each subject.

The federation opposed passage of the health board act for the county, which is before the State Legislature, and urged that a survey be made by experts of the United States Public Health Service before health code is enacted. In the meantime,
